Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Continues To Grow

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau leaders on Tuesday presented a message to delegates, members, state legislators and friends that the organization is healthy and has come of age as a representative of agricultural community consensus.

The message was especially delivered by PFB President Guy Donaldson in two speeches made Tuesday during the Monday-to-Wednesday PFB 48th annual convention at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

During the President's Luncheon event, Donaldson talked about the strength of the organization in its membership campaign, and how the services and programs and effective promotion of Farm Bureau policies have helped to boost membership.

He reported that the organization had 26,149 members for 1998, and that 47 out of 54 county groups met their membership goal.

Additionally, 50 counties reported at least one additional member over last year, and that 17 counties reported all-time high

The past several weeks a lot of turkey growers have been preparing for the holiday season, the busiest for the processors and retailers in terms of sales. The weeks previously Lynn Horst had shipped out a great deal of birds for Wampler Foods, of which he is under contract, to New Oxford. A couple of weeks before Thanksgiving Horst was busy caring for seven-week-old hens, British United Turkey breed. Horst poses with his son, Jeffrey in front of the farm sign. Photo by Andy Andrews

Tobacco Marketing Cooperative Asks Farmers To Join Now

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — The formation of a tobacco marketing cooperative in Lancaster County received a push forward this week as the financial pressures of the unsold 1997 crop lying in barns under the hanging new crop brought 125 farmers (mostly Amish) out to an organizational meeting at the Paradise Community Building Wednesday night. And many farmers handed over the $50 membership fee on the spot with several hundred agreements taken along to be returned later and distributed to neighbors and friends.

The new cooperative to be organized under the name of Pennsylvania Tobacco Marketing

This Year Excellent For Turkey Growing

ANDY ANDREWS

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co) — May 1997 seems farther away than about a year and a half for the Horst family.

That month, a fire broke out in a faulty brooder stove and ignited dry shavings on the floor of a two-story wooden brooder barn, igniting the dry wood in there. "The barn went in no time," said Lynn Horst. "It made a hot fire."

Lynn, with wife Starla and children Stacy, 6, in the first grade at Hanover Mennonite School; Jeffrey, 3; and Chad, 1 year, don't look on the disaster of that spring as devastating. In fact, for the turkey farmers, two weeks after the fire "we were moving dirt," said Lynn, installing a new barn, finished in September 1997.

The new barn is a blessing in itself — the old building measured 40 by 300 feet in size. The new brooder barn measures 50 by 300 feet, enough for 2,000 more birds, Horst said.

The past several weeks a lot of turkey growers have been preparing for the holiday season, the busiest for the processors and retailers in terms of sales. The weeks previously Horst had shipped out a great deal of birds for Wampler Foods, of which he is under contract, to New Oxford. Lancaster Farmland Trust Preserves 100 Farms In 10 Years

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

STRASBURG (Lancaster Co.) — "Last year, (at the nineth annual meeting) we looked at the possibility of preserving 100 farms in 10 years," said Tom Stouffer, executive director of the Lancaster Farmland Trust. "And here we are (at the 10th annual dinner), and it looks like we will have 95 farms preserved by the end of 1998 with five more farms under agreement to be recorded by the end of January, 1999. I consider this to be amazing success."

The Lancaster Farmland Trust is a private, non-profit organization working to preserve the rich and productive farmland in Lancaster

CATTLE: Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steer and heifer prices were .50 lower. Quality of supply was much improved from last week, but continued pressure leading up to next week's turkey holiday held prices 1.00-1.50 lower than last week. A light test of Holstein steers sold mostly steady. Slaughter cows sold fully steady and bull prices were 1.00, instances 2.00 lower. Supply included 26 percent slaughter steers and 37 percent slaughter cows.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was seasonal slow to fair. Seller offerings varied from well balanced to readily available. Live supplies were moderate; weights were irregularly light to heavy. Processing schedules were reduced or cancelled at some plants and were about moderate overall. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 58 to 72 cents. Trade sentiment was barely steady. In the parts complex, breast items were in ample supply. Leg quarters were competitively priced at several plants in an effort to stimulate additional movement. Wings continued to clear well and were generally no more than adequate.

Atlanta, Ga.

EXTRA LARGE AND LARGE WERE UNCHANGED TO TWO CENTS HIGHER IN PHILADELPHIA; LARGE WERE UNCHANGED TO ONE CENT HIGHER IN BOSTON; AND IN NEW ENGLAND, EXTRA LARGE WERE THREE CENTS HIGHER AND LARGE WERE TWO CENTS HIGHER. ALL OTHER PRICES WERE UNCHANGED. THE MARKET TONE REMAINED FULLY STEADY TO FIRM. DEMAND WAS GOOD TO VERY GOOD AND BOTH RETAILERS AND DISTRIBUTORS INCREASED FLOOR STOCKS IN ANTICIPATION OF INCREASED CONSUMER SHOPPING FOR UPCOMING HOLIDAY NEEDS. SUPPLIES WERE TIGHT TO ADEQUATE WITH THE LARGE SIZES IN THE CLOSEST POSITION. BREAKING STOCK SUPPLIES WERE GENERALLY ADEQUATE FOR THE LIGHT TO MODERATE DEMAND. LIGHT TYPE HEN AVAILABILITY WAS ABOUT SUFFICIENT FOR FULL SLAUGHTER SCHEDULES.

NORTHHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity continued to reflect the holiday buying patterns usually expected at this time of the year. Offerings were more than adequate to satisfy the limited, cautious, and very selective trade interest. Retail and distributive movement was typical of a pre Thanksgiving period. The market tone was unsettled.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

Prices were unchanged to higher for the large sizes in the Northeast, Southeast, and Midwest, and unchanged on the balance. The market tone continued steady to firm. Demand remained moderate to very good, mostly moderate to good, and was best into retail channels. Supplies were generally adequate to instances tight, and additional supplies continued to be maintained with confidence for holiday distribution; some operations ran extended grading hours to prepare cartoned eggs for holiday orders. Breaking stock supplies were no more than adequate for the irregular, but mostly light to moderate demand; finished product sales of liquid and frozen eggs continued very good. Light type hen supplies were no more than adequate for full slaughter schedules.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Grain and soybean bids finished higher as wheat and corn advanced due to overnight export demand and soybean bids received support from higher meal and oil trade. Wheat 2 to 7 cents higher. Corn 1 to 5 cents higher. Sorghum 4 to 8 cents higher. Soybeans 2 to 5 cents higher. Although South Korea bought only a small amount of US wheat overnight, traders anticipate 1.3 million tonnes of US wheat donations. Higher corn and bean bids also underpinned wheat bids. Good export sales of corn to South Korea overnight. Additional sup- came from indications that South Korea is likely to accept one billion dollars in US credits for grain. Harvest pressure kept a lid on gains. Soybean bids followed the higher trends with strength from soyoil and soybean meal demand. The USDA forecasted a cut to India's bean crop of .4 million tonnes, this also offered support. Continued harvest pressure but corn and bean harvest nearly complete.

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers steady. Feeder cattle demand moderate and improved from last week despite sharp declines in cattle futures on Monday. Steer and heifer calves steady to 2.00 higher. Demand good for calves as weather has been excellent for wheat pasture growth. Bulk supply continues calves. Quality of feeder cattle mostly plain to average; calves average to attractive. Calves in slightly thin to fleshy conditions; feeder cattle in mostly medium flesh. Weigh- ups average. Slaughter cows and bulls 1.00-2.00 lower. Packer demand good at this level with widespread participation. Demand remains good for grazing and replacement cows. Total of 1,370 cows and bulls sold with 65 percent to packers. Receipts this week 16,450; last week 14,113; last year 10,717. Supply consisted of 41 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 54 percent calves under 600 lbs; 8 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

"Best Kept Secret In The Broiler Business"

L.B.WHITE® Infraconic Heat Efficiency

By maximizing the conversion of gas to radiant energy, the L.B. White Infraconic gives you more heat for your fuel dollar as well as a broader area of heat output and more consistent temperature at bird level. With more consistent temperatures and a larger 'comfort zone', the infraconic helps your birds grow by keeping them warm, making it easier for them to find feed and water, and keeping the litter drier.

Lightweight and easy to install, the Infraconic is also simple to clean and maintain. And because the Infraconic hangs higher than other brooders, it's easier to work around during production or clean out.

L.B. White Infraconic brooders are available in 17,100 and 34,200 Btuh outputs, as well as your choice of LP or natural gas.

Winter Is Soon Here, Are Your Heaters Ready?

Flexible and economical heat:
- Models to meet different needs, with heat outputs from 30,000 to 325,000 Btuh, plus variable outputs for greater heating efficiency.
- All models are available for use with propane or natural gas
- Compact profiles and indoor or outdoor mounting capability for easy installation and efficient use of space.

Reliable and durable:
- Sentinel System III advanced diagnostic controls monitor all primary heater functions for dependable worry-free operation.
- Sentinel System III diagnostics pinpoint potential heater interruptions quickly and accurately to save time and money.
- High quality components and solid case construction washdowns and years of dependable service in corrosive environments

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

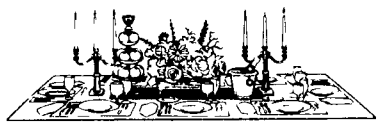
ST. CLEMENT, NOV. 23.

ALL MANNERS AND VERSE

While waiting for the Thanksgiving turkey to roast, set guests to work caging verses for place cards describing the person who will sit there. Even very young children can come up with simple rhymes or help decorate the cards, but be mindful of good manners If second-cousin Reginald is sensitive and bald, you might better elect to suppress the rhyme in favor of common etiquette and family peace. To increase the fun, purchase a paperback rhyming dictionary before the holiday gathering to spur greater creativity



Plague on the fool who taught us to confine the swelling thought within a measured line.

– Nicolas Boileau Despreaux

TIP OF THE WEEK

SWEET POTATOES AND APPLES

6 medium sweet potatoes
6 medium cooking apples
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup apple cider
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon allspice

Alternate layers of potatoes and apples in a greased 2-quart casserole, drizzling cider syrup over each layer. Cover and bake at 350° F for 20 minutes

Makes about 4 cups.

Cook, peel, and slice potatoes Peel, core, and slice apples Melt butter over medium heat, add remaining ingredients and simmer 5 minutes

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If the late autumn is unusually bright, the spring is cold as a general rule.

A wet fall indicates a cold and early winter.

Thunder in November on the northern lakes is taken as a sign that the lakes will remain open until at least the middle of December.

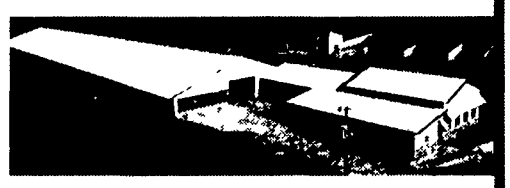
The Building you want.
The Lease you need.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules. Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.

OPINION

Thanks Farmers!

Thanks in large part to our nation's farmers, the quality of life the American people enjoy today is the envy of the world. This was also noted in a proclamation by President Clinton in honor of National Farm-City Week November 20 to 26, 1998.

Farmers and ranchers provide us with a safe, abundant, and affordable supply of food and fiber. American agriculture remains one of our country's most important and productive industries, generating more than 22 million jobs and contributing a trillion dollars to the American economy each year.

We believe it is important that everyone knows about this important national resource. Not only has agriculture reduced soil erosion and restored thousands of acres of wetlands, by using modern technology and environmentally responsible methods, farmers have greatly imporved our nation's water supply too.

It is fitting that Farm-City Week coincides with our traditional Thanksgiving Day activities. Truly, the strength and prosperity of the nation starts with agriculture and the land. As we celebrate Thanksgiving with family and friends, let us remember to count among our many blessings America's agricultural abundance that contributes so much to the guality of our lives.

Now Is The Time

To Respond To DOPP

Dairy farmers in Berks, Bradford, Chester, Crawford, Franklin and Lancaster counties should have received information from USDA on the Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP). This is an educational program to help dairy farmers learn how to use the options market to set a minimum price for the milk they receive. Up to 100 farmers in each of these counties will have the opportunity to participate in this educational program.

The federal government will pay 80 per cent of the premium for the option and $30 of broker fees. To participate in the program, dairy farmers must complete the application and sign the contract and return it to Risk Management Agency (RMA) by December 11. RMA will notify selected producers of the time and location of the required training meeting.

For Pennsylvania it will be the first week in January, 1999 To help farmers to better understand this program, the cooperative extension office in these counties have planned meetings to explain DOPP. Contact your county cooperative extension office for the date and location of meetings for your county. If you are interested in learning how you can manage milk prices, consider to participate in this program by filling out your forms today

To Establish Health program

Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent, reminds us that vaccines used in an established health program may help reduce many different disease problems in cattle

A number of new vaccines and combination vaccines have been introduced in the last few years. It is important to know which vaccines to use on your farm, when to use them and what other measures are necessary for disease control.

Use of vaccines that are not appropriate for your operation may increase costs unnecessarily. Consult with your veterinarian on the selection of vaccines. Modify vaccination programs as diseases, farm conditions and available vaccines change. Leave treatment of sick animals to your veterinarian.

Mark all vaccination dates on a barn calendar to ensure proper timing of vaccines. Scheduled vaccination programs are only one part of maintaining a healthy herd. Develop a complete program of management, sanitation, feeding and health care to assure a healthy and profitable herd.

To Vaccinate Properly

According to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent, vaccination does not always produce immunization. Sick or stressed cattle may not develop immunity following vaccination. The immune system of newborn calves is poorly developed and will not respond to vaccines as effectively as calves three months of age or older. Maternal immunity from colostrum intake may last for to 6 to 8 months and may prevent development of immunity from vaccination.

Following are some pointers for effective vaccine use: With your veterinarian, develop the right vaccination program for your farm. Review and update the vaccine program at least twice a year.

Buy fresh and refrigerated vaccine from a reliable source. Keep vaccine refrigerated until time of use. Follow label directions exactly. Give recommended dose. Give by recommended route. Use sterile disposable syringes that have not been used for other drugs.

Discard outdated vaccine or opened bottles that cannot be used right away. Do not use unnecessary vaccines. Do not mix two vaccines unless so indicated by manufacturer's directions. Do not vaccinate sick or stressed cattle.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "You must do the things you think you cannot do."

CAN THESE BONES LIVE?
November 22, 1998

Background Scripture:
Ezekiel 37
Devotional Reading:
Jeremiah 29:4-14

Ezekiel knew it was a trick question, so he gave a tricky answer: "O Lord God, thou knowest" (37:3) It was an answer that wasn't an answer. The scene he beheld must have convinced him that there was no hope that these bones could live again. There were not just bones, but, as the writer tells us, "...and lo, there were very dry." But, if these bones could not live again, why then would God ask this question?

Sometimes we find ourselves in Ezekiel's shoes. We look at a situation and it seems totally hopeless. All the evidence points in the other direction so that hope for anything seems quite futile and absurd. Yet, if God were to come to us and ask, "Can these bones live?", we'd have to wonder why he was asking. And, if we're wise, we will answer as Ezekiel did: "O Lord, thou knowest."

It is well to not here that God did not ask Ezekiel if he saw any signs of life. That would have been a much easier question to answer. No, the people these bones represented were truly dead and there was not even any flesh on them to revive There was nothing in these bones that gave any evidence or hope for new life.

NO HOPE AT ALL

The key to this vision, however, was not in the bones. By themselves, these bones would never be anything else again but bones, dry bones. But God said to Ezekiel, "Prophesy to these bones, and say to them, O dry bones, hear the word of the Lord...Behold, I will cause breath to enter you, and you shall live" (37:5).

The hope was not in the bones, but in the Lord. While the dry bones could do nothing, the Lord could and would breath new life into them. They would live again because it was God's will to bring them to life once more.

Now, of course this spiritual experience of Ezekiel is not about God actually raising up a whole valley of real dry bones, but something greater than that: it is about what he intends to do with his people Israel. The Hebrew word, ruah, which we translate here as "spirit," can also be translated as "breath" and "wind." The "breath" of God is the "spirit" which he breathes into us. It is the life that animates our flesh and bones. New life is impossible for us, but not for the God who can breath that life into us.

WHEN HOPE IS LOST

Ezekiel's vision is directly derived from the situation of the exiles in their captivity. That is why God says to the prophet, "Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold they say, 'Our bones are dried up, and our hope is lost; we are clean cut off'" (37:11). It was understandable that the people of Israel should have thought that. Nothing in their situation led them to any other conclusion.

But even in the midst of death, figurative and literal, there are always grounds for hope. Not because of the bones—not the physical circumstances in which we find ourselves—but because of God and his purpose. "And I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land; then you shall know that I, the Lord, have spoken, and I have done it, says the Lord" (37:14).

All of us have seen various valleys of dry bones. All of us have been confronted by situations that appeared to be quite without hope. And when God asks us, "Son of man, can these bones live?", we are wise if we answer, "O Lord God thou knowest." For when God breathes his spirit on us, even the driest of bones can live again!

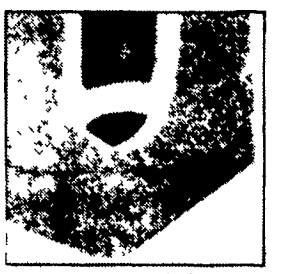
YOU CAN PRODUCE MORE MILK BY SUPPLYING MORE WATER

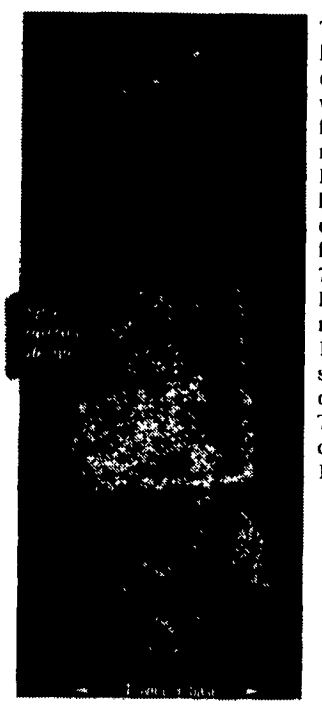
Introducing the all new Richie WaterMaster 72/144

Easy access to valve & float by removing one cover panel.

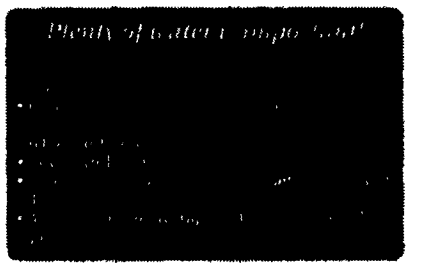
The best valve and float combination featuring a large throat for rapid fill. Fills at 20 gal./min at 50 psi. Ask about special low and high pressure valves

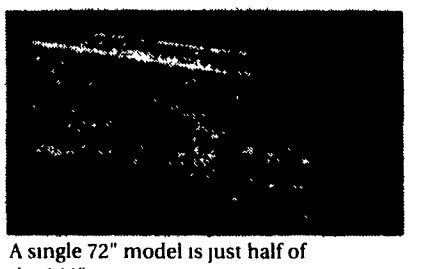


A rotocast polyethylene body features thick urethane insulation. Each 72" unit has 6 recessed heavy web anchors.



The 144" model holds a maximum of 52 gallons of water and will flush/drain clean in 60 seconds! Large 3" drains are located at each end The complete fountain will fill in 78 seconds at 50 PSI. A single 72" model will water 125 head of dairy stock or 250 head of beef cattle These capacities double with the 144" model.





A single 72" model is just half of the 144" unit

Dairy Farmers Of America Makes $28 Million Allocation To 1997 Mid-Am Members

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Members of Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) who were members of Mid-America Dairymen (Mid-Am) in 1997, received payments on one of the most profitable years in Mid-Am history this month with the distribution of the 1997 Mid-Am earnings allocation totalling $28.04 million. Twenty percent of the allocation was distributed to members in cash and the other 80 percent was applied to the member's base capital equity in Dairy Farmers of America.

In the 20 percent cash distribution, more than 14,000 checks were mailed in September totaling $5.6 million. The remaining $22.44 million of the allocation distribution was credited to member equity accounts and becomes part of each member's base equity in the new dairy marketing cooperative DFA board chairman Herman Brubaker of West Alexandria, Ohio, said the base capital program is critical to the success of Dairy Farmers of America. "Every dynamic and growing organization needs equity in order to sustain growth and build markets. The equity our members hold in DFA allows us to grow and maximize earnings through investment in modern processing facilities and joint ventures that add to the bottom line earnings of our organization."

Pregnancy Success - Article 24

The last article focused on setting reproductive goals and calving intervals Setting goals is easy, but accomplishing them can be a challenge, because "things" don't always go as planned

In Table 1, examples 1 and 2 compare what happens when there is a problem with heat detection and conception rates In example 1, heat detection rate was only 53% and if only 38% of those heats resulted in a pregnancy (conception rate), the overall pregnancy success rate was only 20%! In other words, only 1/5 of the heats resulted in a pregnancy At that rate it will take 105 days beyond the volunteer waiting until you get cows settled That translates into 165 days open and a 15 month calving interval Each extra day open can cost you about $2 50 Thus, the extra 2-month delay could cost you $140 per lactation or $113 per cow per year! If you are aiming for a 13 month calving interval, as illustrated in example 2, you'll need to have an 80 % heat detection rate and a 60% conception rate, or some combination thereof

So, what goals do you need to set for yourself to attain the pregnancy success rate you want? Are you on track with the goals you have set? When things are not going right, what can you do to help improve the reproductive performance of your herd? Here are a few things to consider

- Is the breeding problem nutrition related? Check the energy balance of the ration, the flesh condition of the cows, and milk urea nitrogen (MUN) levels Cows don't conceive very well when they are in negative energy balance, when the ration is out of balance, or when urea nitrogen levels are high
- Is the breeding problem caused by heat stress? If so, plan your breeding and calving seasons accordingly, or take measures to protect cows from heat stess
- Is the breeding problem caused by infections and diseases? If cows' have calving difficulties and retained placentas, and if maternity areas are unsanitary, the risk of uterine infections increases

  Check the sanitation of the maternity area?

  Is the herd bull spreading infections?

  Are cows carrying diseases that suppress their immune systems?

  Were cows properly vaccinated?

  Consider using hormone therapy to help flush infections out of cows' reproductive tracts and prepare them for insemination, it might be cheaper and more effective than doing rectals

- Is the breeding problem related to heat detection, semen handling, and inseminating techniques?

  Consider programmed breeding in an effort to bring groups of cows into heat at one time It creates more sexual activity, concentrates heat detection time, and makes heats easier to detect

  Cows are most active between 6 p m and 6 a m Watch cows for heat twice a day, between these hours, when they are not preoccupied with other activities such as eating

  Consider using heat detection aids, such as marking the rumps with crayon, using pressure pad sensors on the rumps, motion detectors, etc

  Check timing of insemination and inseminating techniques

  Discuss these concerns with your veterinarian and your AI technician

Farmers' Market Federation To Host Regional Meetings

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The newly formed organization for farmers markets, the Farmers' Market Federation of New York, is holding a series of four regional meetings this December.

The meetings, entitled "Learning From Each Other," are meant for anyone interested in the Farmers' Market Federation or farmers' markets. These meetings will have a twofold purpose.

First, the Farmers' Market Federation will be introduced to the audience. The background of its development will be shared with the participants to give a better understanding of the need for such an organization. This presentation will be given by Bob Lewis, chief marke'ing representatives from the NYS Department of Agriculture and Markets, and by Monika Roth, Cornell Cooperative Extension of Tomkins County. Lewis and Roth were instrumental in obtaining grant money to develop the organization, as well as being a vital part of the steering committee guiding the organization through its infancy

Next, Diane Eggert, the federation project coordinator, will detail the programs and services the organization will have to offer its members. To date, these services will include such things as insurance, educational programming, promotions, and a quarterly newsletter. Finally, the meeting participants will be given the chance to voice their needs and concerns for the federation.

Secondly, the marketers in attendance will have an opportunity to hear from other markets At each of the regional meetings, three farmers' market managers have been selected to give a profile of their market. They will discuss how their market operates, some of their successes and some of their failures. Following this the audience will break up into round table discussions on attracting new farmers to your market, promotions, and rules/management. Everyone is encouraged to participate in these open discussions and take the opportunity to ask questions of others, offer opinions, and advise and take home new ideas gleaned from each other.

The meetings will take place in four separate areas of the state:

- Dec. 1, Erie County Extension Office, East Aurora, N.Y.
- Dec. 4, CNY Regional Market, Syracuse, N.Y.
- Dec. 10, Dutchess County Extension Office, Millbrook, N.Y.
- Dec. 15, Best Western Hotel, Cobleskill, N.Y.

If you are interested in more information about these meetings or would like to register to attend, call the Farmers' Market Federation office at (315) 475-1101.

Penn State Dairymen's Club Hold 20th Anniversary Celebration

JUDITH PATTON
Union Co. Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE, Centre Co. - Lloyd Ebersole, the first president of the Penn State Dairymen's Club, highlighted the 20th annual banquet meeting with a review of the club's history in providing support for dairy science programs, particularly the judging teams, as well as being a liason between alumni and students. Ebersole has been an assistant manager of Sire Power since 1979 and is a director of the National Association of Animal Breeders and a former director of Dairy Shrine.

The Service Award this year went to Dr. Larry Muller, who has been a dedicated Penn State dairy science faculty member since 1978. In addition to being an advisor and teacher to undergraduate and graduate students in dairy nutrition and management, Muller has been instrumental in making the Penn State Dairy Club ranked one of the best in the country as its co-advisor.

In addition to his work at Penn State, Muller is the current president of the American Dairy Science Association and has been president of the Northeast division, director of the production division, and advisor to the national student affiliate of ADSA. He has also served on the National Academy of Science Committee for revision of its Nutrient Requirements of Dairy Cattle reference book.

For his work Muller received the Ralston Purina Award for teaching excellence in 1985 and the Merck Ag Vet Dairy Management Award for research in dairy management in 1988. His favorite hobbies are golf and Penn State football.

In board elections the club elected Jayne Hess Sebright and David Lentz to replace Robert Davis and Charles Seidel, whose two-year terms expired. Club officers are: Jeff Hostetter, president; Kirk Sattazahn, vice president; Beth Raney, secretary/treasurer; Carrie Bryant, CAAS representative; Chris Swartz, Andy Foster, Tammy Weaver and Peter Witmer, board members.

Penn State Judging Team coach Dale Olver reported this year's contest results to the Dairymen's Club, which maintains an endowment fund to help pay the team's travel expenses.

Dr. Larry Muller, Penn State dairy science professor and club advisor and president of the national American Dairy Science Association, was the recipient of this year's Penn State Dairymen's Club Service Award.

Team members are Diane Glock, Mifflin; Liza Haas, Millerstown; Heather Oberholtzer, Elizabethtown; and Steve Pavelski, Susquehanna.

At the Eastern States Exposition the team placed third in Jerseys, fourth in Guernseys and fifth in Ayrshires, Holsteins and overall. Pavelski was sixth in Milking Shorthorns, Haas was fifth in Jerseys, Oberholtzer was seventh in Holsteins and ninth in Ayrshires, and Glock was eighth in Brown Swiss, sixth in Guernseys, third in Jerseys and sixth overall.

At the Pennsylvania All-American Contest, the team placed ninth overall and third in Holsteins. Haas placed third in Jerseys. In the National Intercollegiate Contest in Madison they placed tenth overall and were in the top 10 for three breeds It was the sixth consecutive year Penn State was in the top 10 teams. Heather Oberholtzer earned All-American recognition

Association will attempt to attract the southern tobacco buyers for Type 609 cigarette tobacco to the county by holding auctions, hopefully beginning after the start of the new year.

Jane Balmer, a Mt. Joy tobacco farmer who is voluntarily spearheading the effort, said they want to have as many of the 1,100 tobacco farmers as members as possible. Those who support the effort need to get their membership returned before December 1, so that the committee can know how many farmers wish to be part of the effort and how many of the 20 million pounds of tobacco grown each year they will have for sale.

"The committee will decide shortly after December 1 if we have enough cooperation to move forward with the effort," Balmer said. "How many of the farms or what part of the total poundage we need to be effective is the tough question. We are hoping for 70 percent but may be able to make it work with 60 percent. But if farmers want to see some effort put forth, they need to get their membership to us now.

"The question is raised, "What if it doesn't work?" Balmer said. "But I tell farmers we have nothing to lose. We have no market now, and if we can't get it to work, we will return a good part of the $50 membership fee back to the farmer. We will need to hire a lawyer to make sure the cooperative is legal in Pennsylvania, but I work cheep, for nothing. So what do you have to lose? Maybe $10 or $15. And we wouldn't be in any different situation than we are now. But suppose it does work? United we stand, divided we keep on rolling down hill."

In talking to buyers, local farmers have some favorable verbal indications these buyers think the cooperative marketing effort is a good move. But because of the ongoing litigation against the tobacco companies, they have been advised by their lawyers to not discuss marketing to anyone.

Not only does the loss of the tobacco market put hardship on individual farmers, the supporting agri-businesses feel the lost revenue as well. Tobacco money pays off production loans, farm mortages, and equipment and service purchases.

About 25 percent of the county's tobacco is Type 41, used in cigars and chewing tobacco. Lancaster Leaf, a local company, usually buys the bulk of this crop so there is less pressure to find buyers. The committee hasn't decided if Type 41 will also be marketed through a cooperative. Balmer tells the farmers to list seperately the number of pounds of each type they have for sale.

If a majority of the county's tobacco farmers support the effort, committee members expect the cooperative to be up and running in a few weeks. Members will elect a nine-member board of directors. If there is not enough support, the cooperative will dissolve and those who paid a membership fee will receive a partial refund.

An agreement form is printed with this story. Balmer said farmers who wish to support the effort may cut the form from the newspaper, fill out the necessary information, and mail it with their $50 fee to the Lancaster County agent's office. The address is: Penn State Cooperative Extension, % Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, 1381 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601. For more information you may call Anderson at (717) 394-6851.

Additional meetings were scheduled for Thursday night at the Terre Hill Community Building and the Kirkwood Auction Barn.

The meeting held Thursday night at the Terre Hill Community Building attracted 110 farmers. Balmer was pleased with the number who came. An additional meeting in the series was scheduled for Friday night at the Kirkwood Auction Barn after our press deadline.

Cooperative Extension Offers Two Agronomy Workshops

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension in Dauphin County is offering two agronomy workshops on Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Elizabethville Public Library.

The morning workshop is "Crop Rotations That Make Sense (and Money) on Dairy Farms." This workshop explores the application and benefits of different crop rotations on Pennsylvania dairy farms.

A video will be shown that features five Pennsylvania producers sharing their experiences with crop rotations on their farms. The producers will discuss short a corn and alfalfa rotation; incorporation of soybeans and rye, or barley, into a corn/alfalfa rotation; three-year alfalfa and two-year corn rotations; and short growing season rotations.

The afternoon workshop is "Using the Agronomy Guide to Make Crop Management Decisions." Over the years the Penn State Agronomy Guide has become the standard reference for crop production in Pennsylvania. The workshop will provide an overview of the Guide and how to use it to make crop management decisions regarding weed control, fertilizer recommendations, nutrient management, variety selections, and budgets. Those registering for this workshop should bring a recent edition of the Agronomy Guide to the workshop. Participants can purchase the new 1999-2000 Penn State Agronomy Guide at the Dauphin County Extension office.

Participants can attend one or both workshops. Cost is $5 for each workshop. Lunch is on your own. Registration forms are available by contacting the Dauphin County Cooperative Extension office (717) 921-8803 during regular business hours from 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Registration deadline is Friday, Dec. 4.

Pennsylvania Tobacco Marketing Association Agreement

Section 1. Purpose. The undersigned, a producer of agricultural products, hereinafter referred to as "Producer," together with other signers of agreements similar hereto, propose to organize a cooperative association under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the purpose of marketing tobacco.

Section 2. Organization Committee. The Association shall be organized with suitable articles of incorporation and bylaws as determined by an organizational committee consisting of the following persons:

Name	Name	Name
1. Jane Balmer	5. David S. Esh	9. Aaron Lantz
2. Vernon Balmer	6. Henry S. Esh	10. Lawrence Martin
3. Daniel S Diemer, Jr.	7 Benual Fisher	11. David Riehl, Jr.
4. Victor Dohner	8. Daniel S. King	12 Daniel B.Zook

This committee may, by vote of a majority of its members, increase its membership, fill any vacancy therein, and appoint any subcommittees deemed necessary to conduct its affairs. The committee may incur necessary obligations, make necessary expenditures, and take any such action as may, in its discretion, be deemed advisable to further the organization of the association

Section 3. Patronage Commitment. Producer agrees to sign a marketing agreement to commit all the type 609 + Type tobacco produced by Producer, on land owned or leased by Producer, to the association for direct marketing, processing, or other disposition as the association sees fit. 41

Producer estimates such production will total_____ (pounds) in 1998.
If member wishes to terminate his membership in the Association, member must provide Association with written request by October 1.

Section 4. Financial Commitment. Producer agrees to pay a membership fee of $ 50.00, payable when this agreement is signed and accepted by the Association. Once a farmer signs this membership agreement and the association is activated, member must pay association commissions even though he may sell to an off-farm buyer.

Section 5. Calling of Membership Meeting. If, on or before December 1, 1998, the organization committee is of the opinion that sufficient sign up has been obtained to enable the Association to operate efficiently, the committee shall set a time and place for a meeting of those persons who have signed this agreement to determine, by majority vote, whether to proceed with the formation and operation of the association, and to consider such other business as may be deemed appropriate

Not less than ten days before the meeting, notice of the time and place of the meeting shall be sent to all signers by first-class mail, and an appropriate notice shall be published in one or more newspapers of general circulation in the area in which those who signed agreements like this one reside.

Section 6. Accounting. The organization committee shall keep detailed, accurate accounts of all receipts and of all expenditures of every kind. It shall have such accounts audited and render a written report thereof to the board of directors of the association when organized. And it shall thereupon turn over to the association any balance remaining in its hands free of obligation. If the Association is not organized, such unexpended balance shall be prorated among, and returned to, those who contributed to the organization fund. This is a non-profit Association.

This Year Excellent For Turkey Growing

United Turkey breed.

Horst, who farmed in the dairy business with his father Lee near Gettysburg, decided to raise turkeys in 1991. Back then, Horst and his family were finishing turkeys for Round Hill. Wampler-Longacre purchased Round Hill soon after.

In 1991, the Horsts managed flocks of 12,000 light hens each — table birds. Last year, the Horsts finished flocks of 9,000 heavy toms each for Wampler. The Horsts finished 40,000 birds that year.

Again this year, about 14,000 light hens were finished in two buildings for the contractor. They finished about 36,000 toms this past year.

Two finisher barns occupy a great deal of footage on the farm. One measures about 50 by 250 feet and the newer one featuring pole construction measuring 50 by 350 feet. The finisher barns have a dirt floor, are curtain sided, and feature side and overhead ventilation. The 50- by 300-foot brooder barn has a concrete floor.

In another few weeks, about 14,000 hens will be shipped for the Christmas market.

Horst maintains 59 acres on the farm near Gettysburg, mostly in cash crops. The feed for the birds, along with the propane gas for heat, medications, and other supplies, are supplied by Wampler. He supplies the buildings, labor, electricity, and water.

For Horst, the challenges of the season vary from the high heat and heavy humidity of the summer to getting the birds ready for the contractor to ship on time.

Horst noted that he grows different kinds of birds, including hens and toms, for contract. The toms come in weighing less than an ounce and are shipped at 19 weeks weighing more than 34 pounds. Average gain per day is .2553, almost a quarter pound of muscle mass a day.

Hens weigh about the same when arriving. They are shipped from 14-16 pounds each. They require less feed, of course, than the toms.

The hens and toms are fed different formulations depending on their ages.

Four flocks of toms are shipped each year. For the hens, Horst can finish about 5-6 flocks.

"This year we had an excellent growing season," said Horst. "We had a hot spell in July and again in August, but it wasn't bad enough to lose turkeys from the heat. It was just an excellent year for raising turkeys."

The crops did well this year, despite droughty conditions in some parts of the county.

Horst raises corn for grain. He grows about 21 acres of corn and 30 acres in beans, all cash cropped.

The corn and soybeans, he said, are "sitting in the bins waiting for a better market." The ground, which lays low, holds the moisture in drier conditions. They can till in a wet year.

Daily chores with the turkeys include moving the waterers to different spots to keep the litter drier. Cakes of litter need to be cleaned up regularly. When finished with the flock, the floor is tilled up and sawdust is placed.

The heat and other environmental conditions are all computer-controlled in the houses. Fans keep birds cool in the summertime. The key is controlling the humidity.

"Turkeys can't take humidity," he said. "If it's 100 degrees outside and there is 100 percent humidity, it hits them."

Turkeys under heat stress simply lay over and die. A lot of heart attacks. The dead birds are composted at the farm.

Other challenges for the Horsts

County. In addition, the Trust supports good stewardship of the land, encourages a thriving agricultural economy, and recognizes that the farm heritage enriches the lives of all citizens. Since 1988, the Trust has preserved more than 5,800 acres.

Several hundred people gathered at Historic Strasburg Inn last Friday night to celebrate this success of the first 10 years; honor those who have been doners and supporters of the work of the trust, and recognize all the farms that have been preserved, especially the 11 new farms that have been preserved in the past year.

Ironically, the dinner was held on the exact anniversary day when the Trust then known as The Friends of Agricultural Land Preservation held its first meeting—November 13, 1985.

John Schwartz, Lancaster County agent and president of the board of trustees, said the forming of the Trust "was an idea that changed the landscape of Lancaster County."

"We are here to celebrate the growth of that plan that will continue to make Lancaster County a great place to live," Schwartz said. "We look at the future of Lancaster County agriculture to be about people, places, and passion. Nowhere in the country have I seen the passion for agriculture we have here. It's more than dollars and cents. Here you see the multi-generational farms that have been in the family for many generations. We are fortunate to have farms that have this tradition and are being replicated by the next generation.

"The Lancaster Farmland Trust is playing a big part in making this tradition come true. As you look around, there is a future of farming in Lancaster County. We have a backlog of farms waiting to be preserved. To provide food for this country while maintaining the quality of life as we have come to know it, I firmly believe the work of the Lancaster Farmland Trust has a positive future as the number of preserved farms continues to increase."

The Trust's founding president, Daniel Herr, spoke about the need to continue the good work of the Trust.

Emmet Mahon, Central Pennsylvania's economic development director for U.S. Senator Rick Santorum read the senator's letter of congratulations.

The letter read in part: "The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has experienced a remarkable year in terms of farmland preservation. While the state-funded program enrolled the 1,000th farm in 1998, Lancaster Farmland Trust is marking accomplishments of its own. Your record of preservation--one of every five acres of Lancaster County farmland--along with your organization's 10 year milestone is testimony to the dedication of your members. Through the establishment of good working relations with the local farm community coupled with the commitment to preserve a declining number of farmland acres, the Trust has clearly become an effective leader in land conservation."

The highlight of the evening was the recognition of 11 land benefactors for the preservation of their farms during 1998. These farmers are central to the success of Lancaster Farmland trust through their individual commitments to farmland preservation in Lancaster county. These farmers include Richard and Denise Bruckhart, who preserved their 48-acre dairy operation in Rapho Township; Betty Hess, who preserved a 46-acre portion of her mother's farm along Route 272 near the village of Oregon; Alta Fisher and her daughter Judith Hallman, who preserved their 72-acre farm in Eden Township; and Sarah Slaymaker, who preserved her family's historic farm along Route 30 at Gap.

Also honored were four Old Order Amish families who preserved farms in Earl, Salisbury, Upper Leacock, and Bart townships; two Old Order Mennonite families who preserved farms in Earl and Upper Leacock township; and an anonymous preservationist with a farm in western Lancaster County.

During the dinner, the Distinguished Donor awards were accepted by Mrs. Caroline S. Nunan on behalf of the John Frederick Steinman Foundation and the James Hale Steinman Foundation in recognition of their significant gifts to the Trust not only this year but since the Trust's begining.

The Volunteer of the Year award went to Dan Sweigart for his many hours of work on special events, like the Pedal to Preserve bike tour and the annual picnic; his displays at local fairs; and his work in a door-to-door campaign.

Retiring trustees were recognized for their work. They are Lois Herr, Charles Hoober, and John Saeger. Incoming trustees are Mike Flanagan and Ted Bowers.

The evening concluded with a video presentation, "Lancaster County: People, Places, and Passions," provided by the Pennsylvania Dutch Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Berks DHIA Banquet Set

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Berks County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) has announced that its annual banquet is set for noon Dec. 8 at the county Ag Center auditorium.

Pa.DHIA consultant George Cudoc is to be the featured speaker, with his talk to highlight milk urea nitrogen testing and the Heifer '98 programs.

Clyde Myers, county dairy extension agent, is to present a slide show highlighting the winner farm of the county 1997 herd management award.

In addition, the county's 1998 DHIA awards are to be presented.

membership.

He said that all six of the regions into which PFB divides state membership reached goals.

New membership hit a record with 3,820 joining, setting a record.

While 70 percent of the new membership was attributed to individuals joining to take advantage of discounted services, such as health insurance, and liability insurances through Nationwide with which PFB has a cooperative relationship, Donaldson said the organization is what it is today because of members contacting other individuals.

He said that, as of Tuesday, the PFB was 18 members shy of having 20,000 members with dues paid for 1999.

He said the organization's goal of 30,000 members by the year 2000 is achieveable. All they need is about 4,000 more members.

"We need to keep working to make this happen," Donaldson said.

The all-time high membership for Farm Bureau was 26,665, several years ago.

Donaldson said that, for him, the PFB has come of age as an organization representing the grassroots majority consensus among practicing agricultural business owners and entreprenеurs.

He said that fact was made clear in the spring, when the state Legislature formerly recognized the Farm Bureau's works and representation of the agricultural community.

Further, he said the strength of Farm Bureau is reinforced in that the American Farm Bureau, of which the PFB is an affiliate, has been rated the 17th most influential lobbying group in Washington D.C.

To illustrate some of the effectiveness of the whole Farm Bureau organization — from kitchen table meetings, to county groups, to state and national — Donaldson said members should consider that Farm Bureau was responsible for helping to gain a change in federal tax regualtions for this year that allows income averaging, lower capital gains taxes, and other reductions.

The income averaging, he explained, allows paying taxes from one good year spread out over three years.

Also, he said that farmers will be eligible for a 100-percent tax deduction on health care costs. "The higher tax exemptions go a long way to keeping the family farm in the family," Donaldson said.

He said there were some disappointments, such as in not yet achieving a program called Farmers and Ranchers Risk Management Accounts.

That program, he explained, would allow farmers to "salt away" income from one year and claim it during a later year (over a five-year period) and pay taxes on it at the later date.

He also said that while Pennsylvania's first effort at local tax reform applies only to school districts and school boards, and is voluntary, and if it is to be used, it needs members of the community to meet with school district boards, as well as others involved with the school board and community and civic issues, to develop relationships and awareness, and coalitions.

A major problem facing agriculture is the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's interpretation of the intent of the Food Quality Protection Act, which replaced the zero-tolerance Delaney Clause, according to Donaldson.

With the dramatic precision of testing that has been developed in the years since the Delaney Clause was established, the ability to test products far exceeds the precision required to determine levels of consequence to human safety.

However, the Delaney Clause didn't address the significance of any results of testing, just that testing show zero results. (Compared to today's testing, it has been widely reported that a lot of testing available when the Delaney Clause was created would show "zero," while today's tests would indicate some level.)

With the precision testing technology currently possible, it has been successfully argued and understood by the U.S. Congress that the Delaney Clause was an unrealistic ideal of purity of natural substances.

In response, the U.S. Congress and the president made the Food Quality Protection Act, with the understanding that risk-assessment would be included.

According to Donaldson, the FQPA was passed with the understanding by Farm Bureau and Congress that currently used chemicals would stay on the shelf.

He said that in following up the new Act, the EPA wrote the regulations promulagting the Act, twisting it into a potential nightmare for production agriculture in the United States.

The first sign of trouble, he said, was the EPA's threatened ban of organophosphates, a widely used family of pesticides for which there is no substitute.

He said that EPA people are not using sound science to determine scientifically-sound allowable levels, and are in essence turning the new act into a repeat of the Delaney Clause.

According to Donaldson, if there is a risk to health that exists, beyond a reasonable risk, the farming community would be ready and willing to accept the loss of such a widespread chemical.

But the fact is the EPA is not using sound science to determine levels, and that fact threatens the ability of American agriculture to survive increasing agricultural imports not produced under the same set of controls and testing as would be imposed only on American agriculture by the current EPA.

Donaldson said the Vice President Al Gore did issue a memorandum directing the EPA to not eliminate any family of pesticides until receiving adequate input from the agricultural, chemical and other concered industries.

Therefore, for 1998 there was no banning action against organophosphates, but that doesn't mean the battle to establish and follow reason and good science-based policies is over.

"This thing (FQPA) does not cover just fruit and vegetables," Donaldson said, who with his family operates a 550-acre orchard and vegetable farm and direct market in Orrtana. "It affects all of agriculture across the nation. Every sector needs to contact their legislator and urge them to write EPA, and say they need to interpret (the FQPA) using good sound science-based information... " as Congress had intended.

"They also need to speed up registration of new products," Donaldson said, so that replacement products can be available should any family of products or specific product be proposed for elimination.

As an example of the discrepency between EPA and real life, Donaldson said that on his farm he uses about 50 percent of label recommendations of certain chemicals.

But in making its decisions, the EPA hasn't been concerned with actual uses, but intrepets actual use from label recommendations.

He said that Farm Bureau members need to call the American

Farm Bureau at (888) 322-1323 to participate in the national compaign for establishing the use of sound science into the regulations that fulfill the intent of the FQPA.

The phone call will generate a letter from the Farm Bureau member to their respective federal legislator, he said.

In other news, Donaldson talked about the E. Chester Heim scholarship made possible through the PFB Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture Foundation, and that $11,400 was raised at Ag Progress Days this year to help support the scholarship, and that another $22,000 was raised at a golf outing for the foundation.

During the evening banquet, Donaldson read a letter from Heim, whose health prevented him from attending, stating his gratitude and honor in allowing his name to be used to support a scholarship.

According to Donaldson, if it wouldn't have been for "Chet's" initial work promoting the concerns and arguments of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, and meeting with editorial boards across the state, that the organization would not be what it is now, nor have the name recognition that it enjoys.

During the luncheon, the organization announced the selection of its Young Farmer and Rancher Award — an honor bestowed to the winner of a leadership abilities and skills contest in which a young farmer rancher individual or couple is selected to represent the PFB at the American Farm Bureau contest.

The contest is open to members aged 18 to 35 years, with a state prize of $500 and a trip to the American Farm Bureau convention in Albuquerque in January, where they are to compete in the national contest with a first-place prize of a 1999 Dodge Ram 3500 pickup truck and an Artic Cat all-terrain vehicle.

The winner is decided based upon the farm operation, its growth and financial progress, and leadership in the Farm Bureau and elsewhere.

In recognition of the program, Donaldson talked about the development of the program during the past four years, and how well it has progressed in becoming a program that offers opportunities for members to develop leadership skills.

Brian Dietrich, outgoing chairman of the committee, received a standing ovation during the award ceremony program.

Dietrich was honored for inspiring others to become involved in the program, and for helping to organize additional programs and opportunities for involvement.

This year's winning couple of the YF&R award was Donald and Joanne Stoltzfus of Morgantown.

They started farming in 1990 with 18 cows from 4-H and FFA projects. They entered into a partnership a year later. As the business grew into a five-way partnership, it added more cows and additional enterprises.

Herd management changes — such as totally mixed ration feeding, using bovine somatotropin, and installing close-up pens for freshening cows — helped increase average milk production of the herd from 18,000 pounds to more than 23,000 pounds.

More recently, the free-stall barn was remodeled for cow comfort, and heifers are being custom-raised at another farm.

Cropping includes 200 acres of corn, 110 acres of alfalfa and the rest in grass hay. Some corn is double-cropped with rye. A number of pieces of equipment has been purchased also.

They have been active farm leaders.

Joanne served on the Berks County Farm Bureau board of directors for two years and on its legislative committee for six years.

Both Donald and Joanne have served on PFB's Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee for four years, and traveled to Europe as part of the YF&R Committee's International Study Tour in 1994.

Both have served as superintendents for Sunday School and vacation Bible School at their church, and Donald has served on the board of directors of his county Holstein club.

The Stoltzfuses have two young children. They are planning to relocate in Somerset County next summer.

The other finalists included Edward and Lorraine Thiele, who operated a 145-acre dairy farm in Butler County; and Patrick Greaser, who operates a 185-acre tree farm and crop shares 45 acres of reed canary hay and timothy alfalfa hay in Beaver County.

The PFB also ran a new contest this past year concerning response to calls for legislative action.

The contest offered a weekend at the Hershey Hotel for two couples.

The winners from PFB Regions 1, 2 and 6 were Paul and Coleen Hoffman. The winners from Regions 3, 4 and 5 were Russell and Nancy Orner.

On Tuesday, the PFB held the finals for its annual Discussion Meet contest.

How he finishes on the Wampler scale of feed conversion at least cost is "how you get paid," he said.

Wampler makes a wide range of turkey products, including whole fresh turkeys, turkey breast meat, turkey ham, regular and smoked breast, even turkey hot dogs. "If you want it, they can make it out of turkey," he said.

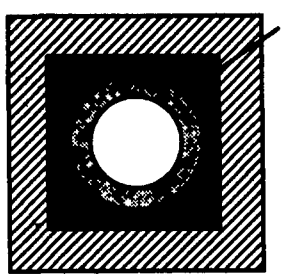
In the future, when his children come of age, he would like them to become more involved with his growout operation. Right now, he does a lot of the work himself — so the number of birds he can finish remains limited.

But that's why he entered the business in the first place — there is more flexibility with the growout compared to a seven day a week job in the dairy business. Also, it's easier for young farmers to start out in the turkey business, compared to dairy, Horst noted.

Starla Horst bakes cakes under the Horst Home Bakery business and sells cakes and pies to Hanover Farmers Market. She includes recipes from Elsie, Lynn's mother. Lynn's favorite is the fresh peach pie. Actually, Lynn's grandmother on his mother's side, Ruth Ogburn, operated a bakery. Even Ruth's mother, Katie Geigley, operated a bakery.

The Horst family belongs to the Mummasburg Mennonite Church.

... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are madeof volcanic pumice and high-tempertature refractory cements, Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimteck liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems disbritubed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

Lebanon Conservation District Praises Wengert's Dairy

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

MT GRETNA (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Conservation District last week recognized outstanding efforts by individuals and businesses in the southeastern Pennsylvania county for work done to conserve natural resources.

During its annual meeting and awards recognition event, held at the Timbers Restaurant in Mt. Gretna, District Director Charles Wertz and District Naturalist/ Forester Leigh Beamesderfer reviewed district activities and accomplishments for the past year.

In the actual awards presentations, members of the district board of directors presented the awards, in some cases accompanied by a slide presentation of some of the activities.

A local dairy business, an Annville couple, a Union Canal Elementary School teacher, a South Londonderry Township landowner, and two special volunteers were recognized.

Clean Water Farm Award

Wengert's Dairy, a 67-year-old family dairy business (recently sold to the national Illinios-based Deans Foods Corp., but with retained local leadership and identity), was recognized with the district's Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award.

The award was made to John B. Wengert, president, in recognition of Wengert's Dairy's fencing 8,000 linear feet of streambank from cattle, planting steambank shade and erosion control trees, and constructing two cattle crossings along the Snitz Creek.

The creek bisects the 241 acres of farmland surrounding the dairy plant, located near the city of Lebanon.

Wengert's Dairy has long been recognized within the dairy regulatory industry and among consumers, as achieving the highest quality dairy products.

Wengert's (also produces the Graybill's line of products) contracts the production of more than 3 million pounds of milk per week from 71 dairy farms in Lebanon County and northern Lancaster County.

Tenant farmers of the land surrounding Wengert's plant, Dave Bomberger and Paul Miller, use a conservation plan revised in 1995 by the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service.

The plan includes a conservation cropping sequence, conservation tillage, and stripcropping. A herd of 40 heifers are pastured along the Snitz Creek.

Late last year, Wengert's completed the streambank fencing and cattle crossings through a state Department of Environmental Protection program.

The project is important for several reasons, not the least being the impacts to the Snitz Creek from upstream activities.

The Snitz Creek has been a stocked trout stream for years. It used to carry an evident resident population of wild and carryover brown trout and it had several miles opened for public fishing and stocking by the state and local groups.

For many years, between Wengert's Dairy and its Cornwall Mines headwaters, the lower section of the stream had run through several dairy farms that didn't use streambank fencing.

The lower cattle stocking densities of those years, and the more or less stable flow of the stream — characteristic of streams that receive significant contributions of flow from limestone springs — even during storm events, helped prevent severe erosion of banks and the suffocating sedimentation of its pools, even with a lack of cattle fencing.

But, especially during the 1970s and early 1980s, residential development on the stream's upper floodplain was done without any stream-protecting stormwater controls, or with protests coming too late to matter.

In the upper reaches of the stream during those years, and to some extent since, residential land developers canalized and dredged the streambed, as well as removed sections of streambank, and constructed flood diversion dikes, in an effort to improve and accelerate flood-plain drainage.

In addition to those activities, mostly designed to gain percolation testing for home building, there had been some filling-in of spring seeps and wetlands as well, again in some cases to gain housing lots.

From the left, Jo Ellen Litz, Lebanon County commissioner and district board member, presents the district's Educator of the Year award to Kathy Sattazahn.

Dr. Timothy Trayer and family are recognized as the Lebanon County District Landowners of the Year. From the left, Jeffrey Steckbeck presents the award to Dr. Timothy, son Troy, Debra, and daughter Amy Trayer.

All of that flood plain activity has further added to the stormwater loading of the stream, increasing the likelihood of damage to unprotected streambanks along the lower reaches.

In all, the stream's condition has deteriorated significantly since the early 1970s.

While fewer of the farms upstream are without bank protection, fewer farms exist.

The work done at Wengert's — with 12 feet setback from the stream on both sides, along with the planting of gum, willow, and red maple trees — has apparently already begun to stabilize the streambanks and improve conditions for aquatic and riparian wildlife.

In addition, the work has added tremendously to the natural beautification of the Wengert's Dairy site, increasingly surrounded by residential development.

Third generation president of the dairy, John B. Wengert, manages the dairy with the same high standard that his grandfather Samuel K. Wengert once did, according to Connie Hoffer, a district board director, who with husband Gerald, recently entered their owned South Annville Township farm into farmland preservation.

The award was presented to Wengert's Dairy by Connie Hoffer.

The recipient, John B. Wengert, also has established in many ways, that he realizes the importance of preserving farmland and open-space, according to Hoffer. He is actively involved in the local "Rail-to-Trails" endeavor.

"A drive by Wengert's Dairy on Walnut Street exemplifies how industry, agriculture and the environment can co-exist in harmony," Hoffer said.

Conservationists Of The Year

David and Ann Lasky of Annville were named the county district's Conservationist(s) of the Year.

Betty Conner, also a Conservation District director, as well as involved with several other county and area conservation and educational programs, presented the award to the Laskys.

Both of the Laskys have been intimately involved in organizing and carrying out efforts to improve the environmental and recreational conditions and quality of the Lebanon County area.

Work done by both involves watershed protections and improvements for the Swatara Creek and the Quittapahilla Creek.

The Swatara Creek Watershed comprises the bulk of Lebanon County, and the Swatara Creek is the larger stream that empties directly into the Susquehanna River.

The Quittapahilla Creek is a tributary to the Swatara, and the main draining stream for the city of Lebanon, and the municipalities of West Lebanon, Cleona, and Annville.

Other streams of concern which drain contiguous, highly residential municipalities, are tributaries to the Quittapahilla.

Most of the aquifers and some adjoining land along the limestone spring-supplied streams in Lebanon County have a long history of being mined for limestone — for homes, barns, road and drainage fill materials, mix for concrete and for soil amendment.

While the historically wealthy leaders of Lebanon County saw fit to make considerable donations of land for public parks (Coleman's Park, etc.), when those wealthy families lost control of their operations to global corporations, such public lands support began to dwindle.

In the meantime, the county's ratio of public land to public began to dwindle.

Furthermore, locally elected leadership expressed little real commitment or desire to maintaining public lands. Instead that leadership has over the years moved to sell much of its public lands, especially some watershed lands, in order to temporarily achieve lower tax rates, or temporarily effect no tax increases.

As a result, through attrition of public open space, formerly undesirable areas have represented mostly last chance opportunities to regain some public lands for passive or individual recreation.

Such a formerly undesirable area is located in the Borough of Annville — a 23-acre abandoned limestone quarry operation that has become, through efforts, a recreational area — the Quittapahilla Creek Nature Park.

Locally known in abbreviated form as "The Quittie Creek Nature Park," the Laskys have been involved in its development and improvement, as well as being involved in the larger Swatara Creek Watershed Association (SCWA).

Ann Lasky has been co-chair of the Quittie Creek Park Committee since its inception in 1989.

She has helped to organize cleanups in the park, tree plantings, Earth Day walks, mulching of trails (with mulch provided by local tree trimmers), trail maintenance, and educational school programs.

The Quittapahilla Creek has suffered long-term abuses from being used as a sacrifice stream for the wastes and storm water from the Lebanon city population; it was greatly considered a dead or offensive stream because of the wastes supplied by the former Bethlehem Steel operations, Lebanon Steel and other foundaries and steelworking industries, as well as other industrial and commercial operations.

When the county realized its loss of the heavy industry that supplied taxes and high-paying jobs, the new leadership sought to court residential development.

With the heavy industry curtailed, aquatic life reflecting clean water health began to reappear in the limestone spring-originating Quittapahilla Creek.

Along with the contributions from several fairly healthy tributaries, the Quittapahilla Creek recovered in recent years to the point where, in the mid-1980s, it began to once again receive trout stocking by the state Fish Commission, on a put-and-take basis.

In the meantime, the tributaries upon which the lower Quittapahilla depends for decent water quality have been suffering from residential development and parking lot stormwater runoff, and drying of aquifers.

The Quittie Creek Nature Park has continued to be improved through the efforts of many, helped along through the organizational and time-dedication of the Laskys and others.

This past year, several hundred feet of the stream within the park has received streambank protection devices, designed so as to prevent storm water erosion of the clay soils.

The park has benefitted from donations of materials, equipment, time and labor from local companies and businesses, other organizations and individuals.

In addition, the stretch of the Quittapahilla that runs through the park is designated a delayed-harvest stream under the state Fish Commission program. As such, it has been promoted in angling publications, and many people from different and distant parts of the state and other states have visited to fish.

In addition to the Quittie Park work, Ann is also on the board of directors of the Swatara Creek Watershed Association, and has participated in the cleanups along the Swatara. She also participates in a citizen water quality monitoring project with the Department of Environmental Protection.

Dave is a founding member of the Quittie Park Committee, a member of the Swatara Creek Watershed Association.

He organized the initial meetings that led to the creation of the Quittapahilla Watershed Association, on which he serves as chairman.

The purpose of the association is to maintain and improve ecological qualities of the Quittapahilla Watershed. He has involved landowners, volunteers, businesses, civic groups and educational organizations in planning and implementing projects along the Quittapahilla.

Educator

Kathy Sattazahn, a fifth grade teacher at Union Canal Elementary School was awarded the district's educator of the year award.

She has developed a comprehensive approach to environmental education in her classroom, including the establishment of a nature trail on school property that includes the planting of trees and shrubs purchased through fund-raising projects by the children, as well as those donated by Sattazahn, whose husband operates a nursery.

She said that the work has been fulfilling and enriching for her, as well as the children. According to the teacher, anytime natural resources and wildlife are incorporated with the classroom, there is no problem with keeping the interest of children.

Landowner Of Year

Dr. Timothy Trayer and family were recognized as the recipient of the district's landowner of the year award for the work on the family's 183-acre farm, where Timothy has taken over a tree-plantation and conservation effort begun by his father, Raymond.

A regionally known veterinarian, the Trayers — Timothy, wife Debra and children Troy and Amy — all help on the farm and helped with woodlot management, and planting and maintaining a plantation of Paulownia trees, as well as a hardwood stand managed for sawtimber and pulpwood.

The have been cooperators with the county Conservation District since 1994.

Since then, they have implemented a conservation plan which included 2,500 feet of sod waterway; two water control structures; 1,350 feet of underground outlet; 1,890 feet of tile; and 200 feet of water diversion.

They are one of a very few cooperators who practice woodlot management, according to Wertz.

They were the recipients of the 1998 Goddard Forestry Award from the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts for their efforts on the farm.

The South Londonderry Township farm was purchased by Raymond in 1962 and the same year a conservation plan was written.

The Paulownia plantation was planted in 1994 and coppiced (cut to the ground) in 1996. The subsequent fast growth reaches 15 to 20 feet the first year.

The reason for the two-year growth and then cutting back develops the root system.

Special Recognitions

Two special recognition awards for conservation were made by Jackie Parker, mayor of Lebanon, on behalf of the Conservation District.

Parker presented them to Edward Keener, engineer for the City of Lebanon, and Charles Bowman of Bowman's Stump Removal and Tree Service.

Keener has been in charge of City of Lebanon water and wastewater facilities for years.

Lebanon has had the reputation for being the county's largest owner of municipal watershed lands, with properties extending into Lancaster County to the south, and Schuylkill County to the north. It also draws water supplies from the Swatara Creek.

During the 1970s, Lebanon's watershed property that reached into Lancaster County was sold to the state Game Commission with the city retaining water rights.

More recently, the Schuylkill County watershed reservoir, locally known as High Bridge (for an old railroad bridge that spanned a narrow gap in the mountains), was enlarged to increase capacity. It adjoins state Game Lands as well, and provides some natural recreational opportunities.

His office has also encouraged urban forestry initiatives.

Along with the city, Bowman has been a dependable and consistent volunteer of service to the city's urban forestry program.

For much of the last decade, he has been committed to volunteering his time and resources to aid the Conservation District.

According to Wertz, Bowman has become almost an essential element to the District's Arbor Day program, and has benefited the program in other ways.

"He sets a great example for the many volunteers including countless students, as they work to sustain Lebanon's greenery for generations to come," Parker said.

Mayor Parker also turned the tables on Wertz and Beamesderfer, presenting them with special appreciation recognition from the City of Lebanon for their dedication and long-time efforts in establishing and promoting the wise use of natural resources and enhancement of the local environment for all.

Recognitions

A number of other individuals and businesses were recognized for efforts to the District and programs, such as the Envirothon.

Included were Blouch's Mobil, Tammy Granger, Genevieve Mehler, Karen and Richard Light, James Logan Jr., Dian and Emmett Beamesderfer, Joan Keener, Sue Miller, Jeanne and Jerry Boltz, Jineen Boyle, Bob Arnold, Diane Allwein, Hershey Foods, and the boards of the Conservation District and Agricultural Land Preservation were all recognized for their volunteer services with programs.

Maryland Farm Bureau Young Farmers Meet

RANDALLSTOWN, Md. — Young farmers from across the state are to be at the Comfort Inn in Westminster, Nov. 20-22, for the Maryland Farm Bureau Young Farmers Annual Meeting and Retreat.

Activities for the weekend include tours of Baugher's Orchards, Maxon-Dixon Dairy and the Robotics Systems plant; leadership seminars led by trainer Patsy Perkins, formerly with the American Farm Bureau Federation; and the annual Young Farmer Discussion Meet and Achievement Award contests.

Achievement Award entrants this year include John Saathoff of Denton, Caroline County

Saathoff, 29, graduated summa cum laude from the University of Maryland, Eastern Shore in 1991 with a degree in agronomy He then joined the family grain and hog operation, which he works with his father, uncle and brother

The family farms 2,300 acres of soybeans, wheat and barley, and maintains an 80-sow farrow to finish hog operation They also serve as a seed company sales representative for the area, and operate a school bus route

A member of the Caroline County Farm Bureau board of directors, Saathoff also serves as chairman of the Caroline County Young Farmers and is a director on the Maryland Soybean Board He is also chairman of the Caroline County Weed Control Advisory Committee

He and his wife Marsha are both active at First Weslyan Church and in the Fellowship of Christian Farmers They have one daughter, 15-month old Julie

All Achievement Award contestants must be working farmers between the ages of 18 and 35, and fill out a detailed application describing their farming operation in depth Each is judged on his or her leadership, creativity and success in agriculture

Contestants in the Discussion Meet include Roger S Schmick of Preston, Caroline County and Lee Richardson of Willards, Wicomico County

Schmick, 32, is a fourth generation farmer His family operates a 600-acre grain and poultry farm in Preston, where he uses knowledge gained while obtaining a degree from the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. Schmick is also a member of the Caroline County Farm Bureau board of directors and a member of the local Ruritan Club.

Richardson, 27, is a fifth-generation poultry and grain farmer. A 1992 graduate of the University of Delaware with a bachelor's degree in ag science, he and his wife Dana and 1-year-old daughter Rebecca live and work on the family farm.

The Discussion Meet, held annually by the Maryland Farm Bureau Young Farmers, is an opportunity for Farm Bureau members aged 18 to 35 to deeply study various nationally important agricultural issues and discuss them with other farmers their age.

Contestants, who have been given the topics to study before the contest, will be judged on their ability to defend their options while carefully considering the position of others. This contest is designed to prepare young farmers for discussions Farm Bureau members have while developing the organization's official policy.

Discussion Meet contestants will be considering one topic chosen from four developed by the American Farm Bureau Federation last spring.

Topics this year are:

- Is agriculture experiencing a polarization of its population? It is becoming small farm versus large farm?
- Discuss the use of cloning in agriculture.
- Can production agriculture survive the threat of urban sprawl?
- What is the impact of the changing demographics of American agriculture on the role of Farm Bureau relative to Farm Bureau serving as the voice of agriculture, and Farm Bureau serving as a grass roots organization?

Winners in both state contests will then compete with young farmers across the country at the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting and convention in Albuquerque, N.M. next January. The winner of the national competition will receive a 1999 Dodge Ram pick-up truck and an Arctic Cat 4x4 all-terrain vehicle.

The New Dodge and Arctic Cat are sponsors of both the state and national Farm Bureau Young Farmer programs.

For more information about the retreat or these contests, please contact Amy L. Miller at (410) 922-3426.

QUESTION: Why did my MUN (milk urea nitrogen) go down this month, when I know for sure that protein levels and composition remained the same? I talked to my nutritionist and he said that the MUN test must be wrong this month.

ANSWER: Please do not stop reading this!

I know the question sounds like one that we addressed a very short time ago, but I assure you that it is different.

The beauty about MUN testing is further exemplified in this herd situation.

August test day showed a MUN at 13.5 for the herd and, as always, we looked at the various breakdowns to find that this average held up across the herd.

Next month the MUN changed slightly to 12.9 and again the range was acceptable and herd performance was increasing throughout.

Now, October test day has MUN dropping to 6.6, production has fallen off, and the dairyman is not happy.

Naturally the feed man is to blame, and he in turn shifts the blame to the DHIA lab.

After about a week of pointing the finger and not solving the problem of falling production, I got a call from this dairyman.

The following is what we talked about and the recommended solution.

After a few questions, it became very clear that this dairyman knew his cows and is very in tune with changes that happen on his farm.

The biggest change that happens to most farms during October is feeding new crop silage.

The dairyman told me he felt the new silage was much better than the old because of the higher amount of corn grain in this year's crop.

He started to feed the new silage about three weeks prior to milk test day.

His observation about his feed adds to the information that his cows tell us when we look at their MUN.

Low MUN says that his cows need more rumen degradable protein.

His observation about his corn may suggest that rumen fermentable carbohydrates have increased. No haylage is fed and dry hay makes up the rest of the forage intake.

The hay is still the same crop that he has been feeding. His protein concentrate makeup has not changed for two months.

Now that we have the basic information needed for coming to some conclusion, we can look at other performance parameters to guide us in our planned solution.

Milk fat has been the same for the last three test periods, with a slight increase of 3.6 percent to 3.8 percent as we tested in October. This suggests that even if the corn silage has more grain, thus more rumen fermentable carbohydrates, we have not created an acid rumen environment. We are safe at current fiber and concentrate levels.

Milk protein levels have also been steady with a slight increase from 3.1 percent to 3.2 percent in October.

Increased milk protein levels can be a sign that more rumen degradable carbohydrates are present in the diet. Milk pounds are less in October and days-in-milk are virtually unchanged.

The next step is to answer the "what-to-do" question.

Here I needed help from this dairyman's nutritionist.

We reviewed the same questions and comments that I had discussed with the dairyman. We talked about possible solutions and the nutritionist indicated that the new protein mix was to be delivered the following Monday. He recommended adding urea to the diet to increase the soluble or degradable portion of the protein.

Once again, we see ways to evaluate our day-to-day feeding management with DHIA tools like MUN.

PA DHIA is committed to educating dairymen and their on-farm professionals to make DHIA a

Lancaster Holstein Association Reviews Year, Honors Members

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — More than 70 members and staff of the Lancaster County Holstein Breeders Association assembled at the Farm and Home Center here Tuesday night to present awards, report on the club's activities, and elect new directors.

State membership is required for county membership. Lowell Brubaker, president, said they have 350 members and the association's membership drive continues through the last Monday in January.

Rick Hess, treasurer, noted the Corn Maze, held at the Jack and Donna Coleman farm, Strasburg, has become the association's biggest fundraiser, replacing the cheese sale a couple of years ago. At the Corn Maze, "we had a blast," he said. "It was fun. It's a lot of work, it keeps you on your toes, but it is fun going in and visiting nonfarm folks from out of the area."

Income from the maze totalled $2,561.55 with expenses of $393.09 for a net profit of $2,168.46.

For the annual Holstein show in the county, this was the "first time in several years the county show made a profit," said Hess. Income from show sponsors and entries totalled $2,696 with expenses of $2,526.21, for a net income of $169.79.

According to Bill Allen of the state association, the group has been busy selling animals in the export market. Recently, 1,000 head of Holsteins were shipped to the country of Lebanon.

Another 700 head were shipped this week to Saudi Arabia. Japan has placed a bred heifer order, and next year, additional cattle will be shipped to Saudi Arabia. They also do a good bit of sales domestically.

The state Holstein Convention is scheduled Feb. 18-20 at the Ramada Inn in Wilkes-Barre. The junior convention is scheduled also at the Ramada Inn in Wilkes-Barre Feb. 5-7.

The county club has scheduled a March 9 tour to visit Woods and Land-Land dairies, and will stop other places, according to Larry Kennel. More information will be available in later months.

At the banquet Tuesday night, senior and junior production awards were presented to members. In the junior 2-year-old category, Marvin Stoltzfus, Leola, won the milk production award for Mar-R Mascot Alta, 305D, 34,763m, 1,148f, and 1,066p,

The cow's sire is Singing-Brook NB Mascot. Stoltzfus also won fat and protein honors for the same cow.

Stoltzfus also won the senior 2-year-old class for No. 46, at 305D, 35,335m, 1,069f, and 1,027p. The cow's sire is Rothrock Tradition Leadman. The senior 2-year-old combined fat and protein (at 2,172 pounds) went to Fulton Way Farms.

In the junior 3-year-old category, Nevin Horning won with Penny, with a 305-day record of 39,673 pounds. The junior 3-year-old fat and protein honors went to Robert Sensenig for Abby, a cow with a combined record of about 2,400 pounds.

In the senior 3-year-old category, Meadow Vista Farm, Bainbridge, won the 1998 won total pounds and fat and protein production award for Meadow-Vista Mich Michelle, at 305D, 37,214 pounds milk, 1,320f, 1,131p. Tanya Baldwin, assistant herdsperson at Meadow Vista Farm, accepted the awards.

In the senior four-year-old division, Marvin Stoltzfus, Leola, also won with Mar-R Angela Alex, 305D, 42,940m, 1,281f, 1,564p. In the same division, fat and protein honors went to David Kulp, Manheim, for a cow with more than 2,800 pounds in the category.

Aged cow honors went to Stoltzfus for a 7-year-old, Mar-R Leadman Jill, 305D, 49,815m, 1,646f, 1,327p. The cow's sire is Rothrock Tradition Leadman. The cow also won honors for overall fat and protein.

In the junior division, Jordan Risser, son of Gerald and Joyce Risser, Bainbridge, won the junior 2-year-old division with Meadow Vista Aris Mae, 305D, 2xfat and protein, at 21,054m, 781f, 608p.

Troy Wenger, son of Nelson and Alma Wenger, Manheim, won the 2-year-old division for Acre-Lake Petie Alien, 305D, 24,578m, 687f, and 706p. Troy also won with his 4-year-old, Aker Lake Wister Angel, at 305D, 26,338m, 716f, and 793p.

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, spoke about the good harvest, feed prices, and good milk prices of the past year. He reminded the members to think ahead and plan. "Sometimes we get complacent in these good times," he said. But it's important to do some serious tax planning, now, he noted.

He was in awe of the cow by Stoltzfus that was milking about 50,000 pounds in a 305-day period. Shirk calculated that was about 160 pounds of milk per day, or about 320 glasses of milk.

"That's a lot of people that one cow feeds," he said. "It puts things in perspective."

Shirk reminded producers to use the tools available to "think about quality as well as quantity," he said, now that government price supports are vanishing.

Audra Wood, Lancaster County dairy princess, spoke about the work of the state promotional service in the community.

At the banquet, new directors were elected for three-year terms. They are Rick Hess, Lancaster; Mark Welk, Quarryville; and Gerald Risser, Bainbridge. New 1999 president is Mike Eby, Lancaster.

Aged cow honors went to Marvin Stoltzfus, left, for a 7-year-old, Mar-R Leadman Jill, 305D, 49,815m, 1,646f, 1,327p. The cow's sire is Rothrock Tradition Leadman. The cow also won honors for overall fat and protein. In the senior 3-year-old category, Meadow Vista Farm, Bainbridge, won the 1998 won total pounds and fat and protein production award for Meadow-Vista Mich Michelle, at 305D, 37,214 pounds milk, 1,320f, 1,131p. Tanya Baldwin, assistant herdsperson at Meadow Vista Farm, center, accepted the awards. At right is Audra Wood, county dairy princess.

"Passing On The Farm" Workshop at 4-H Center in Creamery

CREAMERY (Chester Co.) — Who will be the next generation of Pennsylvania farmers? That question is central to both Pennsylvania agriculture and your farm's future.

If you would like to see your farm remain in agricultural production, it is never too early to consider your options on how to pass your farm business to the next generation.

To help you in the process, Pennsylvania Farm Link is hosing a day-long workshop at the 4-H Center in Creamery on Nov. 24, 1998. Individuals who want to learn ways to successfully transfer their farm to family members, or those wanting to locate interested beginning farmers, are urged to attend. Beginning farmers, or people who are new to farming, are also urged to attend to discuss beginning farmer issues and ways to gradually develop a farm business.

According to Farm Link Director Marion Bowlan, "45 percent of Pennsylvania's farm operators are age 55 or older. There are two times as many operators over the age of 65 as under the age of 35. In the next 10 years, nearly one quarter of the state's 44,800 farms will change hands. How we address this problem will affect agriculture in Pennsylvania for generations to come."

Working to assist in the successful transfer of family farms and to help retain agricultural lands in production, Pennsylvania Farm Link sponsors regional farm succession workshops for beginning and retiring farmers.

Scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., this workshop will address the following issues: business planning, farm loan resources, legal aspects of a transfer, marketing ideas, start-up strategies, bringing the next generation into the farm business, record keeping, farm transfer strategies, and farmland preservation programs.

Pre-registration for this free workshop is required by calling Farm Link at (717) 558-7726 by Nov. 23. Lunch is on your own. The 4-H Center is located on Route 113 approximately two miles from Collegeville Pennsylvania Farm Link is a non-profit organization governed by a Board of Directors representing diverse agricultural interests.

Conference To Help Restructure Ohio's Dairy Industry

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Without specialization, the old saying "jack of all trades, but master of none" holds true in the dairy industry, said Tom Noyes, dairy agent at the Wayne County office of Ohio State University Extension.

Dairy producers who try to harvest forage, raise heifers, be a mechanic, and do other things while also milking cows, never get all those things done to their fullest potential, Noyes said. They're just fragmenting their management efforts without doing the best job they can at any one of those things.

"That's why we're talking about specialization. You improve your skills as you specialize," he said. "In Western states, dairy producers who milk cows, just milk cows."

Noyes is one of three speakers who will discuss dairy specialization at the inaugural "Ohio Dairy Conference, Restructuring Ohio's Dairy Industry," to be held Dec. 8-9 at the Ramada University Hotel and Conference Center on Olentangy River Road just north of Ohio State University's main campus in Columbia.

With specialization, producers who like the dairy industry but don't really enjoy milking cows can find other ways to be involved, Noyes said. For example, they can grow forage or feed, raise replacement heifers or provide another contracted service or product for producers who specialize in milking.

"Dan Undersander of the University of Wisconsin, who will speak during the specializing session, has done research that shows that dairy producers who buy forage from someone who specializes in forage production save money and get better quality forage than if they try to produce it themselves," he said.

Specializing is one of the five themes to be covered during the conference. The others are farm finances, labor, records, and facilities and the environment.

"There hasn't been a statewide activity for dairy producers in Ohio for a long time, and everyone in the industry has had a concern that the dairy industry in Ohio is falling behind," he said. "This conference will draw producers together on a statewide level to talk about the restructuring of Ohio's dairy industry that is needed to keep it competitive."

The conference will feature two nationally known dairy speakers, Don Rogersand Bernie Erven. Rogers, farm financial management consultant for the Farm Credit System in New York and the northeast, will discuss "Farm Finances for the Rest of Us" on Dec. 8.

In addition to working with Farm Credit, Rogers also does private farm management work for producers and lenders.

Erven, Ohio State University Extension human resource management specialist, will talk about "Managing Labor on Dairy Farms" on Dec. 9.

Other topics discussed at the conference will include dairy expansion, how to use farm records, sand bedding, designing efficient dairy facilities and environmental regulations. There will be topics of interest to all dairy producers, regardless of the size and type of their operation, Noyes said. Many sessions will include farmer panels sharing their experiences.

The conference is co-sponsored by Ohio State University Extension and the newly formed Progressive Dairy Producers of Ohio. A reception is planned during the conference at 5:30 p.m. on Dec. 8 to introduce the new organization.

"We don't have an Ohio dairy association that represents all Ohio dairy producers, and most other major dairy states do," Noyes said. "The Progressive Dairy Producers of Ohio will serve as one voice for dairy producers in the state that can say, 'This will hurt the industry,' or 'This is what should be done to improve it.'"

Registration for the event is $89 for both days if registration is postmarked by Nov. 22. Two-day registration is $109 after that date. Participants also can register for only one day at $55 before Nov. 22 or $69 after.

The registration fee includes a copy of the conference proceedings, three breaks, one breakfast, one lunch and the reception.

For registration material and more information about the Ohio Dairy Conference, people interested should contact Normand St-Pierre at (614) 292-6507 or Jennifer Winkler at (614) 688-3143, both at Ohio State in Columbus, or their county office of Ohio State University Extension.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Elects Leaders

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau voting delegates re-elected Guy Donaldson of Adams County as its president Wednesday at the PFB annual convention at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center in Hershey.

Donaldson, a Gettysburg area orchard and vegetable grower and direct marketer, has served as president since April 1996, and was vice president for the nine previous years.

In other election results, all eight PFB board members whose terms were to expire were re-elected to additional two-year terms of office.

Those eight were Clarence Berger of Kintnersville; Kent Shelhamer Jr of Berwick; Donn Fetterolf of Aaronsburg; Jane Balmer of Mt. Joy; Wayne Freeman of Elliottsburg; Jerome Carl of Dysart; Harold Curtis of Columbus; and Richard Ebert of Blairsville.

Also during the convention, the voting delegates decided on state policy for a number of issues, ranging in topic from wine production to the horse racing industry.

Among action taken by the PFB voting delegates were policies calling for:

- the early adoption of hunting season dates and bag limits by the state Game Commission; a two-bird bag limit (currently one) during spring bearded turkey season; and reinstatement of bonus tag hunting for antlerless deer.
- leving impact fees on housing developers to help pay for additional schools, roads and other infrastructure needs.
- slot machines at race tracks.
- a US Department of Agriculture program to control and/or eradicate Johne's disease in cattle, and inclusion of the disease in the state idemnity programs.
- amendments to local tax laws to allow the collection of additional earned income taxes.
- research and development to help Pennsylvania's wine grape industry, and an amendment to existing law so Pennsylvania wineries can purchase up to 25 percent of their wine grape or juice needs from suppliers outside of the state.
- opposition to stream monitoring programs by citizens' groups or unqualified individuals.
- annual update training for school board members.

Delegates also reaffirmed support for Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Law.

DFA Wants Loss Payments

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The board of directors of Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) – at its November meeting passed a resolution urging that $200 million in market loss payments – appropriated by Congress for dairy farmers – be paid as quickly as possible, and based on 1998 milk production.

In addition, DFA leaders recommended that payments should be used on a per hundredweight calculation derived on 12 months of production in 1998 and that there be no payment limitations.

DFA president and chief executive officer Gary Hanman said dairy farmers welcome the payments as a recognition that, while dairy prices are currently at adequate levels, farm prices earlier in the year were well below break-even points for United States dairy producers.

"Dairy farmers have suffered for the last five years under the burden of high input costs and low prices for their milk," he said. "These payments represent a recognition that dairy farmers have been hurt by adverse weather conditions and the loss of international trade opportunities due to the Asian financial crisis."

Noting that DFA had actively supported passage of the $200 million in market loss payments, Hanman said, "We've lost thousands of dairy farmers in the last five years because of depressed farm prices for milk. These payments will help active dairy farmers pay off debt and prepare for future financial challenges as government reduces its participation in dairy support programs."

Matthew Mosholder of Rockwood, PA, bought the high seller for $4,000 from consignor Emily Cloninger of Centre Hall. An Astre two-year-old out of a Pageant dam, Reeber Astre Starbuck-ET is due in January to Boulet Charles-ET.

The second high seller was a July Charles/Starbuck heifer calf which went for $3,900 to Desirac Hillegass of Berlin, PA. The consignors were Tom McCauley and Fred Strouse of Elizabethtown. A Duster two-year-old consigned by Barry England of Williamsburg went to Ed and Glenn Brake of Mercersburg for $3,350.

Other high sellers were: a Choice female pregnancy out of a Celsius dam, consigned by Ray and Francis Davis of Leesport and sold to Steven and Barbara Wilson of Port Royal for $3,150; Penn-Dell Prescott R Hazel, consigned by Barbara Houser of Spring Mills and sold to Carla Frederick of Martinsburg for $2,775.

Daview Juror Rena-TW, consigned by Luther and Teresa Davis of Kutztown and sold to Joseph Pavelski of Susquehanna for $2,700; and Daka Skychief Kim, consigned by Paul Neer, Belleville, and sold to Durrell Delp, Williamsburg, for $2,500.

The Penn State Dairy Science Club sale committee members were: Chris Connelly, overall chairman; Diane Glock, assistant chairman; Steve Pavelski, Rachel Tanis, and Matt Jewart, selections; Dave Packard and Olivia Courtney, animal preparation; Vicki Ansell and Roberta McConnell, marketing/publicity; Andy Graybill, finance; Rachel Birch and Angie Moschini, reception; Justin Howes and Jason Baughman, barn managers; Todd Morris and Rozanne Kirst, arena preparation.

Sale staff members were: Harry Bachman, auctioneer, Michael Weimer, pedigrees, Donald Welk, Ken Raney, and William Allen, ringmen.

The Penn State Dairy Science Club sale committee members pose with the highest two sellers. The sale averaged $1,878 on 52 lots.

Sheep Association Conducts Sale

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – The Pennsylvania Suffolk Sheep Association held its 35th annual ewe sale in conjunction with the recent Keystone International Livestock Show here.

The high-selling and champion sale ewe and also reserve champion of the open show was the first-place sale yearling consigned by Keith McConnell of New Wilmington. Andrew Gerhart of Reinholds was the buyer at $925.

The reserve champion sale ewe was the first-place spring ewe lamb consigned by Lyn Lee farms, Sue and Gerald Clair, of State College. Nick Baker of Ellicott City, Md., purchased the lamb for $600. Second high-selling ewe was another Keith McConnell yearling that went to Jeremy O'Neill, Titusville, for $775. Hilltop Haven, Karen Fleishel, Woodbine, Md., got a Lyn Lee yearling for $700.

The first place fall ewe lamb consigned by James Hefner, Lima, Ohio sold at $525 to Hevner Bros., Keymar, Md. The Hevner were the volume buyers taking six head.

The sheep were purchased by 23 buyers from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland, and New York. Thirty-five head averaged $352. Rod Crome of Maryland judged the Suffolk show. Billy MacCauley of Atglen served as auctioneer. Sale clerks were Andrea Musser, Joan MacCauley, and Donald Hunter.

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2349	1716
LAST WEEK	3219	1863
LAST YEAR	2721	1670

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, the slaughter steer and heifer market fell progressively lower this week to close 1.00-1.50 lower. Cattle prices fell victim to decreased demand due to next week's Thanksgiving holiday and continued pressure from obscene hog prices. Futures prices led the drop on Monday by opening the week limit-down, following last week's cattle-on-feed report which was judged to be bearish by analysts. The Western direct trade lost mostly 2.00 this week and closed at 61.00 live and 97.00 dressed. Local Holstein steers ended the week .50-1.00 lower in a light test. A good week's offering of slaughter cows sold .50-1.00 higher, while slaughter bulls ended 1.00-2.00 lower with late week losses. Supply was made up of around 30 percent slaughter steers, 7 percent slaughter heifers, 40 percent slaughter cows, 6 percent bulls, with the balance feeders.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1065-1435 lbs 61.50-64.75. Choice 2-3 1115-1485 lbs 59.50-63.00, high dressing 1-2 up to 65.00; few 1470-1585 lbs 57.25-59.25. Select and low Choice 2-3 1045-1480 lbs 54.50-60.75. Select 1-3 1060-1435 lbs 51.75-57.00.

CALVES: Compared to last week, veal calves sold 2.00-3.00 lower due to the coming holiday and increased demand for light-weight calves to return to the farm. Slaughter calves ended 2.00-5.00 higher. Holstein bull calves returning to feed sold 5.00-15.00 higher in active trading. Demand was very good for Holstein heifers with prices as much as 15.00 higher.

VEALERS: Good and Choice 70-110 lbs 15.00-28.00, late mostly 15.00-25.00. Standard and low Good 60-90 lbs 10.00-21.00.

Treasured Thanksgiving Classics

Pumpkin Cheesecake

(Makes 16 servings)

CRUST
- 1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 1/3 cup butter melted
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar

CHEESECAKE
- 3 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 3/4 cups pumpkin
- 2/3 cup evaporated milk
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 1/4 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg

TOPPING
- 2 cups (16-ounce container) sour cream, at room temperature
- 1/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

FOR CRUST:

Combine graham cracker crumbs, butter and granulated sugar in medium bowl. Press onto bottom and 1-inch up side of 9-inch springform pan. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven for 6 to 8 minutes (do not allow to brown). Cool on wire rack for 10 minutes.

FOR CHEESECAKE:

Beat cream cheese, granulated sugar and brown sugar in large mixer bowl until fluffy. Beat in eggs, pumpkin and evaporated milk. Add cornstarch, cinnamon and nutmeg; beat well. Pour into crust.

Bake at 350° F. for 55 to 60 minutes or until edge is set but center still moves slightly.

TOPPING:

Combine sour cream, granulated sugar and vanilla extract in small bowl; mix well. Spread over surface of warm cheesecake. Bake at 350° F. for 5 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Chill for several hours or overnight. Remove side of springform pan.

- Spray the bottom and side of the cheesecake pan with no-stick spray before adding the crumbs. Make sure the cream cheese is at room temperature. To avoid lumps, make sure the cream cheese and sugar are thoroughly combined before adding the other ingredients.

Chocolate Crumb Bars

(Makes 2 1/2 dozen bars)
- 1 cup butter softened
- 1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups (12-ounce package) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, divided
- 1 1/4 cups (14-ounce can) sweetened condensed milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup chopped walnuts (optional)

Beat butter in large mixer bowl until creamy. Beat in flour, sugar and salt until crumbly. With floured fingers, press 2 cups crumb mixture onto the bottom of greased 13 x 9-inch baking pan; reserve remaining mixture. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until edges are golden brown.

Combine 1 cup morsels and sweetened condensed milk in small, heavy-duty saucepan. Warm over low heat, stirring until smooth. Stir in vanilla extract. Spread over hot crust.

Stir nuts and remaining morsels into reserved crumb mixture; sprinkle over chocolate filling. Bake in 350 F. oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until center is set. Cool in pan on wire rack.

Classic Pumpkin Pie

(Makes 8 servings)
- 1 unbaked 9-inch (4-cup volume) deep-dish pie shell
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 2 eggs
- 1 3/4 cups (15-ounce can) pumpkin
- 1 1/2 cups (12 fluid-ounce can) evaporated milk

Combine sugar, salt, cinnamon, ginger and cloves in small bowl. Beat eggs lightly in large bowl. Stir in pumpkin and sugar-spice mixture. Gradually stir in evaporated milk. Pour into pie shell.

Bake in preheated 425° F. oven for 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350° F.; bake for 40 to 50 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Cool on wire rack for 2 hours. Serve immediately or chill. (Do not freeze as this will cause filling to separate from crust.)

Every family has its own special favorites that make holiday baking a rich and fulfilling tradition. This season, fill your home with the aroma of treasured classics from holidays past and new favorites for the coming years. Whether it's a special dessert, a treasury of classic cookies or a special edible gift, you'll want to rely on the favorite brands you trust.

While classic pumpkin pie is a must for the holidays, why not let pumpkin come out of its shell? Pie shell, that is. Try pumpkin cookies, muffins and quick breads. Whisk pumpkin into soups and sauces. You'll add flavor and nutrients.

Don't attempt your favorite custard pies, puddings or sauces without the smooth convenience of evaporated milk—available in regular, lowfat and fat free. From foolproof fudge to creamy pumpkin pies, it's a must for any family baking session.

- You can't freeze a pumpkin pie but you can freeze the filling and pie crust separately for up to one month. Thaw, stir and pour the filling into the crust, baking as directed. Thaw the crust, too, if it is in a glass pan.

Turkey? Why turkey for Thanksgiving.

Why not beef? Why not chicken? Why not ham? Why not hot dogs, for goodness sake?

Because the turkey people are better politically connected? Because the turkey people have better public relations advisors? Because the turkey people are better marketers?

Maybe. But more likely it's because of the same reason people shoot off guns and make a racket at midnight on New Year's Eve. because of the same reason we dye eggs in bright colors at Eastertime. Because of the same reason we display more flags than usual on patriotic days like memorial Day, July Fourth, and the recent Veteran's Day.

It's because of (to borrow a phrase from that famous stage and theatre production, "Fiddler On The Roof") "Tradition!"

And, when it comes to holidays, most of us thrive on tradition. In an everyday-changing world, traditions are a comforting strand of continuity, a link stretching from times past, tying together generations.

How do we really know the Pilgrims had turkey for what we traditionally refer to as the First Thanksgiving meal? Logic, for one thing, perhaps.

After a brief visit a year ago to beautiful Cap Cod and it's striking setting, jutting out into the ocean, that First Thanksgiving has become even more meaningful to me. The rolling dunes of sand, covered with bushy growth near the peninsula's tip and forested areas in abundance, must surely have been abundant with wildlife. Like wild turkeys and deer, two entrees history has generally associated with that first celebration.

In fact, the ruggedness of the area particularly struck me as having been a most inhospitable-looking landing after a difficult crossing for those hardy souls who braved the adventure to the new World. No wonder they celebrated survival.

Those of us who remember when turkey was a special treat advertise our aging. Because the big bird was truly a holiday tradition. Turkeys were generally purchased fresh, just a day or two before the holiday no open-freezer-bins in a giant supermarket overflowing with heavy-breasted birds sporting their own thermostats. no separately packaged turkey breasts, or turkey parts or ready-to-serve, pre-prepared turkey entrees.

Suppose, though, the Pilgrims had landed on the Delmarva Peninsula instead of Cape Cod area. Would we celebrate Thanksgiving with steamed crabs, If they set foot first on the Florida beaches, would we roast up an alligator or "crawdads" if those Pilgrims had blown off course and eventually disembarked their boats on the Mississippi River Delta?

And, if you like to argue with history and tradition,why not pay tribute to those early settlers who survived the trials and tribulations of like at Jamestown with a tasty Virginia ham? Surely those settlers were just as thankful for life and a square meal.

For those who really want to throw all traditions to the winds, maybe a turkey ham?

The reality is that we celebrate this wonderful holiday as a harvest tribute, a recognition of the bounty of food which we enjoy. So enjoy the blessings of Thanksgiving, whether it be a juicy turkey with traditional fixins' or a plain ole' grilled cheese sandwich.

And remember those less fortunate around the world who would be grateful for just a simple sandwich.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Cedar Crest Attends Area Leadership Conference

Cedar Crest recently attended the annual Lebanon and Schuylkill area leadership conference and Greenhand quiz contest at ELCO high school. The purpose of this event was to familiarize FFA participants with their duties and responsibilities as chapter members.

The group was greeted by Jason Balsbaugh, county president. As part of the program, Dan Kreider, a Cedar Crest graduate and the state chaplain, spoke to the group.

First year members competed in a quiz contest. Participating members had to answer questions about the FFA. Jared Zimmerman, Hannah Bomgardner, Jeremy Balsbaugh, and Sarah Krall competed for Cedar Crest. Sarah Krall placed first Hannah Bomgardner tied for second, Jeremy Balsbaugh was fourth, and Jared Zimmerman was 10th

The FFA members were then divided up into groups. The groups were as follows; official dress, SAE, what are FFA membership advantages, and Dan Kreider and Erin Reed, western region vice president, led a session on leaders and qualities of leaders. While in the groups, FFA members learned how they could improve themselves and the FFA.

Consuming Thoughts

by

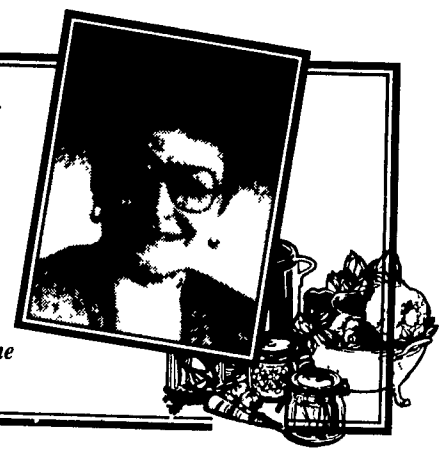
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



The holidays probably wouldn't be half as exciting to kids if special foods and treats weren't served But hectic schedules, disrupted routines and holiday feasts high in fat and sugar can all add up to less than favorable nutrition for children.

It's important for parents to remind their children that holidays are temporary and that normalcy will again reign, even at dinnertime. During the holidays, parents should make sure their youngsters are still offered a variety of nutritious foods to choose from for both meals and snacks.

Battles over eating that often occur at holiday time only increase frustrations and negative feelings about mealtime for both parent child. The child will ultimately make the final decision on what he/she will actually eat.

Children, particularly preschoolers, tend to self-regulate their eating patterns and food choices. When it seems all they're consuming one day is sweets and sodas, it often happens that the next day they could care less about these foods. Parents should begin to worry only when their children choose sweets so many days in a row.

As a parent, you can take several steps to curb poor food intake and overcome food battles without depriving your offspring of the festive food they've waited for since last year. Here are some examples:

• While many holiday sweets are used decoratively, keep them out sparingly. (Cookies seen and within reach are usually eaten more often.) Likewise, keep candy under wrap. Bring out these sweets at deliberate times should you choose to serve them as part of your holiday celebrations. Do not allow your kids to eat them all day long.

• Look at the spectrum of sweet food choices and resist the extremes. Hard candy is pure sugar; chocolate candy is mostly sugar and fat. Puddings, custards and frozen desserts, although still high in sugar and milk-fat, can provide a child's daily protein and calcium intake.

Most baked goods contain a lot of butter or fat and some sugar. Although they may also contain eggs and milk, it's usually in small amounts. Use whole grain flour whenever possible when making these items.

Make hot cocoa with low-fat milk and garnish it with one low-fat marshmallow instead of gobs of sweetened whipped cream. (Better yet, dispense with the garnish.)

When you prepare these special foods, it can also be a learning opportunity for children. Talk to them about sugar, fat and salt as you add them to favorite recipes. Be sure to note the nutrients provided by fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain breads and cereals, lower fat dairy foods and lean meats and fish.

• Introduce some new "holiday treats" that bear nutrition in disguise. Mix unprocessed peanut butter with nonfat dry milk, a little honey, quick cooking oatmeal and raisins. Fold in a little shredded coconut or a small amount of sugar for a festive look.

• Try an array of fresh cut up veggies and serve them with a yogurt-dill dip. Substitute a lower-fat sponge or angel food cake for butter-laden sweets and serve with mounds of fresh cut up fruit.

• Avoid using desserts as a reward during the holiday or at any other time. Kids may begin to attache undue importance to dessert rather than nutritious foods.

As parents, you can command the foods you make available to your child. You don't need to cook and serve foods high in salt, fat, and sugar. Those occasional and temporary indulgences by your children won't become permanent food patterns, especially if you set the standard of moderation in all festive foods.

Poinsettia Soil Basics

The ever popular poinsettia is back. A holiday favorite for many adults, the colorful bracts of the poinsettias last longer if grown in a good soilless media.

Select a quality poinsettia that was grown using a combination of peat moss,perlite, bark vermiculite or other organic materials. Regardless of what the media is contained the soilless media designed for potted poinsettias has to be porous. The media must also hold a sufficient amount of water and nutrients to prevent daily watering and fertilizing when you get it home.

Plants grown in a media that is very porous dries out too quickly. Plants grown in a heavier medial become stressed from low oxygen and root diseases.

Growing media used for poinsettias has to be free of disease organisms, insects and weeds. Field soils are never 'pest' free. Poinsettia in soilless media containing no field soils use several common amendments including peat, bark, perlite and vermiculite.

Peat and Peat-like materials used in soilless media include peat moss, hypnaceous moss, reed and sedge, humus or muck and sphagnum moss. Peat moss is formed by the accumulation of plants materials in poorly drained or boggy areas.

Although costly, sphagnum moss is the most desirable compenent for a growing media. Sphagnum moss is particularly light in weight and has the ability to adsorb 10 to 20 times its weight in water.

Bark is primarily a by-product of the pulp, paper and plywood industries. The bark is ground up by hammer milling, screening and composting. This produces a material which is suitable for use in container media and decomposes faster than peat. Physical properties obtained from tree bark are similar to those of Sphagnum, moss.

Sand is a valuable amendment for both potting and propagation media. Sand, a basic component of many field soils range in particle size from 0.05mm to 2.0mm in diameter. Sand improves the physical properties of a growing media. Medium and coarse sand particles are preferred in soilless media. Although sand is generally inexpensive, it is also the heaviest.

Perlite is a silicous mineral of volcanic origin. Crushed and heated to make a horticultural grade, perlite becomes a light powdery substance. Lightness and uniformity make perlite a very effective component of media for poinsettias.

Perlite is very dusty when dry. Perlite has a tendency to float to the soil surface of a container during watering.

Vermiculite is a micacious mineral heated to make an expanded plate-like particle to aid in holding water and improve aeration and drainage. Vermiculite has the ability to supply plant nutrients including potassium and magnesium.

Although the mix of amendments used by the greenhouse growers vary, all growing medias must be porous and well-drained, hold water, relatively low in soluble salts, and are mixed to make a uniform batch of soil

Some amendment combinations are made by mixing different rations (by volume) of soilless ingredients. Some commonly used soilless mixtures for poinsettias include 2:1 peat to perlite; 2:1:1 peat to perlite to vermiculite; 2:1 peat to sand; 3:1 peat to sand; 3:1:1; peat to perlite to vermicultie; 2:1:1 peat to bark to sand; 2:1:1 peat to bark to perlite or 3:1:1 peat to bark to sand. Many small growers purchase commercial mixes rather than mix their own for raising poinsettias.

Fitzkee Propagates Apples and Living Gifts

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Many people recognize Dan Fitzkee as the man with a passion to raise the largest apples in the area.

The Manheim man received national recognition a few years ago when he picked a 2.71 pound apple from his tree.

"I missed the Guiness Book of records by .03 of a pound," Fitzkee said. His picture appears in a national seed catalogue that promotes an apple tree called Stark's Jumbo Special.

Fitzkee is still trying to raise the biggest apple. Although he continues to get the blue ribbon at the Manheim Community Farm Show for the biggest apple, he hasn't been able to attain the world record.

That's O.K. Fitzkee has another passion—help the hungry—which he seeks to propagate in others.

Fitzkee takes the biblical injunction seriously: If a man has two coats, he should share one with the one who has none, and if he has food, he should do likewise.

Fitzkee is one of the leaders of the Living Gift Fair, begun in the 1980s, when his son Don and other students at Elizabethtown College took up the challenge of raising money for those in need.

Donating a "Living Gift" doesn't mean donating your organs after your death. The Living Gift refers to Heifer Project International (HPI), a nonprofit organization committed to alleviating hunger and poverty by providing animals and related assistance.

People purchase an animal or share of an animal in the name of a friend to give to those in need.

A family in need gets the HPI animal. In return, each recipient passes on the gift by giving one or more of the first offspring to another needy family. This way the project is self perpetuating and in some villages has been continuing 10 years after the first animal was given.

Those who receive a Living Gift are given an attractive HPI gift card to give to the person in whose name it was purchased.

Often at Christmas, it is difficult to know what to buy or if it will be appreciated by the receiver. For those who participate in the Living Gift Fair, Fitzkee said, "You have the satisfaction of knowing that your gift was needed."

In the past, Fitzkee donated some bees to HPI. One year Fitzkee delivered the bees to a West Virgina family. Fitzkee was amazed to see the poverty that existed there.

"You hear about malnutrition and poverty in other countries. Even if there weren't signs of malnutrition, the people in the mountains were so isolated that Fitzkee was unable to reach them with his pickup truck.

After driving through creeks, Fitzkee had to park his truck and depend upon someone else with a more brawny truck to deliver the shipment.

In poverty-stricken areas, recipients are often women. The men often work in distant cities because there are no jobs where they live.

"People have a desire to help themselves and to help in the development of the community. Proper training to teach the care of the animal is a major requirement for those who are recipients in order to assure that the venture will be successful," Fitzkee said.

"Compared to people in other countries, we are all rich," Fitzkee said.

"A living gift helps wipe out discouragement and hopelessness in people who have no resources to help themselves. A gift animal in some of these countries can double the income for some families," Fitzkee said.

"A Living Gift isn't just a handout. It lifts up recipients and enables them to help others, which gives them self esteem."

When the Living Gift Fair was first established, only large animals were used. Things have changed a lot.

"Now, we have more that two dozen animals to choose from," said Fitzkee.

Goats are one of the most needed gifts. For families who have no refrigeration, a goat provides just the right amount of milk daily. A goat can be raised on steep terrain and doesn't need much land.

Fitzkee said that agriculture missionaries work closely with those who receive projects. In many countries, the land has been abused and is so poor that crops cannot be raised on it. Trees have often been cut down and need to be replanted to provide leaves for goats and nitrogen for the soil. Animal manure helps enrich the land.

"It's a matter of stewardship, where all things work together," Fitzkee said.

When the concept of gift giving first began, it was typical for farmers to donate animals for the projects. Today it often costs more money to ship the animal than the animal costs.

To counteract these costs, the animal is now purchased closer to the area where it is to be used. Camels and llamas are good examples of animals that would be extremely expensive to purchase in this country but are much cheaper in countries where they are used.

Using animals from the same country often means the animal is more resistant to parasites and easily adapts to the climate.

Ostriches are growing in popularity. An ostrich produces 60 to 90 eggs annually. Meat, skin, feathers—all parts of the bird are used.

Fitzkee said that snails are probably the most unusual project. They are used for food in places such as Ghana.

In some countries, such as Romania, the gift includes semen straws as a means to upgrade the genetic quality of the cows.

The Living Gift Fair is held in the fellowship hall at the Lititz Church of the Brethren. Tables are set up with explanations of current projects in the country it is in. An explanation of what animal is used, how it provides food, income, and printed materials are available free.

Participants mark purchases on a shopping list, pay for the gift or gifts and receive a recognition card showing what has been purchased in the name of a friend or family member.

Also available to purchase at the Living Gift Fair are soups, sandwiches, drinks, apple dumplings, other lunch items, baked goods, craft items, and toys. Profits from these also go toward the HPI project.

Hammercreek Exotics provides animals for a petting zoo during the Fair. Balloons, games, puppet shows, and other activities are provided at the Children's Corner.

A large Christmas tree in the center is decorated as participants purchase animals and a shape of the animal purchased is attached to the tree.

Last year $19,000 was raised. This year, the committee has set a goal to raise more than $20,000.

The 11th annual Living Gift Fair will be Saturday, Nov. 28, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Lititz Church of the Brethren, 300 W. Orange St. (across from Warwick High School). Contributions are tax deductible.

For more information, call Dan Fitzkee at (717) 665-5743.

Dan Fitzkee has a passion for propagating apples and for helping the hungry. He takes the biblical injunction seriously: If a man has two coats, he should share one with the one who has none, and if he has food, he should do likewise." One of the best ways to share, Fitzkee believes is through the Living Gift Fair, which he helps to oversee each year.

With the apple on the left, Dan Fitzkee missed the Guiness Book of records by .03 of a pound. He had a replica of the apple made and each year tries to beat it. This year, the apples were small but Fitzkee still won first place at the Manheim Community Fair with the apple on the right.

Have A Cow

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Short on gift ideas for the person who has got everything?

Well, have a cow! Or a goat, or a yak, or hive of bees.

These and a variety of other familiar and not-so-familiar animals will be on sale at the 11th annual Heifer Project International Living Gift Fair November 28 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Lititz Church of the Brethren.

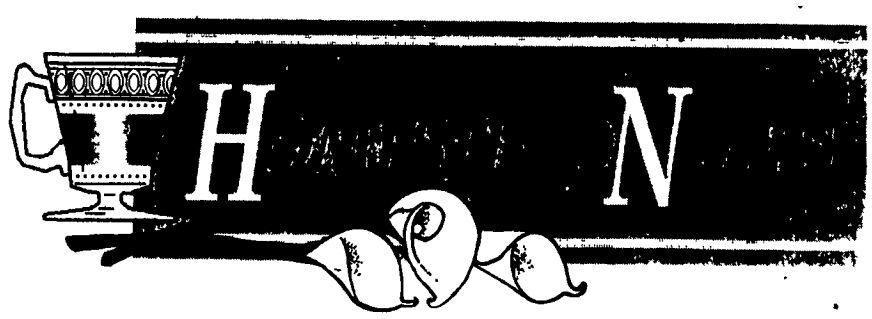
The fair provides conscientious Christmas shoppers with an alternative to the materialism of the holiday season.

Here's how it works: Shoppers purchase animals in the name of a friend. The friends receives an attractive HPI gift card. A family in need receives the animal. Decorated tables provide information about how HPI animals benefit poor families in the US and abroad.

Those wishing to take something home with them can choose from Discovery Toys, HPI clothing and merchandise, homemade baked goods, arts and crafts, and more. Bring the whole family for lunch.

Special children's attractions include live animals to see and touch, puppet shows at 10, 11:15, and 12:30 by Sandy Brandt, face painting, and helium-filled balloons.

The Lititz Church of the Brethren is located at 300 W. Orange St., in Lititz, directly across from Warwick High School. Donations of crafts and baked goods will be accepted until the day of the fair. To learn more, call Dan Fitzkee at 717-665-5743.



Farm Women

Berks Executive Society

The Berks County Farm Womens executive board met on November 2 at the Berks County Agriculture Center iwth 20 members present. President Betsy Sattazahn thanked everyone who helped make the County Convention a success. Members were reminded of upcoming events that need help and support such as the Berks Heim bingo at the Annex to be held Thursday, November 12, at 6:30 p.m. and Santa's Corner on Wednesday, December 9, at the Annex.

Donations of unwrapped gifts and cookies would be appreciated by members.

The State Convention will be held in Harrisburg on January 11. Registration is from 9-9:30 a.m. The banquet is at The Radison Penn Harris Hotel at 5 p.m. Berks County executive board will supply 25 centerpieces for the event and some of its members will serve as ushers for the morning session. The next meeting will be held on January 4, at The Berks County Agriculture Center in the Natural Resources Room at 8.00 p.m.

Lancaster Society 20

On Thursday, November 5, Farm Women #20 met at the home of Pauline Reinhart with Dorothy Crawford as co-hostess. Following the luncheon Dorothy had the devotions and for the Scripture read Psalm 92 and a reading Summertime Review. The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison followed by The Pledge of Allegiance. For the Roll Call each mentioned what they wanted for Christmas from their Secret Pal. The attendance was 17.

The vice president, Valeria Ferguson, presided at the business meeting during which several issues were discussed and it was announced that the County gave $3000 to the Red Cross, which was their project for this year.

For the program Tina Volz spoke on the Indians and she was dressed in Indian clothing, which she made. She told Indian stories of their different ways and said they want everyone to learn C.P.R.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in December with Marion Hastings and Mary Shirk is co-hostess.

Berks Society 4

Berks Society of Farm Women #4 met on Oct. 6, at the home of Virginia Talyer-Sloan, Hereford.

During the social hour, the group hed an auction of wrapped itesm weighing one pound. To celebrate Farm Women Day, members met on Oct. 17, for breakfast at Bonanza, Boyertown. The following were elected for a two-year term: Elsie Rothenberger, president; Lottie Hildenbrand, vice president; Virginia Taylor-Sloan, secretary; and Georgeanna Fullerton, treasurer.

The state convention will be held Jan. 11 at the Forum, Harrisburg. Registration is 9-9:30. The banquet will be held at the Radison. Cost is $19, the deadline for tickets is Jan. 1.

The next Nov. 4 meeting was held at the home of Mary Fizz, Boyertown. Members made 75 candy train engines to be given out as favors for Meals on Wheels.

Elsie Rothenberger, president, conducted the business meeting. Berks Heim bingo is Nov. 12.

Berks Heim needs gifts and cookies for Santa's Corner again this year. Virginia Taylor-Sloan will shop for gifts and see that they are taken to the Heim.

Berks County needs to provide 25 centerpieces for the Jan. 11 State Convention. Group 4, will make three centerpieces.

The next meeting will be Dec. 8 at The Inn at Pleasantville. Members will meet for dinner at 6:30 with the Crhistmas party to follow. Everyone is to bring a wrapped $5 gift to be exchanged.

ANSWER — Deirdre from New York wants a recipe for chocolate spice cake. Thanks to Donna Steele, Vintondale, who sent in this recipe.

Spiced Devil's Food

1 cup butter, softened
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup baking cocoa
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ to 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ to ½ teaspoon cloves
1 cup buttermilk

Mocha icing:

3¾ cups confectioners' sugar
¼ cup baking cocoa
6 tablespoons strong coffee
6 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
Whole almonds, optional

In a mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add vanilla. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with buttermilk to creamed mixture.

Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes or until cakes tests done. Cool. Combine the first five icing ingredients until smooth. Frost one cake layer, top with second layer and frost entire cake. Garnish with almonds if desired. Yield: 12 servings.

ANSWER — Toni Levan, Galeton, wanted a good recipe for garlic pickles. Thanks to Kathleen Brandt for sending her recipe.

Garlic Pickles

Slice pickles thin and put into jars. Put 1 tablespoon minced garlic on top of each jar. Heat and pour over the pickles the following:

2 cups vinegar
2 tablespoons salt
2 cups water
3 cups sugar

Cold pack for 5 minutes after they come to a hard boil. This syrup makes 4 quarts.

For garlic dill pickles, add a large head of dill on top of each jar before sealing.

ANSWER — A reader wanted recipes for black bread and for pumpernickel bread. Thanks to Paul Mogel, Shartlesville, for sending a recipe.

Black Bread

1 tablespoon yeast
1½ cups warm water
1 cup high gluten flour
2 cups whole wheat flour
1 cup wheat bran
1 cup dark rye flour or pumpernickel
1 cup wheat germ
½ cup rolled oats
1 cup warm water
½ cup blackstrap molasses
4 teaspoon salt
½ -1 cup additional whole wheat flour for kneading

Dissolve yeast in warm water in large bowl. Stir in the gluten and the whole wheat flour and knead vigorously until you have a rubbery ball of dough. Spread this ball of dough over the bottom of the bowl. Sprinkle the remaining ingredients, except the additional flour whole wheat flour and rolled oats over the dough. Mix the ingredients in until well distributed. A potato masher may help with this. Mix the dough until it is the same color and texture through out. At this point, dump onto your table and knead in additional whole wheat flour until the dough is no longer sticky (which may never happen, as this is a sticky dough). Knead about 5 minutes.

Let the dough rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk, at least one hour.

Punch down and shape into two loaves. Roll them in rolled oats, and place loaves side by side on a cookie sheet that has been sprinkled with commeal. Let rise again for about 45 minutes.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees and bake for 45 minutes or longer.

MACARONI AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

4 cups uncooked elbow macaroni
½ cup butter
½ cup flour
Salt and pepper to taste
5 cups milk
4 cups cheddar cheese, shredded

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Cook pasta according to directions; drain. In large saucepan over medium heat, melt butter. Blend flour, salt and pepper; gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens and mixture begins to boil. Add cheese; stir until cheese is melted. In 3-quart casserole, stir together pasta and cheese sauce. Bake 30 minutes or until bubbly. Serves 8-10.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Almost Thanksgiving and we do have a lot to be thankful for again this year. We are both able to hop out of bed in the morning, which is more than a lot of people can do. Recently we've been visiting folks in hospitals and nursing homes, which helps us realize our blessings.

This year our gardens have given us ample produce and I canned and froze 344 quart of fruit and vegetables. The only crop that was not ample was the sweet corn, which the raccoons ate. The other week someone asked what I still had in my garden. Till I was finished mentioning Swiss chard, tomatoes, radishes, parsley, peanuts, sweet potatoes, broccoli, squash, leeks and lima beans, they probably wished they had not asked. This year we dug several bushel of sweet potatoes and so our friends are sharing the crop.

My houseplants are finally all in the house. This year there are only 84 on the windowsills and in the two bay windows. They keep me busy in the winter as the blooming ones do drop their blossoms, and I must water them quite often.

And, there are nine baskets of different kinds of bulbs and tubers in the basement. Not everything has been dug up as I really have too many as they multiply each year. If I only knew someone who wanted red cannas as I will leave them outside to freeze.

This year our daughter in New Jersey has invited us to her home for Thanksgiving. I shall miss putting a big turkey in the oven and making all the extra dishes. Maybe I can make some things to take along to her house.

Cook's Question

ANSWER Lynda Bell, Lincoln University, wanted a recipe for gingerbread with warm caramel sauce, which had appeared in the "Dinah Shore Cookbook," printed in the 1970s. Thanks to Bonny Ray, Derry; Ginny Wolf, Middletown, Md.; Stephanie Binner, Westminster, Md., and others for sending recipes.

Gingerbread With Caramel Sauce

1 cup molasses
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs, beaten separately
½ cup sugar
½ cup butter, melted
2 cups flour (scant)
1 cup boiling water

Mix molasses, baking soda, and spices. Add sugar, butter, flour, and water; beat well. Add egg yolks and fold in whites. Pour in a greased ring mold and bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. (Don't worry if batter seems thin, it's supposed to be).

Caramel Sauce:

2 egg yolks
1 cup cream
1 pound light brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt

Add egg yolks and cream to sugar. Cook until creamy in double boiler. Add butter. When cool, add vanilla and salt.

Serve on a large round platter with bowl that fits in the center of the ring after the gingerbread has been unmolded. Gingerbread and sauce are even nicer when served a little warm. Serves 8.

This Thanksgiving, Share With Kids In Need

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Thanksgiving is a time set aside to be thankful for the many good things that you have. You're probably thankful for your mom and dad, a warm bed to sleep in, and plenty of food to eat.

The day after Thanksgiving, seems to be the time when everyone starts thinking of Christmas.

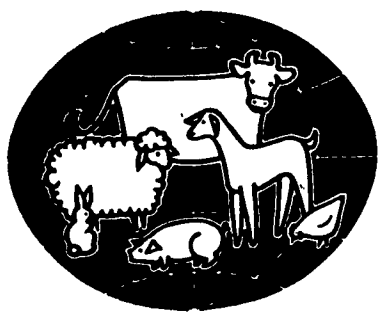
For many of you, it is a time to compile a Christmas list of the things you want.

During this time, you may forget to be thankful for the things you have and focus on your wants instead.

The intention of the Christmas season was never to make one selfish. Christmas started with the birth of Baby Jesus. In recognition of God giving his very best gift to the world, people give gifts to each other.

Christmas is a good time to give to those in need. There are many children throughout the world who do not have enough food to eat. Perhaps you'd like to give them some food, but you don't know how.

There is a program called Living Gift Fair. One of these fairs is held every year, the first Saturday after Thanksgiving.



At this fair, parents and their children can purchase an animal such as a goat, rabbit, chicks, or duck to be given to those who are in need.

Maybe you wonder how such a gift will help those who are hungry?

Here's how: Goats thrive in poor conditions. They give as much as four quarts of milk a day so that children can have milk to drink.

Rabbits need little space and little food. They multiply rapidly, providing families with meat to eat.

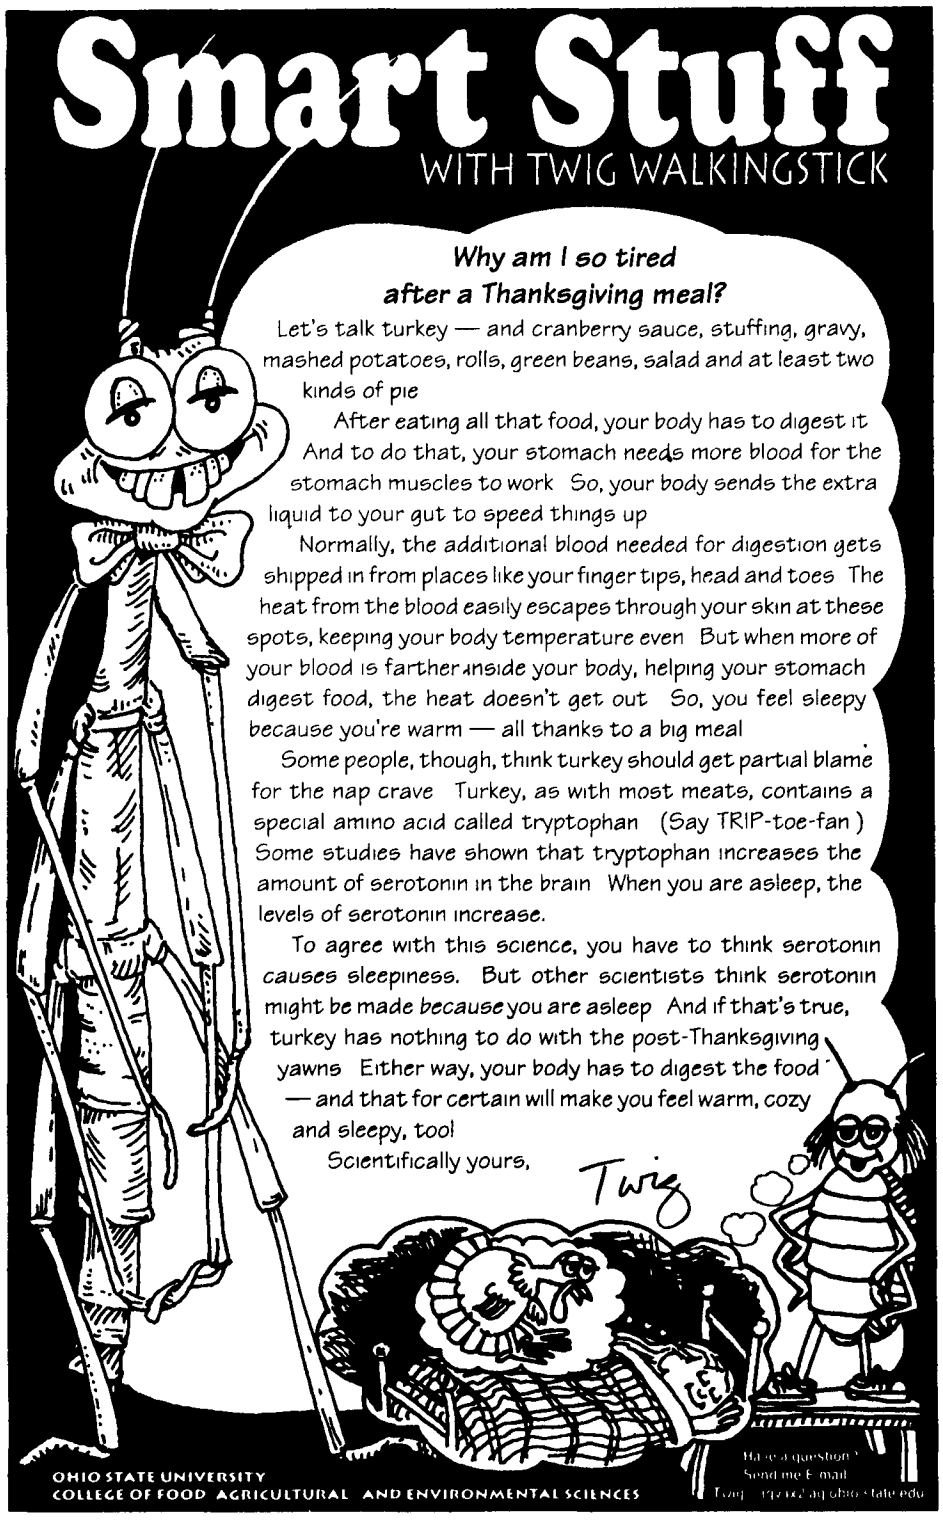
Ducks and geese are easy to raise. They don't require much shelter and can adapt to cold or hot weather. They dispose of weed seeds and gobble up insets, slugs, and snails. Ducks and geese provide eggs and meat.

There are more than two dozen animals to choose from at the Living Gift Fair. In addition, toys, clothing, and baked goods will be sold with the profits going to buy more animals for those in need.

At the Living Gift Fair, special events will be held for children. These include live animals to see and touch, puppet shows, face painting, and helium-filled balloons.

The Living Gift Fair will be on Nov. 28 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Lititz Church of the Brethren, 300 W. Orange St. Lititz, across from the Warwick High School.

Ben and Carrie Fitzkee feed a goat to be used as a Living Gift. Goats are one of the most needed gifts. For families who have no refrigeration, a goat provides just the right amount of milk daily. A goat can be raised on steep terrain and doesn't need much land.



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Why am I so tired after a Thanksgiving meal?
Let's talk turkey — and cranberry sauce, stuffing, gravy, mashed potatoes, rolls, green beans, salad and at least two kinds of pie
After eating all that food, your body has to digest it And to do that, your stomach needs more blood for the stomach muscles to work So, your body sends the extra liquid to your gut to speed things up
Normally, the additional blood needed for digestion gets shipped in from places like your finger tips, head and toes The heat from the blood easily escapes through your skin at these spots, keeping your body temperature even But when more of your blood is farther inside your body, helping your stomach digest food, the heat doesn't get out So, you feel sleepy because you're warm — all thanks to a big meal
Some people, though, think turkey should get partial blame for the nap crave Turkey, as with most meats, contains a special amino acid called tryptophan (Say TRIP-toe-fan) Some studies have shown that tryptophan increases the amount of serotonin in the brain When you are asleep, the levels of serotonin increase.
To agree with this science, you have to think serotonin causes sleepiness. But other scientists think serotonin might be made because you are asleep And if that's true, turkey has nothing to do with the post-Thanksgiving yawns Either way, your body has to digest the food — and that for certain will make you feel warm, cozy and sleepy, too!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

Turkey Time

From the time your purchase your turkey to the time you store the leftovers, there are crucial steps to assure a safe and healthy holiday. If you're preparing a turkey that you've had in the freezer for some time, you will want to plan ahead. Figure it will take 24 hours for every five pounds to thaw. So, if you have a 20 pound turkey, take it out of the freezer and place it in the refrigerator on Sunday, four days before Thanksgiving. A word to the wise — do not allow turkey to thaw on the counter. Bacteria are naturally present on turkey and grow rapidly at room temperature.

What about stuffing the ol' bird? Food safety specialists suggest we avoid stuffing turkey, but if you insist, stuff it right before you put it in the oven. Over the years, many people have stuffed the turkey the night before. All the bacteria in the cavity of the turkey love the moist stuffing and multiply over the night. In fact, a few bacteria can turn into millions within two hours. To assure the safety of your guests, cook the stuffing outside the turkey.

Most of us guess when turkey is done. The pop-up meat thermomenter in turkey are often not accurate. To take the guesswork out of cooking turkey, use a meat thermometer. Not only does this help you to make sure the turkey is done, but it also prevents serving a dry overcooked turkey or any other meat dish. When purchasing a thermometer, make sure it's for meat and poultry. Don't confuse it with a candy thermometer.

If using an instant-read or digital-type thermometer, insert the meat thermometer into the inner thigh near the breast of turkey without hitting the bone. While the desired temperature of the meat is 180 degrees F., you'll want to make sure the stuffing reaches 165 degrees F. The time it will take to reach these temperatures depends on the size of the turkey and whether it is stuffed.

We all tend to enjoy sitting around the table after we've filled our tummies. But do remember to debone and refrigerate leftover turkey within two hours of when it's finished cooking. This will make it safe to enjoy the leftovers for the next several days. Use the leftover refrigerated turkey and stuffing within three to four days and gravy within one to two days. If you want the leftovers to last longer, place them in the freezer. When you decide to enjoy the leftovers, make sure you reheat them to 165 degrees F even if reheating in the microwave. If you happen to be cooking Thanksgiving dinner in your kitchen and taking it somewhere else, there's one rule of thumb you need to remember: "Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold." Assuming that you will be serving this food within two hours transport hot foods at temperatures above 140 degrees F and cold foods below 40 degrees F. If you will be eating after two hours, all foods prepared should be properly cooled at home and reheated to 165 degrees F at your destination.

If you would like more information, call the Penn State Extension Office at 836-3196 or the USDA hotline at 1-800-535-4555.

Baking Consultant

From November 1 through December 24, consumers simply need to dial 1-800-782-9606 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. (CST) for great baking advice, to request recipes or to get help with home baking emergencies. Every day of the week, the Bakeline's expert home economists will assist thousands of callers from across the nation. Extensively trained in the Land O'Lake Test Kitchens, all 27 Bakeline home economists return each year, giving precious time during the holiday season to help others achieve baking bliss.

"The Bakeline has been called an American holiday tradition, and we're happy to offer a helping hand to thousands of people who call the Bakeline each year," said Lydia Botham, director of consumer affairs and the Land O'Lakes Test Kitchens. "We get calls from all types of bakers, from novices to experts, and our home economists are there to talk them through a recipe every step of the way"

This year, all callers will receive a newly designed leaflet filled with great baking tips from the Bakeline home economists and five holiday recipes. A variety of delicious recipes are included, from Almond Candy Jewels, ideal for gift giving, to the Maple Pecan Kringle, a delicious selection for a holiday brunch.

Farmland Preservationist Authors Book

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Amos H. Funk, father of farmland preservation, is 87 years old. Although he walks a bit slowly and has a touch of angina, his mission to share his love for the land continues its steady pace.

Known as the champion of farmland preservation and conservation, Funk has recently authored the book, "My Life and Love for the Land."

In the 282-page hardcover book published by Masthof Press, Morgantown, Funk tells how his life was shaped to become an avid champion of farmland preservation.

He said that his passion for caring for the land was birthed when as a 12-year-old, he accepted Christ as savior. Commitment, he believed, was to turn over to the Lord the best of his ability, his time, and energy. His Sunday school teacher taught him that one should not destroy or waste God's creation.

As a young boy, Amos looked around the farm and noticed some serious erosion on several fields. He didn't know what to do about the soil loss until he met a neighbor who worked for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. For the first time, Amos learned that by changing field shapes and farming across the slopes of the hill in alternate strips of cultivated and non-cultivated crops, erosion could be reduced.

When Amos asked his dad to try contour farming, his dad replied: "I will never get used to or like those crooked rows. However, you probably will be farming long after I am gone, and if you think it is a good idea, let's try it."

They did. They also turned a small chicken house into a roadside stand because Amos wanted to try it. That small beginning grew to include acreage from three farms, 22 greenhouses, a store with more than $2 million in sales, which employs 150 people during its peak season.

Because of Funk's enthusiasm for conservation, he was later asked to serve on the newly formed board of the Lancaster County Conservation District.

"At first we were concerned about soil erosion, but in the late 1960s, we developed a new concern. We became concerned about the loss of entire farms or parts of farms when they were taken out of production for industrial or residential development."

It became Funk's passion to do everything he could to convince people of the need to save the state's farmland.

He helped form Farmland Trust and the Friends of Agricultural Land Preservation. He solicited funds, introduced legislation to change laws, and testified before the Ag Committee of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

He tangled with land developers, board of realtors, and with fellow farmers who saw Funk's proposals as a threat to free enterprise and the right to do what they wanted with the land, believing it would cut the value of their property.

Funk, who himself owned three farms, said, "If we believe that we are ever going to permanently preserve farmland in the county, farmers will have to somewhat reduce their anticipated equity they feel they have in the land, and the public will have to use tax dollars to provide an incentive for the farmer to make a commitment to permanently keep the farm in agriculture. Government at all levels will have to provide additonal incentives to farm without a lot of governmental regulations."

Funk fought and won to have the Internal Revenue Service treat donated deed restrictions to the county and ag preservation as deductions from Federal income tax.

The book details both problems and successes in saving the best farmland in the county.

"This is a permanent record that demonstrates that most worthwhile things are not easy to attain," Funk said as he held up a copy of his book. "I wrote this to share ideas, not to make money."

Funk said that it was hard to get preservation moving. "In the beginning, we were knocked down in Harrisburg because the issue was considered too controversial."

Patience, Funk said, is not one of his virtues. When he attended a hearing held by the Pennsylvania House Ag committe on farmland preservation, Funk said, "We have talked and talked. For more than 20 years we have talked about farmland preservation in Pennsylvania. It is time to do something!"

Today Funk can look back over his life with the satisfaction that the county is considered a national leader in farmland preservation and has preserved 350 farms.

He believes that part of the reason that land preservation became so successful in the county was that the board pushed for guided growth rather the preservation of every farm.

One of the reasons that builders have not fought the deed restriction program was because it is voluntary and has a 25-year limit. In addition, a builder and developer sat on the board and acted as a watchdog for the industry.

Friends and foes see Funk as extremely honest. A man of tireless dedication, Funk is also an excellent farmer who was named a 1966 Master Farmer.

Funk refused honorary fees despite averaging more than 1,000 hours annually speaking locally and nationally on behalf of preservation.

When Funk was absent from one of the Lancaster Farmland Trust meetings, board members set up the Amos Funk Farmland Endowment Trust. It started with $1,000 gift and now has more than $650,000 funded by people interested in farmland preservation.

Of special interest to growers is the book's account of how the successful Funk's Farm Market selected crops. Also of interest are changes needing to be made to avoid a loss in profits.

Funk writes of how varieties of sweet corn, strawberries, and other produce was improved throughout his years as a grower.

When comparing todays varieties with those of the past, Funk looks at a tomato and remarks: "You've come a long way, baby, —regardless of what anyone says about hard tomatoes and hard times."

A plant pathologist named a raspberry "Amos" after Funk. According to Funk the variety is five days earlier than other varieties, the berries are larger and are equal in taste to the other leading berry. In addition, the Amos variety reduces labor costs more than $100 per acre because it sends out half as many suckers.

Funk has spent the past year compiling the book. Now that he is finished, he said that he plans to "coast" a bit.

What Funk calls coasting is different than many probably forsee themselves doing as 87-year-olds.

Funk plans to continue to help out with the Farm Market, which his son Fred has taken over. "I like to help with the planting and fertilizing operation, which is determined with soil tests and record keeping," Funk said. "I draw up the projected plans and my son goes over them."

As always, Funk is in the search for a better raspberry and a better tomato. Sensors are inserted in the ground to maintain irrigation levels. It's exciting for him to find that the optimal taste of cantaloupe can be increased by keeping a cantaloupe on the vine longer if the right water levels can be maintained.

Funk said that he has led a satisfying life. He is profuse in the praise of his wife Esta, who he said gets the credit for how well their six children have turned out and for everything that he was able to accomplish. The couple has 11 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Funk said that he reads the Bible a lot. He likes sports, especially the Eagles, "when they were a better team." He is a Penn State fan.

He wants to continue living in the farmhouse where he was born, and his father before him.

"No one likes farming better than I do," Funk said. "It's a challenge that isn't found as much in other areas. I've always been drawn to things that are difficult."

The book is available at local bookstores, and from the publisher, Masthof Press, 220 Mill Rd., Morgantown, PA 19543. Or call Masthof at (610) 286-0258.

Amos H. Funk and his wife Esta hold a copy of the newly released "My Life and Love for the Land." Funk, often referred to as the "father of farmland preservation," has received state and national awards for his preservation and conservation work. Funk wrote the book to inspire others to treasure prime farmland and retain it for future generations. The book also tells of his family, the roadside stand that grew to include 22 greenhouses and acreage from three farms to provide fresh produce.

Cook's Notes

• To quickly mince an onion, peel and quarter it. Place the sections in a blender and cover with cold water. Turn the blender on high for about 3 seconds, then turn it off. Repeat until the onions are blended. Pour the mixture into a sieve and let the water drain out.

• For cookies that are rolled in sugar, place five or six balls of dough at a time in a container of sugar, cover and shake to coat. It saves time and your fingers stay clean.

• A small funnel is handy for separating egg whites from the yolks. Break the egg over the funnel. The whites will run through the funnel and the yolk will remain.

Mushrooms - Important Part of a Health Diet

Chester County has a very important agriculture industry which provides us with a bountiful supply and variety of mushrooms.

The nutritional message is a very positive one–mushrooms are low in calories with less than 30 calories per quarter pound. Mushrooms are low in fat and contain no cholesterol. They are suited to low-salt diets and are good sources of potassium and rich in Vitamin B12. Mushrooms contain vegetable protein which, when combined with pasta, grains or beans, produces a complete protein.

Fresh mushrooms need careful handling. Store them in a paper bag in your refrigerator two to three days. If you need to keep them longer, freeze them. It is best to saute the mushrooms in oil or butter, whole or sliced, and store in an appropriate freezer-weight bag. They may be frozen up to three months.

The average portion of raw mushrooms is 1/4 pound. As a cooked vegetable, allow 6 ounces per serving. Here are a few recipes to get you started.

Ginger, Spit Pea and Mushroom Soup

1 onion, finely chopped
1 tablespoon grated ginger root
2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro or parsley
1/2 pound green split peas
5 cups vegetable stock
10-ounces small button mushrooms, sliced

Put onion, ginger root, cilantro or parsley, split peas, and stock into a saucepan. Bring to a boil, cover and simmer gently for 30 minutes. Add the mushrooms and simmer for an additional 15 minutes. Season to taste, then serve garnished with lemon slices and sprigs of cilantro or parsley. Serves 4-6

Some ideas to introduce mushrooms to your family

• Sliced mushrooms are excellent for sandwich fillers. Grill portabella slices that have been brushed with olive oil and served with lettuce and whole wheat bread.

•A few large white mushrooms may be put into the roasting pan around a beef roast or chicken for the last 10 minutes of cooking.

•Specialty mushrooms such as shiitake, enoki, oyster, etc., have lovely shapes and colors and are excellent accompaniments to dishes.

Marinated Mushrooms

1/2 cup wine vinegar
1/2 clove garlic
1 bay leaf
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons tomato paste
3 tablespoons oil
1 pound small button mushrooms
fresh cilantro

Put the vinegar, garlic, bay leaf, and onion into a saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer until the onion is tender. Add the tomato paste and oil. Mix together thoroughly and season to taste. Pour the marinade over the mushrooms. Cover and chill overnight. Remove the garlic and bay leaf. Serve in individual dishes. Garnish with cilantro. Serves 4 or makes a wonderful appetizer for a small group.

Nutty News

Nuts have long been enjoyed for their unique taste and texture, and now that winter is approaching, let's take another look at the health benefits of nuts.

A healthful eating plan includes some fat — the American Heart Association recommends 30% with 10% or less saturated. Although relatively high in fat, nuts contain mostly unsaturated fat. Unsaturated fats can help control blood cholesterol leves and thus lower the risk for heart disease. Because many Americans eat too much saturated fat, nutrition experts recommend replacing some saturated fat with poly- and monounsaturated fats, the type of fats found in nuts.

Walnuts are high in polyunsaturated fat. Polyunsaturated fats include essential fatty acids and omega-3 fatty acids. Research suggests that omega-3 fatty acids found in foods like fish, seafood, and nuts may help reduce the risk of heart diease and stroke. A quarter cup (one ounce) of walnuts supplies about 2 grams of plant-based omega-3 fatty acids, slightly more than is found in 3 ounces of salmon. To reap the benefits of omega-3 fatty acids, try to eat fish, seafood, or nuts two to three times a week.

Nuts are also a good source of protein. In the Food Guide Pyramid, nuts are included with other protein rich foods in the Meat, Poultry, Eggs, Beans and Nuts category. One-third cup of nuts provides about 5 grams of protein and is equivalent to 1 ounce of lean meat.

Additionally, nuts, like pistachios and almonds, are teeming with vitamins and minerals in each crunchy bite, including thiamine, vitamin B-6, folacin, magnesium, iron, copper, and potassium. Research in cancer prevention includes studies on phytochemicals (natural chemicals found in foods). Nuts contain one type of phytochemical called phenolic acid. Another reason to consume nuts!

There's even more good news. Nuts are one of nature's original convenience foods. Easy to carry along in a purse, briefcase, or backpack, peanuts and almonds, for example, provide an energy-boosting, quick snack.

Nuts are also versatile and easy to toss in salads, pasta, rice dishes, and stir-fries. They're great in veggie pizzas and in trail mixes with dried fruit, as well as their traditional uses in baked goods like muffins and breads.

Poultry Ambassador Tours Hatchery, Mill

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — As Pennsylvania Poultry Ambassador, Sarah Woodling often teaches others about the importance of including poultry and eggs in their diets. But, sometimes, Sarah is the one who is taught.

Before she entered the hatchery, Sarah pulled on protective boots and a lab coat to prevent the spread of disease. She saw white plastic bins where the chicks are held until they are ready for delivery. Sarah watched a machine separate the shell from the chicks. Later she saw the area where the chicks are debeaked and vaccinated. The eggs are kept in rooms filled with incubators that turn every few hours to keep the yolks from sticking to the shell. She also saw how the eggs are kept in bins until they are ready to hatch. In all these units, temperature and humidity are carefully monitored in order to prevent disease and other problems.

After the tour, Sarah watched a video about a layer house where the eggs are laid.

Later, Sarah toured Wenger's Feed Mill. She watched the trucks that carry corn and other raw materials for feed-making and how each ingredients is measured and carefully tested.

In the mill, Sarah saw the area where different additives, such as vitamins and minerals, are stored. She watched the computer control room where all the ingredients and their amounts are closely monitored. She watched as a machine turned loose feed into pellets.

By taking tours such as these, Sarah is better able to answer questions that people might ask.

Wayne Achievement Night

There are 24 traditional 4-H Clubs in Wayne County. At the recent 4-H Achievement Night held at Lakeside Elementary School, six of these traditional clubs were proclaimed 1998 Super Clubs.

All clubs who submitted an application exemplify a model club. Some of the criterion for selection were number and type of community service projects, number of members completing projects, and participation by members in county, regional, and state activities. Warren Schloesser, president of the extension board, announced the winners and presented each club with a plaque.

The following clubs are the 1998 Super Club winners: Bethany 4-H, Cherry Ridge 4-H Club, Cold Springs-Rileyville 4-H, Laurella 4-H, Pleasant Mountain Go Getters, and Tri-Gal 4-H

Super Club winner, Bethany 4-H, is led by Joan Donofry, Arlene Warnock, Joanne Curtis, Betty and Louise Mang, and Lori Olver. Twenty-eight members completed 40 projects on time and all gave a club demonstration this year. The club organized several community service projects — among them was making donations to the 4-H Development Fund that benefits the entire Wayne County 4-H program. They recently participated in the Wayne County Bicentennial parade and had an historical display in the Courthouse.

The second Super Club named was the Cherry Ridge 4-H Club. Leaders Cherie & Steve Gilbert, Bonnie Korb, and Nancy Propst aim to build a strong foundation for the young group, doing their best to mix education with lots of fun and a sense of community involvement Thirty-five members completed 53 projects this year Members were active in a variety of community service projects, such as planting flowers at community buildings, collecting canned goods for a food pantry, donating trophies to the fair, and probably the most outstanding was organizing a benefit auction to defray medical expenses for Cindy Kasper, a fellow Middle School student.

Club leaders Judy and Bob Muller, along with Dave Jonas, Ella Chyle, and Peggy Simons, received the next plaque for Super Club Cold Springs-Rileyville. Their 28 members completed 55 projects and gave 21 demonstrations this year. The club's community service projects included roadside clean-up, bundling trees for the Wayne Conservation District, planting flowers at area churches, serving food at fire company dinners, and sending get well cards to local citizens. One of their members was a participant in the North American Livestock Expo in Kentucky and first alternate Pennsylvania Jersey queen

The next Super Club announced was the Laurella 4-H Club, led by Bonnie Decker, Bonnie LaTourette, Rosemary Miller, and Tammy Scull. Laurella conducted a project tour of all members and also hosted a 4-H member from Canada this summer. Their 34 members completed 49 projects this year and gave 14 demonstrations. Community service projects top their activities list. Making Easter baskets and fruit baskets for underprivileged children and shut-ins, donating to the Stacy Kasper fund, delivering "get well" meals to area citizens, donating to the Children's Christmas Bureau, and collecting canned goods for the local food pantry are among their numerous projects.

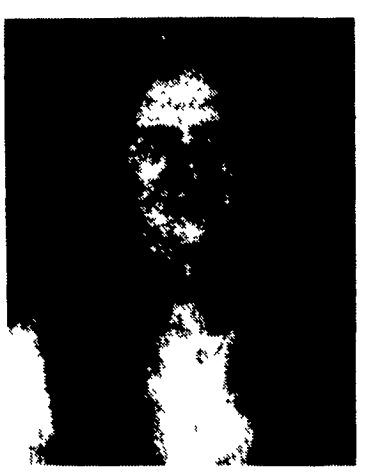
Pleasant Mount Go Getters was bestowed the next honors of Super Club. The Go Getters are led by Kathy Dix, Don Jonas, Arden Burleigh, Charlie Dix, Joyce Malicky, Tom Nebzydoski, and Jim Woodmansee. This year 84 projects were completed by their 48 members and 19 club demonstrations were given. Among their various community service projects were donating to the Stacy Kasper and Patricia Zdziarski funds, cleaning up local roadsides, assisting at a rabies clinic, donating items to the Dessin Animal Shelter, and contributing to community Christmas baskets in Pleasant Mount. More than 40 of their members, leaders, and parents assisted at fairground worknights this past summer in preparation of the Wayne County Fair.

The last club to receive special recognition as a Super Club was Tri-Gal 4-H of Damascus. Barbara and Richard Brown, Pam Brussell, Jule Diehl, Eileen Diehl, Patricia Irwin, Corky Rutledge, Gary Rutledge, and Elaine Wells lead this club. Their club published several club articles and pictures promoting club activities throughout the year. Twenty-nine members completed 52 out of a possible 56 projects and 21 demonstrations were given by the members. Packing Easter baskets for a personal care home and a home for the aged, participating in "Keep Pennsylvania Beautiful" day, donating to the Damascus Community Barn Raising and the township playground were among the many community service projects completed by the members of the club.

Conrad Weiser Student Attends Pa. Governor's School

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — Conrad Weiser High School junior Amanda Yeager was one of 64 students selected to attend the Pennsylvania Governor's School for Agricultural Sciences (PGSAS) this summer. This five-week program was held at Penn State Main Campus, University Park, where students gained daily exposure to college life in addition to extensive knowledge about the agricultural and environmental sciences.

Amanda attended a variety of classes including natural resource management, food science, genetics, plant science, reproductive physiology, lactation, ecology and community, and ag economics. Scholars were also allowed to select two elective courses. Amanda chose "Environmental Resource Engineering," which discussed such engineering projects as wetland construction, and "Microwave Technology," in which she gained an understanding of the physics behind the use of microwave ovens.



Amanda Yeager

In addition to attending 15 classes, Amanda completed an Independent Study Project (ISP) on the topic of "Volunteer Management in Environmental Projects" through which she performed a literature review, collaborated with Penn State's community forestry faculty, and designed a volunteer project to be carried out by next year's PGSAS class. The ISP work accomplished by all scholars culminated in a Research Symposium in which they shared their work with Penn State and PGSAS faculty through formal presentations.

During her summer experience, Amanda also had the opportunity to take field trips to such places as the Shaver's Creek Environmental Center, Longwood Gardens, the Hershey Research and Development Center, the New Bolton Veterinary Center, and Bald Eagle State Park, and to form lasting friendships with her fellow scholars and mentors.

In Amanda's words, "Governor's School was the most diverse and challenging experience I've ever had. The memories and knowledge I acquired there will influence me for life."

BOU-MATIC

Equipment & Systems To Improve Your Bottom Line

BOU-MATIC
First In Product Innovation

Bou-Matic introduces its new Companion Portable Stall Barn Detacher

Finally A portable detacher that milks your cows as reliably as a faithful companion Plus the companion offers other great features like

- Full-flow sensing and non-restrictive shut-off that reduces vacuum fluctuation and vacuum drop, so cows are milked faster
- Programmable, filtered alternating pulsation, so you are able to customize your herd's milkout
- Adjustable letdown delay, to help prevent premature detaches

The Companion portable detacher. Dependable, reliable, faithful. Only from Bou-Matic.

BOU-MATIC
The Dairy Equipment Division of DEC International, Inc

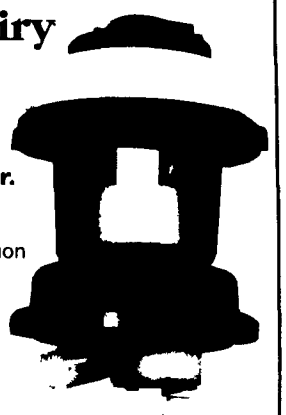
With the Bou-Matic Perfection 3000 milk meter.



Unsurpassed milk measurement accuracy That's what the Perfection offers you But that's not all you get

- Small, compact design
- Simple, non-motorized operation
- Built-in milk conductivity sensor

Of course, what really matters in a milk meter is how accurate it is And that's what the Perfection excels at

Plus, if you use the Perfection milk meter in conjunction with the ProVantage Integrated Management System, you've just added an endless amount of management possibilities

'Beef 2000' Jan. 18-20

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) _ Cattlemen from all segments of the beef industry will have the opportunity to participate in a three-day course Jan. 18-20 at Penn State university.

Beef 2000 is coordinated by the Pennsylvania Beef Council in cooperation with Penn State Department of Animal Science and The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

The Program will provide producers with the opportunity to follow several head of finished beef cattle from the point of departure from the farm to the packing plant and finally to the consumer. Cattlemen will evaluate these cattle live, including ultrasound work, and then observe the slaughters process in the packer's shoes, as well as grade and inspect the carcasses with a USDA inspector and grader. Producers will then fabricate the carcasses into wholesale and retail cuts, assessing a value to the product through each step.

This hands-on "ranch-to-rail" program is an outstanding opportunity to help cattlemen become more efficient in their business practices, while mingling with other cattlemen. The registration cost is $40 per person for Pennsylvania producers and $100 for out-of-state producers and agribusiness persons, plus overnight accommodations.

The Beef Council has tried diligently to keep the costs of this program down with the help of Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and several animal health companies. Applications are available by contacting Tammy Weaver, director of industry relations a the Pennsylvania Beef Council, (717) 939-7000.

Space is limited to the first 36 participants, which will be determined on a first-come, first-served basis. Deadline for reservations is Dec. 31.

Outstanding 55+/Acre York Co. Farm

The owners are retired and moving into a new home with one level living giving someone a great opportunity to buy a good farm

This farm features a 4 bedroom farm style house in overall very good condition. Slat roof, aluminum siding, modern kitchen, 2 bathrooms, open stairway, nice large rooms and a modern septic system The dairy barn is small compared to todays standards but can be enlarged easily Some other out buildings need repair.

The land is mostly all in state of cultivation with good conservation practices. Very, Very little wasteland

For an appointment, call the auctioneers at (717) 382-1145 or (717) 382-1350.

Terms: 10% Down day of Auction, Balance at settlement 45 days.

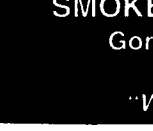
DAY SALE THANKSGIVING SALE DAY SALE
Fancy Canadian Herd Dispersal



To be held at Smoketown Quality Dairy Sales, Smoketown, PA.

Friday, Nov. 27, 1998 12 P.M. Noon

This herd is being sold because of a severe injury to the owner. They are mostly all 2, 3, and 4 yr. olds with fancy udders. Herd is not on test but consistently ships between 19,000-20,000 lbs. of milk yearly with 3.8-3.9 test and somatic cell under 150,000.

Several cows are fresh within the last month and many more due by Christmas, balance milking good and safe in calf. Cows milking up to 100 lbs.

Before the man's injury he was replacing his older grade cows with some fancy registered cattle, purchased in top dispersals. That's what makes this herd young & fancy.

Some of the registered cattle include:

- Super 3 yr. old Jackpot due sale day to Leo - Dam Majesty Daughter over 18,000 - Next Dam Hanoverhill Matt Barb ET VG86@ 3 yr. over 18,000 of 4% - Next Dam Hanoverhill Elev A Barb - Ex by Elevation with 5-9-365 - 27,735 - 4.5 - 1260 - 4th Dam - Hanoverhill Astro Lucky Barb - Ex w/5.9 - 330 - 23,667 - 4.7 - 1256 5th Dam Johns Lucky Barb Ex 4E GMD 8.3 305 26,625 4.7 1257
- Fancy 2 yr. old Springer by a Lindy Son due to Romancer. Dam VG Jubilant
- Super 3 yr. old Sired by Robthorn Premier due December 8 to Hanoverhill Jethro scored GP 82 @ 2y w/2-3 over 18,000 of 3.6. She has 3 VG Canadian Dams
- 3 yr. old Broker due sale time to Leadership Dam V.G. TAB Gr. Dam EX 4 Star Brood by Cutlass 3-4 365 26,680 4.1 1096 - Next Dam 88 pt. D.O.M. Elevation 3-10 365 27,425 3.9 1080. 4th Dam Ex 4E GMD 5th & 6th Dam both V.G.
- Fancy Lieutenant due by Comestar Lee

Several other registered fresh cows milking heavy. The grades are all home raised and really show milk. These cattle will make excellent replacements for any herd. Included in this herd is a fancy red cow milking & due in Feb. and a super solid black mixed breed cow.

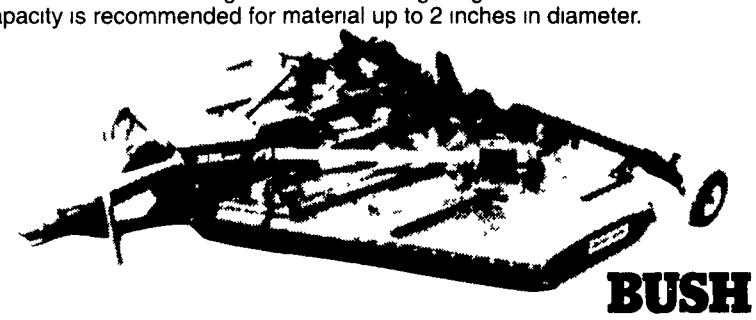
A Legend in the Industry... The Bush Hog 2615L Rotary Cutter

Bush Hog's 2615 Legend Flex-Wing Rotary Cutter is the clear choice for maintaining pastures and rights-of-way on even and uneven terrain. With a big 15-foot cutting width and wings that flex from 90° up to 22° down, this rugged cutter gives you fast, on-the-go control of all mowing functions Cutting height is from 2 to 14 inches and cutting capacity is recommended for material up to 2 inches in diameter.



BUSH HOG

NEW FOR 1998...BUSH HOG® QUICK-ATTACH FRONT END LOADERS

BUSH HOG® DIVISION OF ALLIED PRODUCTS CORPORATION

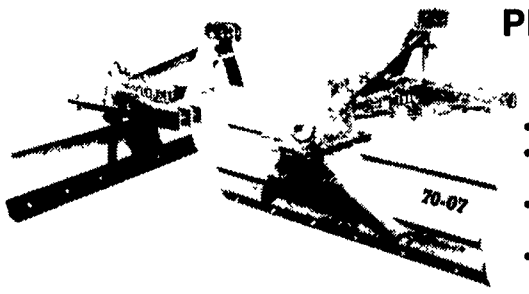
Eight new models loaded with the features that customers want for ease of use, performance and dependability.

- Fits two and four-wheel drive tractors from 12 to 130 PTO horsepower - over 1500 tractor/loader combinations
- Six colors to match tractors
- Lift capacities from 725 to 4,635 lbs
- Lift heights from 76 to 152 inches
- Standard quick attach system for attachments
- Optional hydraulic self-leveling - levels in both raising and lowering cycles
- Mounting kits are custom designed for each tractor to provide a low profile appearance and excellent operator visibility

BUSH HOG

SERIES 70 REAR BLADES

QUALITY BUILT, RUGGED DESIGN FOR BETTER PERFORMANCE AND DURABILITY.



- Heavy Duty A-Frame and Hitch
- Reinforced, High-Strength Moldboard
- Durable Category I & II 3-Point Hitch
- Optional Hydraulic Offset Available

These rear blades from Bush Hog are designed and constructed to handle leveling, landscaping, and road maintenance chores, as well as snow removal and feed lot work

Series 70 blades may be used with Category I or II 3-Point by simply moving the step-down pin to the required position. Depending upon model selection, they offer you a choice of working widths from 6 to 8-feet. Blade cutting edges are 1/2x6-inches. The 70 Series Rear Blades from Bush Hog offer outstanding pereformance and durability.

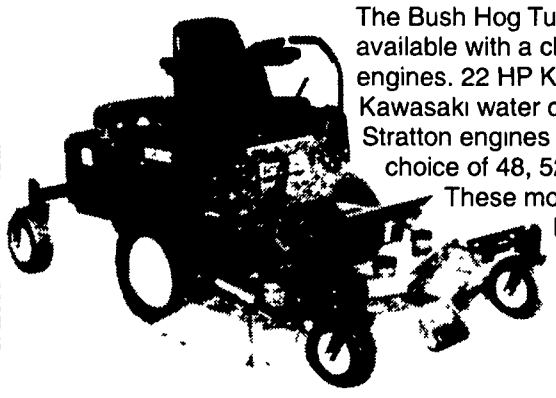
BUSH HOG

3 CUTTERS FOR ALMOST ANY JOB.

The Bush Hog 3200 Series Rotary Cutters are your best choice for the widest range of mowing requirements. These rugged cutters are provided in 9, 10-1/2 and 14-foot widths and with a selection of lift, pull or semi-mount hitch. 9 and 10-1/2 foot offset models are also available. So whether you have maintenance pastures, rights-of-way, orchards or crop residue, there's a Bush Hog 3200 Series Rotary Cutter just right for your mowing job.

BUSH HOG

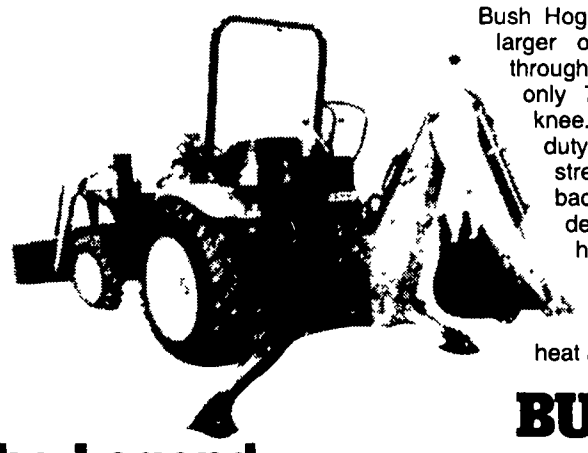
NOW YOU CAN LOOK FORWARD TO MOWING YOUR LAWN



The Bush Hog Turf Champ zero-turn mower is available with a choice of both mowers and engines. 22 HP Kohler Command, 20 HP Kawasaki water cooled and 18 HP Briggs & Stratton engines can be selected, and you have a choice of 48, 52 or 61-inch cutting widths. These mowers all provide adjustable, high back cushion seat and large foot rest for operator comfort. Cutting height easily adjusts from the seat.

BUSH HOG

BACKHOES DESIGNED FOR PERFORMANCE AND COMFORT



Bush Hog Series 62 Backhoes feature a larger operator platform with a walk through design. The control console is only 7-1/2 inches at the operator's knee. Boom and dipperstick are heavy duty, with reinforcing plates at all high stress points for long life. These backhoes are available in digging depths of 7, 8 and 9-feet. All new hydraulic control valves provide smoother operation with 40% less lever effort. Valves located under the platform to reduce heat and noise on the operator.

Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen

The purpose and intent of the Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen is to promote, encourage and develop one of Pennsylvania's finest resources... crafts.

For over half a century this Guild has served the crafts community through educational opportunities, marketing events, information services, encouragement and fellowship.

A non-profit organization, the Pennsylvania Guild of Craftsmen, consists of 20 chapters throughout the state. The chapters are different in flavor and programs, with each reflecting the interest and needs of its membership. Through a standards committee the Guild provides jurying opportunities, recognizing and honoring exemplary design and craftsmanship. The Guild also sponsors gallery exhibits and an annual workshop series.

A center for classes, workshops and seminar he State Craft Center in Tyler Stat· Park hosts the Spring Crafts Celebr.·.'on in May and the State Craft Festival at Tyler in October. These events attract over 40,000 crafts patrons from as far away as Florida and the Midwest. The Guild also offers a "craftsmen in residency" program, a form of scholarship to craftsmen working to develop full potential in the field.

Keep yourself informed on all of the Guild's Craft Shows and Fairs by registering for our mailings...

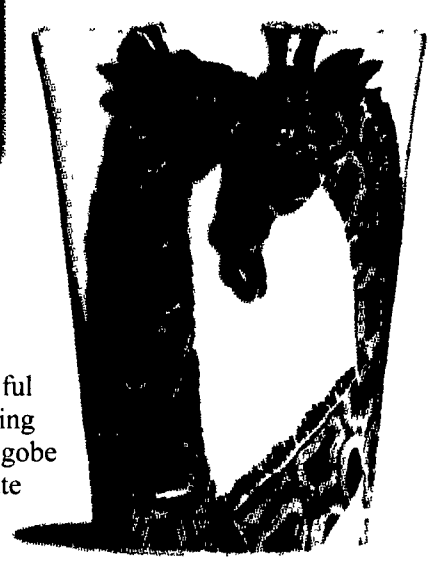
Holiday Gift Ideas



Karis Swink Barry makes beautiful porcelain pottery using the techniques of engobe and sgraffito to create one of a kind surface decorations on her pieces. Most of her pieces feature various animal designs. Booth 194

Working silk, cotton and rayon yarns, Betsy Dillon creates a line of hand-dyed, handwoven scarves available in a variety of colors. Booth 142

Cliff Losee creates a line of functional pottery including these chowder bowls available in a variety of colors. Booth 42

Clay artist, Rebecca Roehrs Smith's most recent work has focused on an unusual form - woven clay baskets. These baskets are made with stoneware clay, and are functional and decorative. The clay basket can be placed in the oven to warm bread or rolls, then taken to the table where the bread is kept warm by the warm clay basket. The baskets are available in a variety of shapes, sizes and colors. Booth 46

Laurie Baker, a free machine embroidery artist, designs works inspired by the countryside and gardens found in Bucks County, PA. She silk paints and stitches beautifully textured landscapes and gardens into works reminiscent of Impressionist paintings. Most of her work is presented matted and framed, or as decorator pillows. Booth 193

Dress Your Home For The

This beautiful repoussé porcelain ornament by Anne Piazza will look as wonderful in your home as it does on the White House Christmas tree

Enhance your holiday table with functional art such as this basketry by Robert Zink.

The sights, smells and sounds of the Holiday season... things we remember from childhood; traditions old and new. Here at the Pennsylvania Guild's Holiday Craft Fair, you can find all the makings of a beautiful season for your family and friends. Colorful distinctive pottery for serving all those special recipes, cookie cutters for the child in us all, kitchen gifts for the cooks on your gift list and baskets to fill with treats.

Decorate your home with festive candles and seasonal accents. Father Christmas figures, elves, and whimsical characters from many of the talented craftsmen will delight all. Table covers and napkins, in the colors of the season will create a Holiday dinner tradition to last for years. Of course, a beautiful basket to fill with pinecones, nuts or holly will complete any decor.

What Does Your Feed Company Do For Research?

At Consolidated Nutrition research is not taken lightly. Our product development starts where most feed company's end with information gleaned from research journals and the like. With a research staff larger than most University's we set up and conduct research trials at our facilities in Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan, independent research may be contracted with a university, and then field trials. Once an idea passes all of these tests, it is then introduced to you.

Consolidated Nutrition has more cannulated cows than any other company in the industry. Feed samples are put directly in the cow's rumen to measure digestion rates and efficiencies.

Currently forage samples from area herds have been collected and are being studied to help us better balance rations around this year's forages!

Klussendorf Award Winner — 1998 Recipient - Clark Vilter, Four Winds Farm, Hartland, Wisconsin. Vilter began showing Guernseys as an 8-year-old 4-H member and his herd has been exhibited consistently at local, state and national shows for many years. Their Guernseys have received the most All-American nominees in six of the last seven years with 12 nominations in 1996 and 10 in 1997. They have been named Premier Breeder at the national show 11 times and Premier Exhibitor 9 times, including this year's central national show. The Klussendorf Silver Trophy was presented for the first time in 1937. It is presented annually to a showman who best emulates Arthur B. Klussendorf, considered the outstanding showman of his time. The selection is done by previous award winners.

Klussendorf-MacKenzie Award Winner — 1998 Recipient - Barrie Potter, Sycamore Hill Jersey Farm, New York. Potter has worked with some of the nation's greatest show herds, including Hilltop-Hanover, Dreamstreet, Weavercraft, and many others. Currently he is with the Sycamore Hill Jersey Farm in New York. He has worked with seven winners of the Klussendorf Trophy and three of the past winners of the Klussendorf-MacKenzie award. The Klussendorf-MacKenzie Award is presented to a person who exemplifies all the basic principles of a potential Klussendorf recipient as to character, sportsmanship, ability and endeavor. Above all, the person is one who helps make the showstring successful regardless of ribbons won.

A.C. "Whitie" Thompson Award Winner — 1998 Recipient - Doug Seidel, Camelot Cattle Company, Ashfield, Massachusetts. Seidel and his wife work as professional fitters - running shows and sales, as well as privately selling show cows. He has worked with Hanover Hill, Sunny Meade, Dreamstreet and Hilltop Hanover. The A.C. "Whittie" Thompson Memorial Award is presented to the herdsman or showman who exhibits exemplary leadership and sportsmanship throughout the current World Dairy Expo.

Farmland Supreme Beef Alliance Prepares For The Future

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Interdependence is the theme of the day, H.D. "Harry" Cleberg, president and chief executive officer (CEO) of Farmland Industries, Inc., told nearly 150 representatives of the Farmland Supreme Beef Alliance (FSBA) who gathered recently in Kansas City to address industry issues and focus on consumer needs.

"Collaboration and cooperation are necessary to compete in a global economy, and systemized production from conception to consumption is imperative for beef producers to be succesful. Producers who want to remain independent will need to become part of an integrated system," the CEO of North America's largest farmer-owned cooperative stated, underscoring the purpose of the two-day conference.

The conference was designed to provide the people involved in the FSBA system with the tools they need to continue producing a high quality consumer product. Jim Norwood, FSBA chief executive officer, said, "We included representatives from all links in the FSBA food chain to ensure we all are working toward the same outcome — a superior beef product — while maintaining our position in the industry as the leader in value-based marketing."

Focused on improving the process of production, FSBA is a seamless alliance offering its members a constant flow of vital information through close packer and feeder involvement. By starting with the genetic source — superior Black Angus seedstock producers — and targeting a specific, branded end product — Farmland Black Angus Beef® — FSBA is able to relay valuable consumer satisfaction, feedlot performance, and carcass data information throughout its system.

Page Anderson, an alliance member whose family raises 2,000 cows near Three Forks, Mont., attended the conference to better position his ranch for the future. He said, "I've always figured that the more you can learn about the industry, the better prepared you'll be for the future."

The opportunity to interact with representatives of the FSBA system also intrigued Anderson. "I'm impressed with the caliber of people involved in the alliance," he remarked. "That was another big reason for attending the conference — to network with different people, such as cutting-edge seedstock producers and feedlot managers."

From cow-calf producer to food broker, participants of the conference discussed consumer trends and views, food safety, the market outlook, as well as the vision of Farmland Industries, the farmer-owned cooperative's Meats Group and Farmland National Beef Packing Company. In addition, participants learned how beef carcasses are fabricated, how to determine yield and quality grades, and toured the Kansas City Steak Company, a Kansas City, Mo.-based meat processing operation purchased earlier this year by Farmland National Beef.

Conference participants also attended the Parade of Taste, a special annual event sponsored by the Kansas Beef Council, Missouri Beef Industry Council and Farmland Black Angus Beef, where Kansas City's top professional chefs each prepared a main course entree and appetizer using Farmland Black Angus Beef. Guests sampled the recipes and voted on their favorites.

Christine and Dan Mahoney, members of the alliance, left their Rio Vista, Calif. cow-calf ranch for a couple of days to participate in the conference. Christine remarked, "I think it's really great that Farmland has brought together all segments of the beef industry to share information on what must be done to successfully position beef in the future."

Founded in 1995, the Farmland Supreme Beef Alliance is a collaborative effort of three agribusiness leaders: Farmland Industries, Agri Beef Co., and Farmland National Beef Packing Company. FSBA is a seamless production system rewarding its producers for the true value of the cattle they raise by transferring economic signals back to the rancher and supplying the only producer-owned brand in the meat case.

Farmland National Beef Packing Company, L.P., is the only major beef packer that is fully owned by producers. Its owners are members of the U.S. Premium Beef, Ltd., and Farmland Industries. Farmland National Beef is the fourth largest packer in the United States with 1.95 million head processed in 1996 with operations in Liberal and Dodge City, Kan. The company processes and markets fresh beef, boxed beef and beef by-products for domestic and international markets. It also markets beef under a line of established branded beef labels, including Farmland Black Angus Beef.

Farmland Indusstries, Inc., Kansas City, Mo., is the largest farmer-owned cooperative in North American and one of the top 200 Fortune 500-listed companies. In 1997, company sales of $9.1 billion encompassed all 50 states and 80 countries.

NFU Plea For Investigation Of Concentration Gets Administration's Ear

DENVER, Colo. — National Farmers Union (NFU) saw its call for a detailed investigation of concentration in all sectors of the U.S. economy come to fruition recently as the Clinton administration announced it will conduct a broad review of concentration in U.S. business.

Top economic adviser, including Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin, will meet to begin the review, according to President Clinton's National Economic Council Chairman Gene Sperling.

"NFU is very pleased with the administration's recognition of the problems association with market concentration," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "In some sectors, concentration has resulted in virtual monopoliles, which will destroy the U.S. free enterprise system."

The announcement that the administration will review concentration in U.S. business comes on the heels of the proposed merger of Mercedes Benz and Chrysler Corp. and follows a myriad of mergers and acquisitions in the banking, transportation, telecommunications, and other industries. Grain producers commonly point to recent railroad mergers as the cause of inadequate rail transportation following last year's crop.

While mergers of major banking institutions have grabbed headlines in recent years, the food production, processing, and retail industries are merging and are now controlled by a handful of conglomerates.

Currently 80 percent of all beef processing is controlled by three multi-national corporations. Less than two decades ago, the same three corporations handled only 40 percent of all U.S. beef processing, and producers benefited from competitive bidding by livestock buyers. Similar trends exist in most every other agricultural sector.

"Concentration in agriculture is acute, but it is certainly not the only sector where it exists," said Swenson. "Family-run, independent business of all types, including family farms and ranches, are unable to compete financially with multinational corporations who now do business with producers from around the world."

NFU last fall wrote a letter to President Clinton requesting he appoint an interagency, cabinet-level commission to invesigate the threat of concentration to free and fair competition. "The National Farmers Union believes the federal government must address the growing issues surrounding concentration. The departments of Agriculture and Justice alone cannot adequately address the magnitude of this problem — concentration demands the focused attention of all government agencies," said the NFU letter.

Are You Getting Your Money's Worth?

If You're Not Liming Properly, You're Throwing Away Part Of Every Fertilizer Dollar.

By correcting soil acidity, limestone frees-up desirable nutrients that feed your crop. Plus, limestone ties up toxic elements that reduce crop production.

High nitrogen use in modern farming practices acidifies the soil quickly. This limits your crop vigor and yields. Therefore, today it's more important than ever to lime according to soil test results. Proper liming gives you the most from your fertilizer dollar.

Environmental Group Studies Pesticide Registration

RICHMOND, Calif. — It costs more than $100 million to bring a new pesticide to market, according to scientists here at Zeneca Ag Products' Western Research Center.

They report that on a worldwide basis, Zeneca now annually screens more than 100,000 potential new crop protection products, conducts more than 5,000 new field trials each year, and spends an average of 10 years to bring a new product to market.

Zeneca shared these statistics with an environmental leadership task force of the American Soybean Association (ASA) and United Soybean Board (USB), which met at Zeneca's Western Research Center for a behind-the-scenes look at the research investment in pesticide development, testing, and registration. The emphasis of the program was on science devoted to environmental stewardship and food safety.

As part of the two-day program, these growers and association staff members also heard about implementation of the Food Quality Protection Act and how it could affect the availability of many currently used crop protection products. They also met with representatives of the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the California Farm Bureau, and the California Oak Foundation to gain a broad range of views on environmental issues now affecting agriculture.

This was the second annual meeting of the group, sponsored by Zeneca and comprised of state and national leaders from ASA and USB. The group was formed to help the soybean industry better understand environmental issues that affect producers and encourage an active voice on legislative and regulatory issues at national, state and local levels. The group also seeks more open communication between the soybean industry and environmental special interest groups.

"It's worthwhile for us to talk with environmental special interest groups and learn their knowledge base in production agriculture, and in turn how they make assumptions," said Mike Yost, a soybean grower from Murdock, Minn., and president of ASA. "Likewise, we need to understand what these groups are striving for. Eventually, we can find common ground and in many cases work together."

The group heard from Gary Margheim of the Natural Resources Conservation Service in Washington, D.C.; Tom Weahri of the California Association Resource Conservation Districts; Jovita Pajarillo of the Environmental Protection Agency; and Janet Cobb of the California Oak Foundation. The following day they heard from John Kieft, site manager for Zeneca's Western Research Center, and various members of the facility who reviewed research programs.

Along with Mike Yost, ASA participants in this program included Mark Berg, soybean producer from Tripp, S.D.; Marc Curtis, producer from Leland, Miss.; Dwain Ford, producer from Kinmundy, Ill.; Roy Bardole; producer from Rippey, Iowa; Charles Neff, producer from London, Ohio, Dale Ludwig of the Missouri Soybean Association; Margaret Owens of the South Carolina Soybean Association; and Rebecca Lafferty of the South Dakota Soybean Association. Participating USB members included Dave Schmidt, producer from Iowa City, Iowa; Bryan Hieser, producer from Minier, Ill.; and Dennis Phelps, producer from Basom, N.Y. Also participating were ASA staff members Jim Nagel and Ramon Bahl, and from Zeneca, Bruce Zurface and Chuck Foresman.

Glickman Meets Farm Bureau Leaders

ALBANY, N.Y. — U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Daniel Glickman met with Farm Bureau leaders in a special farm forum in Lockport, N.Y., Aug. 13, in a Farm Bureau effort to focus the Clinton Administration's attention on such national issues as the Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA), labor, risk management, and the Milk Marketing Order Option 1-A.

The meeting was attended by New York Farm Bureau President John Lincoln, District 2 Director Bruce Krenning, U.S. Congressman John J. LaFalce (D-District 29), Niagara County Farm Bureau President Jim Bittner, Monroe County Farm Bureau President Robert Colby, Orleans County Farm Bureau President Karent Watt, as well as New York Farm Bureau members representing various state agricultural commodities.

According to President John Lincoln, Secretary Glickman was very aware of all of New York Farm Bureau's key issues. "I think he was very tuned-in to the labor issues," the president of the state's largest farm advocacy organization said. "He did discuss the (Clinton) Administration's concern with housing and adequate wages, but Congressman LaFalce was quick to point out that both of those issues have been worked out."

On July 23, the U.S. Senate passed a bipartisan H-2A Reform Package, which takes fully into account housing and wage concerns and is phased in over a five-year period. The bipartisan measure, a streamlined version of the current program it will replace, also contains a farmworker registry, assurance of legal workers and transportation provisions.

The FQPA food safety standard concerning the measurement of pesticide residue on processed foods also was discussed. The problem, Farm Bureau stressed for Secretary Glickman, is the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency proposed implementation of the standard, which would eliminate broad classes of crop protectants, including revocation of all organophosphates, which would severely impact the agricultural community.

Lincoln said that a number of fruit and vegetable growers who attended the meeting "had more questions as to exactly where the secretary was on this act. My feeling was he was expressing the administration's position rather than being a strong advocate on behalf of ag for the FQPA."

The administration presently favors the direction EPA has been moving in implementing FQPA. Lincoln said Secretary Glickman explained that agriculture need not worry. However, Farm Bureau's president said "We're not going to relax until the EPA proposal utilizes sound science and actual use data."

Discussion also centered on risk management and federal Milk Marketing Orders, Lincoln said. "Secretary Glickman said he thought the agriculture issue of the 21st century was risk management, including income protection and crop insurance for farmers. Certainly our Orange County onion growers have had problems with crop insurance. As it stands now it's a very expensive program with very little protection for the grower.

"We agree," He added. "We belileve there should be some major changes there."

The daily issue discussed at the farm forum was raised by Glickman in his opening remarks. According to Lincoln, "His feeling remains the same: It's a very political issue. "It has taken the wisdom of Solomon to sort this out," Secretary Glickman said.

"Secretary Glickman believes that dairymen are divided across the country on the federal Milk Marketing Order," he continued. "We don't agree with that. We feel Option 1-A is not just the best solution, but farmers in the east, north, south and west are in support of that option. Certainly the majority is in support of Option 1-A, but he doesn't seem to want to read it that way."

Lincoln said the meeting with USDA's secretary was a "great opportunity to get New York State's voice heard. "The real question is can we move him on FQPA," he said. "On all of these issues the message we delivered was strong and clear: That he as secretary of the USDA needs to be a strong advocate for the agricultural industry on all four issues. I think that's the positive to his being in New York. We want him to understand the diverse kinds of agriculture we have and how important these issues are to New York."

Lincoln credited Niagara County Farm Bureau President Jim Bittner with pulling the meeting together. Lincoln explained that Bittner worked closely with U.S. Congressman John J. LaFalce (D-Niagara Falls) in bringing Secretary Glickman to the Buffalo area to meet with Farm Bureau members.

"We need to recognize Jim Bittner for all of his efforts in making this happen," Lincoln said. "It's an excellent example of a county Farm Bureau president developing a close working relationship with his congressman and the power of our grassroots underpinnings. I'd also like to thank Secretary Glickman for taking the time to visit the Empire State, and to hear what Farm Bureau has to say."

USDA Sets Next CRP Sign-Up

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has announced that the next conservation Reserve program (CRP) general sing-up will be held during a seven-week period from Oct. 26 through Dec. 11, in USDA Service Centers across the nation.

"This is an opportunity for farmers and landowners to participate ina cost-effective, voluntary program to improve their land, water, and wildlife resources," Glickman said. "It is also an opportunity for current participants with contracts expiring next fall to make new contract offers."

USDA will continue to evaluate and rank eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) based on the potential environmental benefits gained from enrolling the land in the CRP. Decisions will be made on the EBI cutoff after sign-up 18 ends. The EBI cutoff used in previous sign-ups may not be used for this one. The cutoff is decided after analyzing the EBI numbers of all the offers. Those who would have met previous EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract this time around.

"CRP is a highly competitive program," said Glickman. "I encourage all landowners to find out about the Environmental Benefits Index before the December 11 cutoff., and to consult with local USDA experts on steps they can take to maximize EBI points and increase the likelihood that their land will be accepted."

The EBI in place for the 18th sign-up is very similar to the EBI used for the 16th sign-up.

USDA is authorized to maintain enrollment of up to 36.4 million acres. Approximately 30.5 million acres will be enrolled in CRP contracts as of Oct. 1, 1998. The contracts awarded under sign-up 18 will become effective on Oct. 1, 1999. 3.5 million acres a little more than subject to CRP contracts will expire on Sept. 30, 1999.

CRP maximum rental rates have been updated to reflect 1996-1998 local land rental rates. Farmers should contact their local USDA Service Center for rental caps and other additional information.

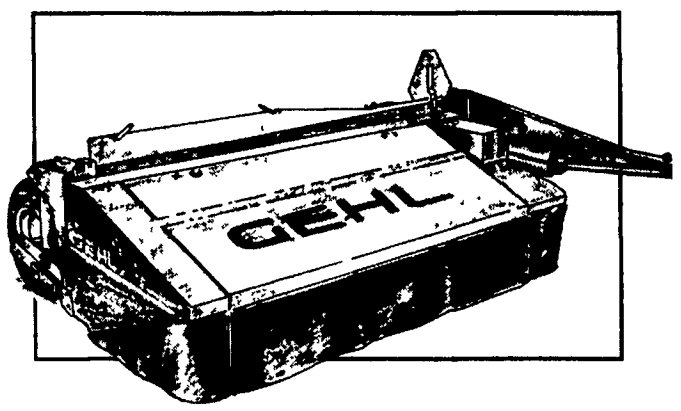
GEHL

2345/2365 DISC MOWERS



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy, the DC2345 has 7 discs and a 9'2" cutting width; the DC2365 has 8 discs and a 10'3" cutting width. A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.

- Designed with the operator in mind
- Easy access all around
- An equal angle PTO
- Three-point flotation support

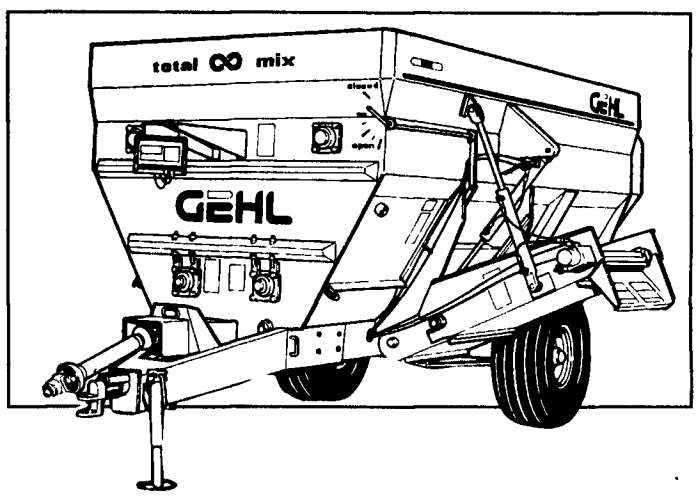
TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and mositure content.

- "Hay - slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure - 8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capcities

Air Power SEED JET II & SEED PARTNER

Imagine filling a drill or planter in just a few minutes – when minutes count! It's possible with Yetter bulk seed handling equipment; Seed Jet II and the Seed Partner. The Seed Jet II delivers seed from a bulk bin to your drill or planter on a gentle stream of air. The Seed Partner incorporates a Seed Jet II and a 100 bushel polytank for total flexibility.

Customer surveys have shown the Seed Jet II can fill a 23 row planter in 7 minutes. Spend your time putting seed in the ground and not filling your implement. Farm more acres each day. Save money by buying seed in bulk.

Easy-to-connect airlock attaches to grain wagon
Optional
Remove switch starts seed flow
Electric start motor for ease of operation
35' hose allows ease of movement around even the largest planters

Seed Jet II

Stand at your drill or planter, hold the decelerator over the box and let the seed flow! The Seed Jet II has an improved airlock and blower system to move more seed than ever. The airlock easily attaches under the most popular brands of grain wagons. Air flow is generated by an 11 horsepower motor and positive displacement blower assembly and the airlock introduces the seed to the air stream seed. Seed travels down a 2-1/4" diameter, 35" long, stainless steel hose to a decelerator which gently swirls the seed before setting it into the drill or planter There's no need to reposition your implement like when using an auger system Tests show that the Seed Jet II can safely move soybeans, corn, wheat and rice

Seed Jet II filling a JD 750 Drill

An independent laboratory concluded that there is "no significant affect on germination" of seed handled with the gentle Seed Jet II.

Ask Merv Nissly or Don Hoover for a Seed Grain Mover at Special Year End Savings NE 4823 - Regular Price $4,800 - Year End Clearance $3,250

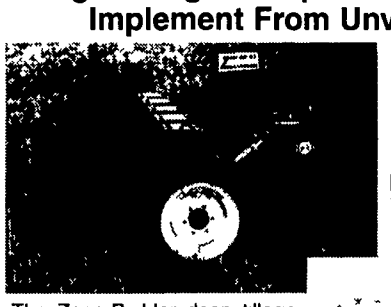
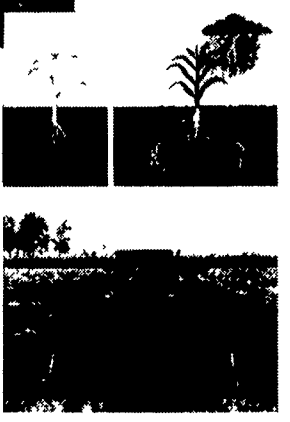
Slicing Through Hardpan: Zone-Builder™ Implement From Unverferth



Unverferth

The Zone-Builder deep tillage implement slices through tightly compacted hardpan creating a passsageway that allows plant roots, soil moisture and nutrients to move freely into the subsoil with minimal surface soil disturbance
The Zone-Builder implement eliminates the yield-limiting effects of hardpan and is the first step in making the transition to the Rawson™ Zone-Tillage soil management system



Almost New 3 pt. Mounted Zone Builder Subsoiler Ripper with Trash Coulters - Just Arrived with 5 Shank Spring Auto Reset on 30" Spacing. With 2 Gauge Wheels for Depth Control.

WIDER IS NOT BETTER

Krause 3948 Profile

Road Width: 11' 6" Road Height: 10' 8"
Field Performance: #1
Dealer: Hoober, Inc.

When it comes to transporting your disc harrow, wider is definitely not better. With a road width of only 11' 6", the Krause 3948 ROCKFLEX Disc Harrow makes transportation easy. And when it comes to performance in the field, the Krause 3948 is unbeatable. Utilizing Krause's Rock-Flex technology, no other disc in its class can cut and finish a field better than the 3948 . . . regardless of the conditions.

And when it comes to making sure your Krause 3948 will keep on performing in the years to come, no one else compares to Hoober, Inc. Hoober has the parts inventory, experienced service technicians and know-how to guarantee peak performance.

AT HOOBER, SPRING IS IN THE AIR

Spring may be months away, but the time to get your farm machinery ready for spring work is during winter. Because when spring arrives, your equipment needs to be ready to perform at its best. Hoober service departments are offering WINTER UPTIME SERVICE SPECIALS on Case IH tractors, combines, balers and more. Hoober's WINTER PARTS SPECIALS will help you recondition all your spring tillage tools. Call Hoober today, and get ready for spring.

HOOBER SERVICE MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Dick Seidel

"Hoober mechanics are specialized, so no matter what machine it is, there isn't a problem they haven't seen."
Richard Beachel

"It doesn't matter if it's service or parts. When you call, they do everything they can to get you going."
Kenneth Smith

CASE

Make your operation BLOOM.

Choosing an MF 200 Series tractor is no guarantee your flower garden will grow to over 100 acres And that you'll be potting as many as 40,000 plants a day like Stacy's Inc., of York, SC

But then again, MF 200 Series tractors can help any operation grow They all feature high-torque, cool-running Perkins diesel engines Renowned Ferguson hydraulics. Rugged reliability Excellent sales and service support. And a low price that's even more affordable with low-rate MF Leasing and Financing.

MASSEY FERGUSON NEVER COMPROMISE

Of course these are just some of the many reasons Stacy's Inc , now operates eleven MF tractors And why you should stop in to test drive one today at your MF Dealer

KNIGHT Introduces the
ALL NEW
3036 and 3042 Reel Auggie® Mixers
With New, Larger Mixing Capacities of 360 and 420 Cubic Feet

The new 3036 and 3042 Reel Auggies are designed to take the rugged, day-in, day-out mixer use on today's larger dairy and beef operations. The Reel Auggie will give a fast, thorough and gentle mix. Utilizing the patented Reel design but with new standard features such as:

- 1/4 of 1% load cell scale system
- Fully enclosed oil bath style rear drive to better handle truck mounting.
- 22" high by 36" wide discharge for faster unloading
- High/low axle setting
- Large 68" diameter reel with 20", sectional flighted, lower and upper augers.

Knight Manufacturing's 3036 and 3042 Reel Auggies...not only bigger, but better too!

CLAAS® Country

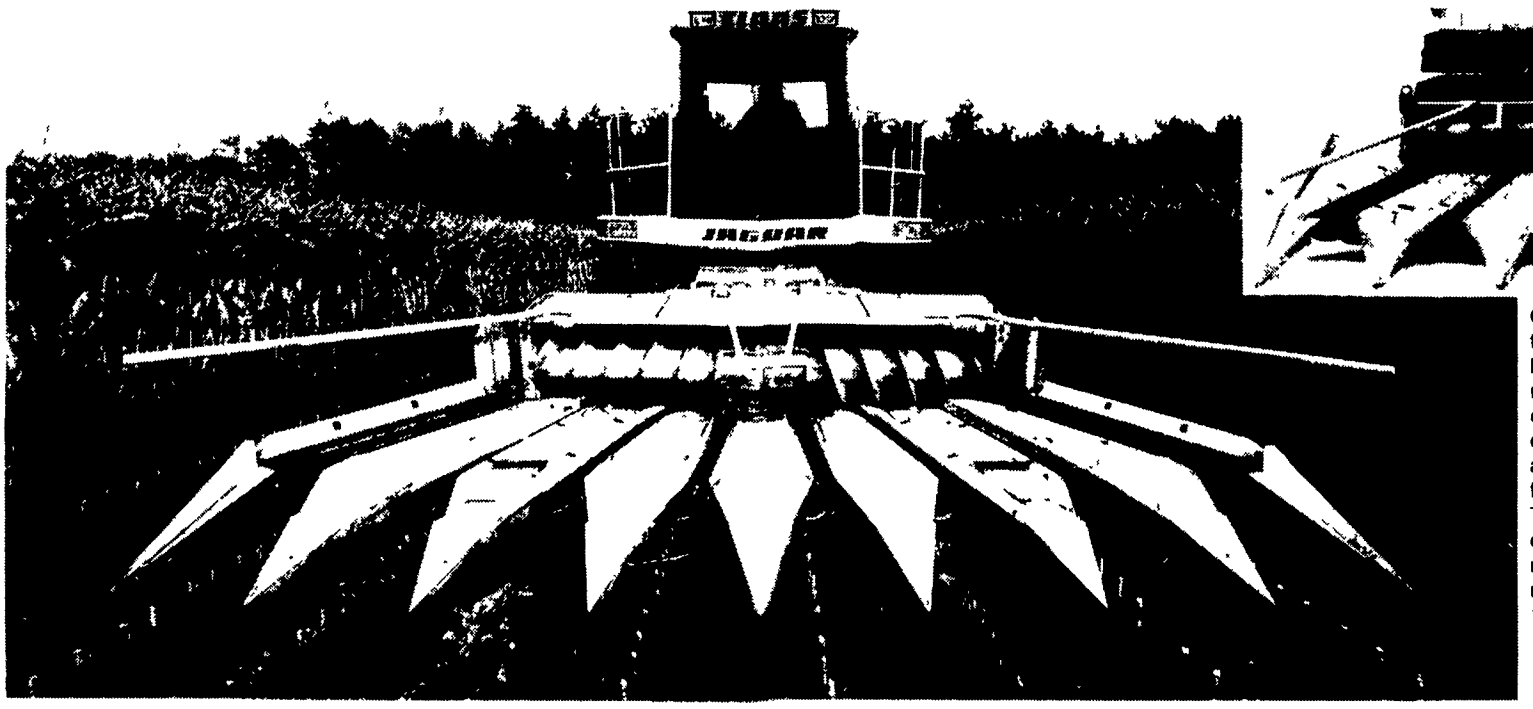
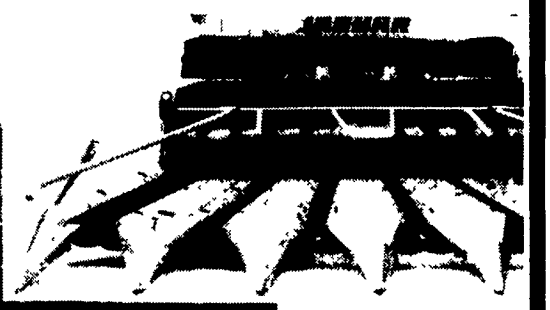
Leola, PA 17540 Phone: (717) 656-2321

Located: 4 miles West of New Holland on Rt. 23, 1 1/2 miles Northeast of Leola on the No. Groffdale Rd., 1 mile on the right, opposite Groffdale Mennonite Church.

Wintertime Savings – Call Now!





CLAAS also offers the tried and tested 6 row header alongside the 8 row version It has established an enthusiastic following among contractors and farmers for many years The outer picking units on the 6 row header are raised manually to reach the travel width of 10 feet

Corn headers from CLAAS are acknowledged by professionals as setting the standards for high speed silage corn harvesting at every stage of ripeness High performing JAGUAR foragers can be equipped - depending on the model - with 4, 6 or 8 row CLAAS headers

If you have to harvest very ripe corn silage you can fit the additional rasp floor concave in addition to the corn cracker Equipped with either 4 or 8 rasp bars, the crop is thoroughly grated including the very hard stems.

The extremely low and slim profile of the dividers collect hanging and laid crops with ease and feed them steadily to the intake auger The stem dividers above the header support this operation Three or four header speeds enhance the crop flow In down corn the additional laid crop augers can be a useful option

The cutting discs are pretensioned to always work at the right pressure They are self sharpening and maintenance free

The CLAAS AUTOPILOT is patented and is an essential tool in the corn harvest. You can harvest without losses even in weed infested or hanging crops, in bad visibility or at night. The forager is steered through the rows fully automatically You are free to focus your attention on the speed, the intake and chute

The 8 row header can be equipped with the sensor controlled CONTOUR PLUS height control The header hovers over the ground with no ground pressure, a big plus on soft or spongy ground

The 8 row header is moved from the working to the transport position in a matter of minutes

It is simply folded up hydraulically

The 8 row corn header in front of the JAGUAR 880 lets you set up new output records. The combination of the JAGUAR 860 and the 8 row header is another ideal mix The benefits are clear fewer tracks in the field, reduced turning times, more flexibility when opening up the fields, reduced harvesting speeds whilst achieving virtually the same output Of course, there's no need to remove the 8 row header for road travel

Super Boom™ is best

When you're looking for a skid-steer, there's the challengers and then there's the champ. Well say hello to the undisputed champ in the all-new Model LX885 New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader.

It has a 60-horsepower, turbocharged diesel engine for the ultimate in power. Its massive 2,200-lb. operating load picks up where all others leave off. Of course, it has the features you expect from New Holland, such as the best speed, stability, visibility, lift height and dump reach in the industry. Add that to the Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system and there's nothing it can't handle.

Stop by today and see for yourself why no other skid-steer can compare.

NEW HOLLAND

Why choose a New Holland skid-steer loader?

- Superior visibility
- Greater bucket & lift capacity
- Unbeatable stability
- The most attachments
- Faster speeds
- Unmated dependability
- Superior dump height & reach

GET PRECISE APPLICATION CONTROL

New Holland side-delivery spreaders provide the most material control. Whether you're light top dressing, laying down a heavy layer, or anything in between, the Model 3106 puts the right amount of material right where you need it.

- Handles a wide variety of material – slurry gutter material, cow manure, even poultry litter
- 1375 gallon capacity with side rails in place.
- V-tank design delivers material to the auger fast
- Heavy-duty round-core auger produces less drag
- Double-acting hydraulic cylinder moves auger up and down to keep material flowing
- Hydraulic gate and specially designed expeller give precise application control
- Backed by a 10-year warranty against tank rust-through

See us for all your spreader needs.

Get an oil analysis "physical"

The Problem
You're losing performance because your oil is not doing it's job. It may contain dirt, water, fuel, or other foreign elements that are being carried through your machine.

The Solution
Get a Case IH System Guard oil-analysis "physical." Your oil is scientifically analyzed to determine the exact cause of your problem or to head off potential trouble.

The Place
Our Case IH system specialists are experts in analyzing oil samples and provides you a complete report on the condition of your oil. Come in for a physical before the season starts.

A CASE-IH Combine from Hoober is better than any other CASE-IH Combine.

AND HERE ARE THREE REASONS WHY

BECAUSE OF THE IN-HOUSE KNOWLEDGE THAT ONLY HOOBER HAS...

Hoober Custom Modification Benefits

Modification #1

Equipping and preparing combines to excel in high moisture conditions

Modification #2

Modifying 1020 grainheads to cut better and improve feeding in tough conditions

Modification #3

Ability to upgrade Axial-Flow combine components to current production to improve durability and performance

Modification #4

Hoober manufactured repair parts not available through Case-IH save the customer time and money

Modification #5

Hoober's extensive Uptime Service Program can keep your Axial-Flow combine running like new for years to come

Hoober has the experience to tailor your combine to your farm and North Eastern crops.

CASE IH

HIS DEALER GOES THE EXTRA 112 MILES - DOES YOURS?

What really impresses me is that if I have a problem, it doesn't take Hoober long to fix it Hoober mechanics are specialized, so no matter what machine it is there isn't a problem they haven't seen Plus they care about getting you up and running fast That's important'

Richard Beachel August 1998

Richard Beachel's luck wasn't running real high. It was harvest and he found himself stuck in the field with a combine that was inoperable because of a blown hydraulic hose. Richard called Hoober's McAlisterville dealership, but they didn't have the part in stock.

However, Hoober's parts manager at McAlisterville called the Intercourse location and discovered they did have the hose in stock. Because it was in the middle of harvest, Hoober knew Richard needed the part today, not tomorrow. So Hoober's airplane delivered the hose to Richard in less than two hours from the initial call. The hose was replaced and Richard was harvesting again.

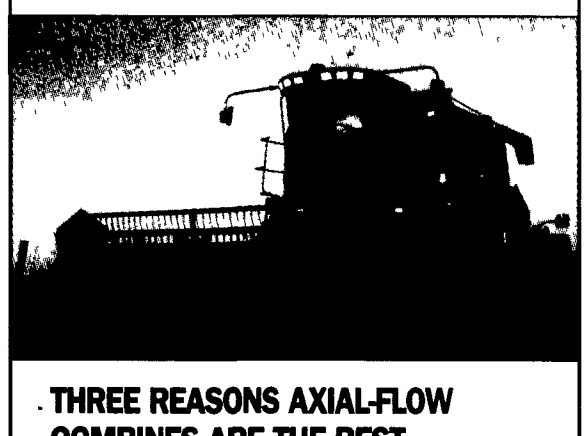
WHY BUY A COMBINE FROM HOOBER?

WE SELL CASE IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES



THREE REASONS AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES ARE THE BEST

- PRODUCTIVITY Case IH Axial-Flow Combines are the most productive combines in the industry.
- SIMPLICITY Simplicity in design means fewer breakdowns and parts to replace. An Axial-Flow combine is more productive and lasts longer.
- WET CONDITIONS The specialty rotor can harvest grain in wet conditions, unlike conventional combines.

WE ARE THE CASE IH COMBINE SERVICE SPECIALISTS

WHY IS HOOBER SERVICE THE BEST?

- EXPERIENCE Our combine technicians have worked solely on combines for over 20 years They have tips for the factory guys
- PARTS INVENTORY When you re sitting in the field, you want the part now If Hoober doesn't have it, they'll get it faster
- CONTINUED EDUCATION We never miss a chance to factory-train our technicians

Ag Outlook Offers Some Positives

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Current crop and livestock prices may be the most dramatic low in combined agricultural prices in more than 25 years, said Ohio State University Extension agricultural economist Allan Lines.

Hog prices have fallen from more than 50 cents a pound the past two years to less than 20 cents a pound, and corn has dropped from nearly $3 per bushel the past three years to less than $2 per bushel.

With surpluses in many commodities and little potential for increased exports, the situation doesn't look good, Lines said. But the outlook for agriculture in 1999 does include a few possible improvements.

Lines and other Ohio State University agricultural economists will discuss the fundamentals that have caused the current low prices and possibilities for improvement during a number of 1999 Ohio and U.S. agricultural outlook meetings held throughout the state in November and December.

"There is an expected upturn in beef prices in 1999, and some marginal improvement in hogs," Lines said. "Beef production is expected to decrease significantly, which should provide a significant lift to market prices."

Beef producers have addressed the surplus problem and are cutting back supplies, Lines said. Pork producers are starting to curb overproduction, but crop producers have yet to do anything about it.

"The farm financial picture for U.S. and Ohio agriculture looks better than most people are willing to admit, despite the low income situation," Lines said. "Agriculture is coming off two to three years of very good farm incomes, so there is a considerable amount of reserve capacity in the farm community to weather the current situation."

High asset values and a governmental farm financial assistance package approved earlier this year also help.

The caution signs to look for next year will mostly be on the crop side. Producers need to constantly be aware of what is happening in the export market because, after harvesting mostly record or near-record crops in 1998, what happens with exports will tell the story in the 1999 crop market, Lines said.

"And this fall farmers are expected to reduce wheat acreage and shift to more oil seeds such as soybeans, canola and sunflowers in the spring which could magnify the supply problem," he said. "If you see that coming along you need to think about pricing the '99 crop already. It's not too difficult to envision that soybean prices in fall 1999 could make fall '98 look good."

Other topics to be discussed at the agricultural outlook meetings include the financial chaos outside the Western world and its implications toward agriculture; trade relative to changing global currency values; the long-term outlook for Ohio agriculture; the farm policy situation; and opportunities for enhancing farm income through nontraditional means in the marketplace.

"The meetings are open to anybody with an interest in agriculture, particularly producers, managers and employees of agribusiness, and should help them understand the domestic and international marketplace they serve," Lines said.

J-Star Honors Regional Dealers

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — J-Star Industries, headquartered here, has announced that several regional Mid-Atlantic dealers were honored recently for sales and service.

Don and Brenda Rovenolt of Rovendale Ag and Barn Equipment, Wastsontown, Pa., received their Silver MVP, Top Sales Leader- Jamesway, and Top Sales Leader-Quantum awards from J-Star Industries, Inc.

Nissley's Feeding Equipment, Willow Street, Pa., received a Bronze MVP Award.

Jake and Charity Lapp of Lapp's Barn Equipment Sales and Service, Gap, received a Top Sales Leader-Jamesway, Top Sales Leader-Quantum, and Top Sales Leader-Roto-Mix, Platinum MVP, and 7 Million Dollar Winners' Circle awards from J-Star.

Clair and Sara McMillen, McMillen Brothers, Inc., Loysville, received a Silver MVP and Top Sales Leader-Van Dale Farmstead Equipment awards.

Also, J-Star honored Sollenberger/Star Silos, Chambersburg, with a Platinum MVP and Top Sales Leader-Jamesway, Top Sales Leader-Genuine J-Star Parts, Top Sales Leader-Quantum, and 5 Million Dollar Winners' Circle awards.

The Major Volume Performer (MVP) Award recognizes the company's top dealers who have achieved bronze, silver, gold, or platinum levels of sales and performance objectives in 1997. The Top Sales Leader Award recognizes top sales leaders for J-Star's main product lines. The Winners' Circle Award includes dealers from the U.S. and Canada who have exceeded cumulative purchase increments of $1 million.

Wisconsin Data Helps Company Develop Forage Mixes

TANGENT, Ore. — The University of Wisconsin has released their first report from the 1998 Lancaster, Wis. Forage Grass Variety Trials, showing very favorable yields from Ampac Seed Company's Pasture Perfect® forage mixes.

The mixtures, Ampac, PP1 and Ampac PP2 had yield scores greater than 23 other entries. Only one other entry, Emrys festulolium, exceeded Ampac PP1 and Ampac PP2

Additionally, in the 1998 Spooner, annual ryegrass seeding, abundant tetraploid annual ryegrass was the highest scoring variety, yielding 3-1/2 tons over four cuttings.

Ampac developed the Pasture Perfect® program last year, in response to the limited amount of testing, information, and standards relating to improved forage mixes.

"Both dealer and farmer have had very little information available to help them select improved forage mixes, especially for grazing. By working in conjunction with distributors, dealers, agronomists, extension agents, and farmers throughout the country, Ampac is developing regionally specific Pasture Perfect® mixtures, said Jonathan Rupert, product development manager for Ampac Seed Company. "This initial data from Wisconsin tells us that we are on the right track. We have been and will continue to utilize genetics from around the world to bring these types of products to the farm."

The two mixes tested at Wisconsin included genetics from Denmark, New Zealand, Spain, and United States. Each Pasture Perfect® mixture utilizes at least 70 percent "improved" varieties.

Snider's Elevator Receives Award

LEMASTERS (Franklin Co.) — Recently Snider's Elevator, Inc., headquartered here, was honored with the Master Mix Feeds 5-Star Dealer award at a convention in Pittsburgh.

Snider's Elevator, in business since 1929 and a Master Mix Dealer since 1937, was honored at a Master Mix Convention. Master Mix is part of the Consolidated Nutrition companies owned by ADM.

Cooperative Purchases Grain Elevator

MARIETTA (Lancaster Co.) — Souther States Cooperative, Inc. has purchased the 1.2 million bushel grain elevator here

In announcing the purchase of the former Cargill facility, Jim Whitaker, vice president of Souther States' grain marketing division, noted the fit was a good one for local farmers and co-op members alike.

Whitaker said, "A lot of the grain produced by our members in northern Maryland and Delaware is being handled by facilities in the Susquehanna Valley, so we're already familiar with the area and with local farmers' needs. This acquisition enables us to offer existing and future customers better year-round marketing capabilities by enhancing our existing operations."

He said, "We are pleased Nathan Rettig will continue to manage the elevator and that all other employees will remain on his staff. That continuity will help us provide the level of service the Southern States' customers expect from their cooperative.

Southern States, which celebrates its 75th anniversary this year, has 638 retail outlets in Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

J-Star honored Sollenberger/Star Silos, Chambersburg, with a Platinum MVP and Top Sales Leader-Jamesway, Top Sales Leader-Genuine J-Star Parts, Top Sales Leader-Quantum, and 5 Million Dollar Winners' Circle awards. Controller Cuts Energy Costs

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. — Westfalia Dairy Systems announces a new vacuum pump drive that reduces power requirements, yet provides the optimum vacuum level to the system.

The new Vac-U-Miser variable speed vacuum pump controller runs the vacuum pump at the exact speed needed to maintain vacuum pump stability during milking. The Vac-U-Miser can reduce electric energy used by vacuum pumps by as much as 80 percent. Average savings are 67 percent based on metered installations.

The top-selling Simmental cow/calf pair, for $3,300, went to MCB Ebony Eyes, owned by Matthew Miller and Bill Shoemaker, maple Cove Breeders, Manns Choice.

Simmentals Have Record Sale

The top-selling bull brought $5,000. The top-selling bred and open heifers brought $3,200 and $2,900, respectively. The top-selling cow/calf pair brought $3,300.

The sale was a great success, according to the organizers. The sale average, excluding steers, was $1,218.12 a head.

"It proves that people have seen the effects Simmental genetics have had on their herds," said William Shoemaker, vice president of the association. "They are willing to purchase quality Simmental cattle to improve their existing herds at a time when beef prices are relatively low."

Ultrasound Making Waves in Ohio Pork Production

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ultrasound machines could benefit pork producers and packers by predicting fat-free lean pork content in live pigs and carcasses, said Ohio State University Extension swine genetics specialist Steve Moeller.

"Lean content in hogs is how the producer is paid today," Moeller said. "The amount of fat-free lean pork in a pig determines the price a producer received at the market."

Using ultrasound to accurately measure fat-free lean content in live pigs and would help producers decide what pigs to keep as breeding animals. Previously, fat-free lean content could only be determined by measuring a pig's carcass after it had been killed

Packers could use ultrasound lean predictions to help determine the value of carcasses, so producers would be paid based on the weight and value of their product.

Moeller and researchers from Purdue University studied two types of ultrasound machines, A-mode and real-time, to see which one gave the most accurate predictions of fat-free lean content on live pigs and carcasses Results of their work were presented by Ohio State University graduate student Rebecca Emnett July 28 at the American Society of Animal Science and American Dairy Science Association annual meeting in Denver, Colo

"We found the real-time machine is a better predictor of lean content than the A-mode because it predicted more accurately and with less variation between the live pigs and carcass," Moeller said. "And, both machines were better at predicting fat-free lean on a live animal than on a carcass, which is good information for the industry to know."

While carcass measurement was shown to still give the best results, the real-time machine gave a good estimate, he said. Standard carcass testing measured fat-free lean content in pigs with 87 percent to 91 percent accuracy, while real-time was 86 percent accurate on live pigs and 85 percent accurate on carcasses. A-mode machines were only 68 percent accurate on live pigs and 60 percent on carcasses.

"The use of real-time ultrasound in a genetic selection program for lean content is very good when used on live pigs," Moeller said. "This could allow producers to enhance the efficiency of lean production through ultrasonic evaluation in a selection program."

While less accurate, the benefits of an A-mode ultrasound are that it is more portable and much less expensive — $2,000 versus $12,000 — than a real-time machine.

"A large investment in advanced technology has been proven more accurate, but producer have to make a decision of what type of data they want and at what cost," he said. "And until recently, real-time machines were large and difficult to maneuver in swine facilities, but units now can be worn similar to a backpack and are easier to move."

For producers who think both machines are too expensive to buy, there are about 25 certified ultrasound technicians in the United States, including one in Ohio, who travel the country and can provide an ultrasound service at a relatively low cost of $3 to $5 per pig, Moeller said.

"The cost of the service is often based on the number of pigs measured, so if a large volume are tested the cost could be less," he said.

Secret Of Prolific Chinese Pigs May Increase American Litter Sizes

DES MOINES, Iowa — Iowa State University animal scientists believe they have unlocked the secret to Chinese pigs' large litters, and they say the information can be used to dramatically increase litter size of American pigs.

"We have tremendous potential to increase litter size by up to three pigs," said Steve Ford, a professor of animal science. Increasing litters by one pig has been estimated to be worth nearly $2 billion to the swine industry.

Ford and graduate research assistants Matt Wilson and Nina Biensen outlined their research at the Midwestern sectional meetings of the American Society of Animal Science and American Dairy Science Association, March 16-18, in Des Moines.

For 10 years, Ford and other ISU researchers have studied the prolific Chinese Meishan pig. The Meishan give birth to 12 to 14 pigs, compared to 9 to 10 pigs for American breeds. In Iowa, the average litter size is 9.7 pigs.

The researchers compared the reproductive systems of the Meishan with the American Yorkshire breed. They discovered the placenta surrounding each growing piglet in the Meishan's uterus was smaller than the placenta in the Yorkshire uterus. The placenta plays a key role in the exchange of nutrients and waste products into and out of the uterus, and attaches each piglet to the uterine wall.

"What we and the Chinese have unknowingly been doing is breeding for different placental sizes," Ford said. "While we have tended to select for piglets with high birth weight and growth potential, the Chinese have long selected on number of piglets born. A smaller placenta is more efficient, occupying less of the limited uterine space. Basically, you get more peas in a pod."

The researchers could identify the most efficient placenta by calculating the ratio of piglet weight to placental weight. The greater the ration, the more efficient the placenta. "Surprisingly, we found three- to four-fold differences in this ratio within a litter," Ford said. "There were big piglets attached to small placenta, small piglets attached to large placenta and lots in-between."

To find that ratio, the researchers need some thread, a few clips and patience. As a sow gives birth, the researchers catch each piglet as it's born. They clip the umbilical cord in two places and attach matching tags to either end of the clips. The cord is cut between the tags, and the placental end of the cord retracts in to the birth canal. When the afterbirgh is expelled, the researchers can compare a piglet's weight to its tagged placenta.

The researchers wanted to determine whether American pigs have the genetic capability to produce large litters from small placenta. They bred Yorkshire males and females born with large placentas together, and did the same to those born with small placentas.

"In their first litters, the small-placenta pigs gave birth to three more pigs than those in the large-placenta crosses," Ford said. "Piglets born to the small-placenta crosses also had small placentas. We repeated the trial, with the same results. The results suggest we — or anyone — can select for litter size. It's very low-tech."

The researchers are now developing two distinct swine herds — one with small placentas and large litters, and the other with large placentas and small litters. "Our goal is to get two populations producing producing uniform litter numbers," Ford said. "Once we achieve uniformity, we can work on selecting for small, efficient placentas that grow large, robust piglets."

They wil study evidence that the small placenta is a maternal trait. If so, a small-placenta sow could be bred to any superior boar to achieve larger litters. They also will study whether there are placental-size differences among American breeds.

F.O. 4 October Milk $17.04

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Acting Market Administrator David Z. Walker recently announced an October 1998 weighted average milk price of $17.04 per hundredweight

The weighted average differential was 92 cents per hundredweight and the producer nonfat milk solids (NFMS) price was 72 cents per pound. The weighted average price was up 27 cents from September and was $2.94 higher than a year earlier.

The producer NFMS price was down 11 cents from last October. The nonfat milk solids price, applicable to handler payments, was 72.55 cents per pound for the month, down 10.90 cents from last year.

The gross value of October producer milk, adjusted to 3.5 percent butterfat was $83.3 million, compared to $67.9 million a year ago.

Mr. Walker said that producer receipts totaled 492.8 million pounds during October, an increase of 7.2 million pounds from last October and the average daily delivery of 3,408 pounds per producer was unchanged from a year earlier.

A total of 4,664 producers supplied Order 4 handlers during the month, an increase of 67 from a year ago.

Class I producer milk totaled 248.6 million pounds and was down 10.6 million pounds, or 4.1 percent from last October. Class I milk accounted for 50.44 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 53.37 percent in October 1997.

The average NFMS test of producer milk was 8.73 percent, down from 8.74 percent the previous year. The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.74 percent, up from 3.69 percent in October 1997.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 197.6 million pounds during October, a decrease of 1.2 percent from a year earlier, after adjustment to eliminate variation due to calendar composition.

Southern Wayne Conducts Junior Livestock Sale

NEWFOUNDLAND (Wayne Co.) — On Labor Day Weekend here at the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Fair, local youth successfully offered market hogs, steers, and lambs for sale at the Southern Wayne Junior Livestock Sale.

The sale's volume buyer was Waymart Milling Company, followed by Blooming Grove Sand and Gravel, John Petroski and Rob Flynn, livestock dealers, and Overboard's Restaurant. In addition, auctioneers Dan Naylor and John Regan volunteered their services for the benefit of the young people.

The first animal presented for auction was the 270 pound grand champion market hog raised by Nick Nebzydoski. Nick is a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters and a junior at Forest City Regional High School. Nick's hog was purchased by Honesdale National Bank for $2.75 per pound.

The reserve grand champion hog, a homebred animal that was a littermate to the grand champion, was raised by Kathryn Nebzydoski. Kathryn is a fifth grade member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club. Waymart Milling purchased this hog for $1.45 per pound.

Luke Megivern's grand champion market steer was a 1997 Calf Scramble steer that was bought by Waymart Milling Company for $2 per pound. Luke is a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters and a student at Forest City Regional High School.

Another 1997 Calf Scramble steer took reserve grand champion honors for Matt Hauenstein of the Creamton 4-H Club and Western Wayne Middle School. Matt sold his 1,375-pound steer to Blooming Grove Sand and Gravel for $1.20 per pound.

Eight animals were resold to benefit other individuals or an organization. Honesdale National Bank returned the Grand Champion Hog for the benefit of the G.D.S. Agricultural Fair Association. Honesdale National Bank also resold one lamb with proceeds to go to the Southern Wayne Junior Livestock Sale.

Dr. Henry Nebzydoski donated the reserve grand champion market lamb for resale to benefit the Green-Dreher-Sterling Fair Scholarship Fund. Corey Keating gave his sale proceeds to Tiffany Swingle, a local 4-H member in critical condition in Geisinger Medical Center.

Josh Zeiler donated the proceeds of one of his hogs to Tiffany Swingle, and the proceeds of his second hog to his brother Stephen, a recuperating accident victim. Carroll and Dawn Krautter donated the choice of a beef feeder calf to the highest bidder and returned the bid payment to Tiffany Swingle.

Northeastern, PennWest York Stockholders Vote To Consolidate

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Northeastern Farm Credit, PennWest Farm Credit, and York Farm Credit stockholders overwhelmingly voted their approval to consolidate into one new Farm Credit association.

The three Farm Credit associations conducted special stockholder meetings during the first week of November to vote on the consolidation. Each association approved the consolidation resolution by a considerable margin.

The consolidation will become effective on Jan. 1, 1999. The new association will be named AgChoice Farm Credit, ACA and headquarters will be located in Mechanicsburg at the Rossmoyne Business Park.

Allyn L. Lamb, chief executive officer of the three associations, commented, "We are very pleased that the stockholders have taken action to pass this consolidation resolution. AgChoice will be culmination of the best three Farm Credit associations have to offer into one association that will be poised to help our customers to further their business objectives and achieve their dreams into the next century."

Scholarships Available Through Keystone Farm Credit

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Keystone Farm Credit has announced the availability of two $1,000 scholarships which will be awarded in 1999

Phil Kimmel, president of Keystone Farm Credit, comments that he believes these scholarships are an investment in the future of agriculture and is pleased that Keystone Farm Credit is able to offer financial support to students who seek to further their education in this field.

Applicants must be high school seniors who plan to attend a four-year college on a full-time basis and major in agriculture or agribusiness. Another requirement is the applicants parent(s) or guardian(s) must reside in Keystone's servicing territory which includes the counties of Berks, Bucks, Carbon, Chester, Delaware, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia, Pike, and Schuylkill.

Notification of the availability of the two $1,000 scholarships was sent to both public and private schools as well as vo-tech schools in fifteen counties listed above. Interested students should check with their guidance counselors to secure an application form.

Applications are also available at any of Keystone's offices or by calling Donna Dawson at (610) 268-3864, ex 21. Deadline for submission of applications is Feb. 1, 1999.

Red Angus Top-Selling Lot

BOONES MILL, Va. — The first offering of Red Angus certified feeder calves in a Virginia Cattlemen's Association sponsored Tel-O-Auction was Nov. 17. There were approximately 1,000 mostly black and black white-faced feeders in that sale, but the top selling lot was a group of Red Angus-influenced steer calves.

Then on Nov. 2, the second appearance of Red Angus certified feeders in a Virginia Tel-O-Auction had history repeating itself. Red Angus sired steers (average weight 500 pounds) were the top selling lot from about 700 predominately black Angus feeders. The single lot of Red Angus heifers were also the top selling heifers.

Red Angus excel in the feedlot and on the rail, and are eligible for numerous premium branded "Angus" beef products. (Such as "Imperial Angus Beef," "Supreme Angus Beef," "Premium Gold Angus," "AngusPride," "Sterling Silver," etc.) Of additional interest, the feedlot owner who bought last year's top-selling lot returned this year. After spirited bidding, he bought every Red Angus-sired steer offered in the sale.

Red Angus breeders welcome commercial cattlemen into this "win-win" program. If you currently produce red-hided cattle, you know what the red-hide discount is. The simple switch to using a registered Red Angus bull in your herd may move your calves from discount to premium.

The Tel-O-Auction format is ideal for the breeder with a small number of calves. These calves are graded on the farm and delivered to a central location after the sale to be commingled with those of similar weight from other producers. It gives everyone the advantage of selling their cattle at load lot prices.

For information on the Red Angus Feeder Calf Certification Program, contact Joyce Tice, Mason-Dixon Red Angus Association, at (540) 334-5323 E-mail: deerwood@Roanoke. infi.net or The Red Angus Association of America, Marketing Dept., (940) 387-3502, Email: info@redangus1. org.

Junior Simmental Board Elected

BOZEMAN, Mont. — In recent balloting held at the National Classic XVIII in Columbus, Ohio, the American Junior Simmental Association (AJSA) elected 16 members to serve on the organization's Board of Trustees.

Trent Ricksger, Hubbard, Ore , was elected president of the 4,500-member AJSA. Four area vice presidents elected are Molly Ruggles, Ashley, Ohio from the Eastern area; Mike Moreland, Enumclaw, Washington representing the western area; Eric Gerdes, Danville, Iowa in the north-central area; and Dean Jousan, Joaquin, Texas, of the south central area.

WHY CURTIS?
FEATURE 1
HIDE AWAY HYDRAULICS
Our hydraulic cavity tucks away our power system. No belts and pulleys under the hood and no ugly box on the front of your truck. A 1/4" skid plate and gasketted top cover are also standard features. This system allows super or a rflow to radiator and provides instant down pressure w th added weight on the cutt ng edge
FEATURE 7 (OPTIONAL)
GRILL MOUNTED REMOTE LIFT SWITCH
Allows operation of lift cyl nder from fro it of truck to assist in plow installat on
FEATURE 4
FORMED CROSS MEMBERS
give an exclusive stability unseen in other plows
EXTENDED PUSH FRAME (4")
Clearly the widest push frame on the market. ADVANTAGE superior distribution of force through the plow system and not the vehicle frame
ATTACK ANGLE
Our modern designed moldboard features an 18 contact angle for a super or glide trip in most snow condit ons
PLATE STEEL A FRAME
This laser cut frame system joins 3 main members for a raw strength unequaled by the competitor's angle iron frames.
FEATURE 3
FOUR PIN PIVOT FRAME
Spreads weight evenly across frame and adds support to lower section of plow

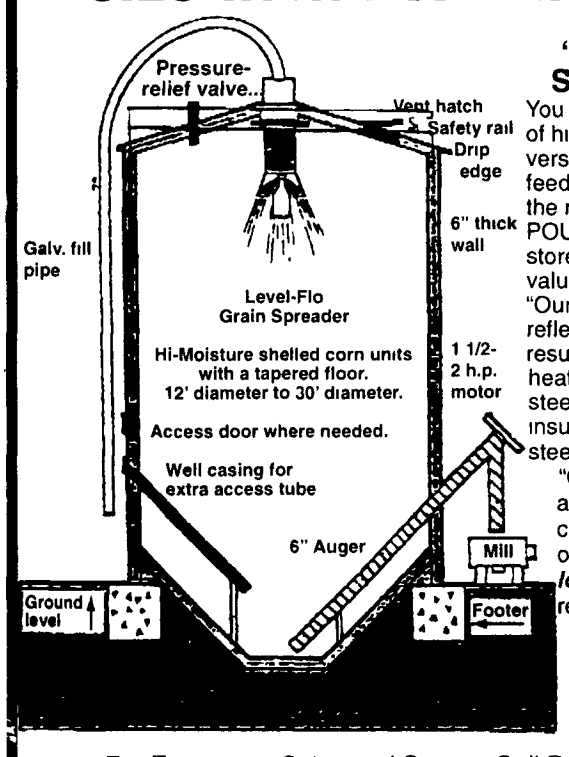
HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN SILO WITH HOPPER FLOOR



"Hi-Moisture Shelled Corn"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to prefab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

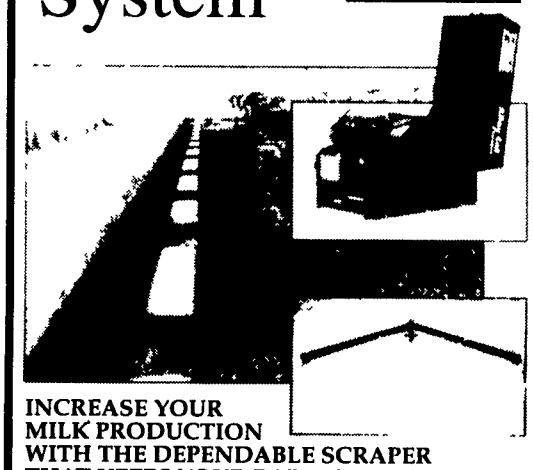
Alley Cat™
Cable Scraper System
YOUR ALL-IN-ONE FARMSTEAD EQUIPMENT SOURCE
J-STAR



INCREASE YOUR MILK PRODUCTION WITH THE DEPENDABLE SCRAPER THAT KEEPS YOUR BARN CLEANER!

A cleaner barn means a healthier, better producing herd The Alley Cat's proven "V"-shaped blade moves large volumes of manure at a safe 7' per minute in 7' to 14' wide alleys It automatically folds together for the return route The system features extra strength long-life 3/8" stainless steel cable for added dependability Plus its programmable timing feature cleans according to your - and your cows' - schedule But the real secret to the Alley Cat's reliable performance is in its powerful and efficient drive The drive system can pull up to eight scraper blades and clean up to 880' of alley length

Put less wear and tear on your tractor or skid loader, and start saving time and money with the Cable Scraper System that out cleans them all - the Alley Cat

SEE US AT THE PA FARM SHOW

Announcing New Products for Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers.

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high bypass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products
